TITLE III—DC SCHOOL CHOICE INCENTIVE ACT OF 2003

SEC. 301. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "DC School Choice Incentive Act of 2003".

SEC. 302 FINDINGS.

The Congress finds the following:

(1) Parents are best equipped to make decisions for their children, including the educational setting that will best serve the interests and educational needs of their child.

(2) For many parents in the District of Columbia, public school choice provided for under the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 as well as under other public school choice programs, is inadequate due to capacity constraints. Available educational alternatives to the public schools are insufficient and more educational options are needed. In particular, funds are needed to assist low-income parents to exercise choice among enhanced public opportunities and private educational environments, whether religious or nonreligious. Therefore, in keeping with the spirit of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, school choice options, in addition to those already available to parents in the District of Columbia (such as magnet and charter schools and open enrollment schools) should be made available to those parents.

(3) In the most recent mathematics assessment on the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP), administered in 2000, a lower percentage of 4th-grade students in the District of Columbia demonstrated proficiency than was the case for any State. Seventy-six percent of the District of Columbia fourth-graders scored at the "below basic" level and of the 8th-grade students in the District of Columbia, only 6 percent of the students tested at the proficient or advanced levels, and 77 percent were below basic. In the most recent NAEP reading assessment, in 1998, only 10 percent of the District of Columbia fourth-graders could read proficiently, while 72 percent were below basic. At the 8th-grade level, 12 percent were proficient or advanced and 56 percent were below basic.

(4) A program enacted for the valid secular purpose of providing educational assistance to low-income children in a demonstrably failing public school system is constitutional under Zelman v. Simmons-Harris, 536 U.S. 639 (2002), if it is neutral with respect to religion and provides assistance to a broad class of citizens who direct government aid to religious and secular schools solely as a result of their genuine and independent private choices.

(5) The Mayor of the District of Columbia, the Chairman of the Education Committee of the City Council of the District of Columbia, and the President of the District of Columbia Board of Education support this title.

(6) This title provides additional money for the District of Columbia public schools and therefore money for scholarships is not being taken out of money that would otherwise go to the District of Columbia public schools.

(7) This title creates a 5-year program tailored to the current needs and particular circumstances of low-income children in District of Columbia schools. This title does not establish parameters or requirements for other school choice programs.

SEC. 303. PURPOSE.

The purpose of this title is to provide low-income parents residing in the District of Columbia, particularly parents of students who attend elementary schools or secondary schools identified for improvement, corrective action, or restructuring under section 1116 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 6316), with expanded opportunities for enrolling their children in higher-performing schools in the District of Columbia.

SEC. 304. GENERAL AUTHORITY.

(a) AUTHORITY.—From funds appropriated to carry out this title, the Secretary shall award grants on a competitive basis to eligible entities with approved applications under section 305 to carry out activities to provide eligible students with expanded school choice opportunities. The Secretary may award a single grant or multiple grants, depending on the quality of applications submitted and the priorities of this title.

(b) DURATION OF GRANTS.—The Secretary may make grants under this section for a period of not more than 5 years.

(c) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING.—The Secretary and the Mayor of the District of Columbia shall enter into a memorandum of understanding, as described in the statement of the managers, regarding the design of, selection of eligible entities to receive grants under, and implementation of, a program assisted under this title.

(a) IN GENERAL.—In order to receive a grant under this title, an eligible entity shall submit an application to the Secretary at such time, in such manner, and accompanied by such information as the Secretary may require.

(1) a detailed description of—

(A) how the entity will address the priorities described in section 306;

(B) how the entity will ensure that if more eligible students seek admission in the program than the program can accommodate, eligible students are selected for admission through a random selection process which gives weight to the priorities described in section 306;

(C) how the entity will ensure that if more participating eligible students seek admission to a participating school than the school can accommodate, participating eligible students are selected for admission through a random selection process;

(D) how the entity will notify parents of eligible students of the expanded choice opportunities and how the entity will ensure that parents receive sufficient information about their options to allow the parents to make informed decisions;

(E) the activities that the entity will carry out to provide parents of eligible students with expanded choice opportunities through the awarding of scholarships under section 307(a);

(F) how the entity will determine the amount that will be provided to parents for the tuition, fees, and transportation expenses, if any;

(G) how the entity will seek out private elementary schools and secondary schools in the District of Columbia to participate in the program, and will ensure that participating schools will meet the applicable requirements of this title and provide the information needed for the entity to meet the reporting requirements of this title;

(H) how the entity will ensure that participating schools are financially responsible and will use the funds received under this title effectively;

(I) how the entity will address the renewal of scholarships to participating eligible students, including continued eligibility; and

(J) how the entity will ensure that a majority of its voting board members or governing organization are residents of the District of Columbia; and

(2) an assurance that the entity will comply with all requests regarding any evaluation carried out under section 309.

SEC. 306. PRIORITIES.

In awarding grants under this title, the Secretary shall give priority to applications from eligible entities who will most effectively—

(1) give priority to eligible students who, in the school year preceding the school year for which the eligible student is seeking a scholarship, attended an elementary school or secondary school identified for improvement, corrective action, or restructuring under section 1116 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 6316);

(2) target resources to students and families that lack the financial resources to take advantage of available educational options; and

Each grantee shall ensure that the amount of any tuition or fees charged by a school participating in the grantee's program under this title to an eligible student participating in the program does not exceed the amount of tuition or fees that the school customarily charges to students who do not participate in the program.

(2) PAYMENTS TO PARENTS.—A grantee shall make scholarship payments under the program under this title to the parent of the eligible student participating in the program, in a manner which ensures that such payments will be used for the payment of tuition, fees, and transportation expenses (if any), in accordance with this title.

(b) ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES.—A grantee may use not more than 3 percent of the amount provided under the grant each year for the administrative expenses of carrying out its program under this title during the year, including—

(1) determining the eligibility of students to participate;

(2) providing information about the program and the schools involved to parents of eligible students;

(3) selecting students to receive scholarships;

(4) determining the amount of scholarships and issuing the scholarships to eligible students;

(5) compiling and maintaining financial and programmatic records; and

(2) MAINTENANCE OF PURPOSE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, funds made available under this title to eligible students that are received by a participating school, as a result of their parents' choice, shall not, consistent with the first amendment of the United States Constitution, necessitate any change in the participating school's teaching mission, require any participating school to remove religious art, icons, scriptures, or other symbols, or preclude any participating school from retaining religious terms in its name, selecting its board members on a religious basis, or including religious references in its mission statements and other chartering or governing documents.

(e) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—A scholarship (or any other form of support provided to parents of eligible students) under this title shall be considered assistance to the student and shall not be considered assistance to the school that enrolls the eligible student. The amount of any scholarship (or other form of support provided to parents of an eligible student) under this title shall not be treated as income of the parents for purposes of Federal tax laws or for determining eligibility for any other Federal program.

SEC. 305. SPECIAL STUDY OF SIMPLIFICATION OF NEED ANALYSIS AND APPLICATION FOR TITLE IV AID. (a) STUDY REQUIRED.—The Advisory Committee on Student Financial Assistance established by section 491 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1098), hereafter in this section referred to as "the Advisory Committee", shall conduct a thorough study of the feasibility of simplifying the need analysis methodology for all Federal student financial assistance programs and the process of applying for such assistance.

(b) REQUIRED SUBJECTS OF STUDY.—In performing the study, the Advisory Committee shall, at a minimum, examine the following:

(1) whether the methodology used to calculate the expected family contribution can be simplified without significant adverse effects on program intent, costs, integrity, delivery, and distribution of awards;

(2) whether the number of data elements, and, accordingly, the number and complexity of questions asked of students and families, used to calculate the expected family contribution can be reduced without such adverse effects;

(3) whether the procedures for determining such data elements, including determining and updating offsets and allowances, is the most efficient, effective, and fair means to determine a family's available income and assets;

(4) whether the methodology used to calculate the expected family contribution, specifically the consideration of income earned by a dependent student and its effect on Pell grant eligibility, is an effective and fair means to determine a family's available income and a student's need;

(5) whether the nature and timing of the application required in section 483 (a)(1) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1090(a)(1)), eligibility and award determination, financial aid processing, and funds delivery can be streamlined further for students and families, institutions, and States;

(6) whether it is feasible to allow students to complete only those limited sections of the financial aid application that apply to their specific circumstances and the State in which they reside;

(7) whether a widely disseminated printed form, or the use of an Internet or other electronic means, can be developed to notify individuals of an estimation of their approximate eligibility for grant, work-study, and loan assistance upon completion and verification of the simplified application form;

(8) whether information provided on other Federal forms (such as the form applying for supplemental security income under title XVI of the Social Security Act, the form for applying for food stamps under the Food Stamp Act of 1977, and the schedule for applying for the earned income tax credit under section 32 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) that are designed to determine eligibility for various Federal need-based assistance programs could be used to qualify potential students for the simplified needs test; and

(9) whether any proposed changes to data elements collected, in addition to those used to calculate expected family contribution, or any proposed changes to the form's design or the process of applying for aid, may have adverse effects on program costs, integrity, delivery, or distribution of awards, as well as, application development or application processing.

(c) ADDITIONAL CONSIDERATIONS.—In conducting the feasibility study, the Advisory Committee's primary objective under this subsection shall be simplifying the financial aid application forms and process and obtaining a substantial reduction in the number of required data items. In carrying out that objective, the Advisory Committee shall pay special attention to the needs of low-income and moderate-income students and families.

(d) CONSULTATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Advisory Committee shall consult with a broad range of interested parties in higher education, including parents and students, high school guidance counselors, financial aid and other campus administrators, appropriate State administrators, administrators of intervention and outreach programs, and appropriate officials from the Department of Education.

(2) FORMS DESIGN EXPERT.—With the goal of making significant changes to the form to make the questions more easily understandable, the Advisory Committee shall consult a forms design expert to ensure that its recommendations for revision of the application form would assist in making the form easily readable and understood by parents, students, and other members of the public.

(3) CONGRESSIONAL CONSULTATION.—The Advisory Committee shall consult on a regular basis with the Committee on Education and the Workforce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate in carrying out the feasibility study required by this subsection.

and practicable in conducting the study required by this subsection.

(1) Interim report.—The Advisory Committee shall, not later than six months after the date of enactment of this Act, prepare and submit an interim report containing any such legislative changes as the Advisory Committee recommends to reform and simplify the needs analysis under part F of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1087kk et seq.) and forms and other requirements under such title to the Committee on Education and the Workforce of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate, and the Secretary of Education.

(2) Final report.—The Advisory Committee shall, not later than one year after the date of enactment of this Act, prepare and submit a full final report on the study, including recommendations for regulatory and administrative changes required by this section, to the Committee on Education and the Workforce of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate, and the Secretary of Education.

(f) Implementation.—The Secretary of Education shall consult with the Committee on Education and the Workforce of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate and shall subsequently initiate a redesign of the form required by section 483 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1090). Such redesign shall include the testing of alternative simplified versions of the free federal form. (d) Timing and Application of Determinations.—Determinations of the increase in liability pursuant to subsection (b) shall be made as of December 31, 2003, using the mortality and interest assumptions otherwise applicable to plan terminations under title IV of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 on such date. The recomputation under this section shall apply only with respect to benefits payable after such date.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 2673) making appropriations for Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2004, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report.

This conference agreement includes the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2004; the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2004; the District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 2004; the Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 2004; the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2004; the Transportation, Treasury, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 2004; the Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 2004; and the Miscellaneous Appropriations and Offsets Act, 2004.

DIVISION A—AGRICULTURE, RURAL DEVELOPMENT, FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2004

CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTIVES

The statement of the managers remains silent on provisions that were in both the House and Senate bills that remain unchanged by this conference agreement, except as noted in this statement of the managers.

The conferees agree that executive branch wishes cannot substitute for Congress's own statements as to the best evidence of congressional intentions—that is, the official reports of the Congress. The conferees further point out that funds in this Act must be used for the purposes for which appropriated, as required by section 1301 of title 31 of the United States Code, which provides: "Appropriations shall be applied only to the objects for which the appropriations were made except as otherwise provided by law."

The House and Senate report language that is not changed by the conference is approved by the committee of conference. The statement of the managers, while repeating some report language for emphasis, does not intend to negate the language referred to above unless expressly provided herein.

In cases in which the House or the Senate have directed the submission of a report, such report is to be submitted to both the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations.

In instances where the conference report refers to "the Committees," it is the intent of the managers to mean the Committees on Appropriations of both House and Senate.

TITLE I—AGRICULTURAL PROGRAMS

PRODUCTION, PROCESSING, AND MARKETING

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

The conference agreement provides $5,092,000 for the Office of the Secretary instead of $3,468,000 as proposed by the House and $10,046,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees note that the Congress included an authorization in the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (Section 10802) for a food biotechnology education program. This program is intended to provide the public with science-based evidence on the safety of foods produced with biotechnology for human consumption. The conferees direct the Secretary to provide the Committees with a defined plan within 30 days of enactment of this bill, detailing how the USDA intends to implement this food biotechnology education program and fulfill this statutory requirement.

The conferees agree that emergency preparedness related to field crops, farm animals and food processing and distribution is of critical importance, and that the agriculture and food sectors are part of the critical infrastructure requiring heightened attention and protection. Given the integral roles of state and local governments and the private sector in detecting, deterring and responding to acts of agro-terrorism, the conferees expect the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Homeland Security to coordinate efforts in assisting states, particularly by providing financial and technical support to initiatives oriented toward interstate cooperation in joint preparedness initiatives. The conferees are particularly interested in those states that have developed or are currently developing coordinated interstate initiatives.

The conferees note that as of September 30, 2003, $80,000,000 remains available to the Department from funds provided through the Emergency Response Fund (ERF), of which nearly $9,000,000 is available to the Secretary. Since these funds were provided, USDA has been one of the slowest Federal agencies to obligate its ERF funds. The conferees are aware of concerns about security, such as those raised by GAO and the USDA Inspector General in recent reports and in news reports regarding "table top" homeland security exercises. The conferees urge the Secretary to act promptly to address identified security needs and to advise the Committees on Appropriations of needs for which additional funds may be necessary. The conferees further direct the Secretary to advise the Committees promptly of the results of any future homeland security exercises.

The conferees are concerned about the possibility of bovine spongiform encephalopathy entering the United States through the importation of live cattle. The beef industry is the single largest industry in American agriculture, and an outbreak of BSE would be devastating to the industry, and to the public's perception of the safety of American food. Accordingly, the United States has never allowed the importation of live cattle from a country that has been found to have BSE. The conferees believe that the Secretary should not allow the importation of live cattle from any country known to have BSE unless that country complies with the animal health guidelines established by the World Organization for Animal Health. The conferees also expect the Secretary to continue to abide by international standards for the continued health and safety of the United States livestock industry.

The conferees are aware of current efforts to begin a study of the use of conservation cropping techniques in southeastern North Dakota, northeastern South Dakota and western Minnesota. The goal of this study would be to identify conservation rotations, cover crops, seeding techniques, and residue management practices that would make conservation tillage acceptable and profitable in these climate transition areas. The conferees encourage the Secretary to support efforts to begin this study, as appropriate.

The conferees are aware that USDA was authorized to develop a Delmarva Conservation Corridor Demonstration Program in the 2002 farm bill, but has not yet done so. This program allows USDA to target the benefits of watershed-based conservation programs to farmlands that local stakeholders have determined to be the most ecologically and economically important, with the goal of maximizing the ecological and working lands potential of the landscape. The conferees encourage the Secretary to support this program, and remind USDA that the intent of the 2002 farm bill provision was to allow the Secretary and the states flexibility in using the resources of existing agricultural conservation and forestry programs.

The conferees encourage NRCS, through the Conservation Technical Assistance Program, to work with the Thunder Basin Prairie Ecosystem Association and the U.S. Department of the Interior to continue work to develop a comprehensive and multispecies land management proposal for more than 260,000 acres of Federal and private lands within the Thunder Basin National Grasslands.

The conferees strongly encourage the Secretary to work to ensure that no chicken purchased for the School Lunch Program contains fluoroquinolones, including the initiation of a policy to not purchase chickens for these programs from companies that do not have a stated policy that they do not use fluoroquinolones in their chickens.

The conferees are aware that the Farm Service Agency has been given new responsibilities in carrying out portions of the Trade Adjustment Assistance program as authorized in the Trade Act of 2002. The conferees direct the Secretary, within 60 days of enactment of this Act, to provide the Committees on Appropriations an assessment of the staffing needs for each state office to carry out these new responsibilities.

The conferees are aware that the mission of USDA is to support agriculture and rural development in the U.S. and around the world, and this mission is supported by American tax dollars. Therefore, the conferees strongly encourage the Secretary to make every effort to ensure that purchases made by USDA are manufactured or produced in the United States.

The conferees have provided a total of $3,300,000 for cross-cutting trade negotiations and biotechnology resources. Of this amount, the conferees provide $1,000,000 in the APHIS account, $500,000 in the FAS account, and $150,000 in the GIPSA account for these activities. Further, the conferees provide $1,650,000 to the Office of the Secretary for these activities, and direct that these funds shall become available for obligation only after the Secretary has provided to the Committees a detailed explanation of proposed expenditures.

The conferees commend the Department on the success achieved with the Lamb Meat Adjustment Program. However, the conferees also recognize the ewe lamb expansion portion was curtailed as a result of the serious drought conditions throughout the United States. The conferees encourage the Department to continue this portion of the program for an additional year.

The conferees expect the Secretary to seek the approval of the Committees on Appropriations before implementing a merger or reduction of any administrative or information technology functions relating to the Farm Service Agency, Natural Resources Conservation Service, Rural Development, or any other agency of the Department.

The conferees are concerned that transfers of funds from APHIS and ARS to the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) may result in a shift in focus away from agriculture, and fully expect the Secretary of Agriculture to seek assurances from the Secretary of Homeland Security that these diagnostic and research activities at Plum Island will firmly remain tied to agricultural interests. The conferees direct the Secretary to report to the Committees on Appropriations by February 1, 2004, on the funding amounts and the agricultural diagnostic and research activities at Plum Island that have been agreed upon by USDA and DHS for fiscal year 2004.

The conferees concur with the language and reporting requirement contained in the Senate report regarding geographically disadvantaged farmers and ranchers. In preparing the report, the Department shall work with the Farm Service Agency and all other relevant departmental agencies.

The conferees are aware that applications for the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program are increasing and exceed the annual $15,000,000 provided in the farm bill. The conferees urge the Secretary to take maximum advantage of additional resources available to supplement existing funding, in order to meet demand for the program.

In order to provide a safeguard against the further decline of the rice industry and wildlife habitat in Texas, and to provide information to the Congress in anticipation of and preparation for the 2007 farm bill, the conferees direct the Secretary of Agriculture to review the administration of section 1105(a)(1)(E) of Public Law 107–171 as it relates to the proper application and implementation of the conserving use requirements on rice base acreage in Texas. The Secretary shall review and evaluate the costs, benefits and effects of the conserving use requirements and actual plantings and production on rice producers, including tenant rice producers, the rice milling and processing industry, wildlife habitat, and the economies of rice farming areas in Texas, detailed by each of these affected interests and by the program variables involved.

The Secretary shall post on the USDA website and also provide to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry of the Senate and the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives an annual report detailing the progress and findings by February 1, 2004 and not later than October 1 of 2005 through 2007.

The conferees are aware that Section 10502 of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (P.L. 107–171) requires the Secretary to investigate the problem of non-ambulatory livestock, report the findings to Congress, and promulgate regulations to regulate the humane treatment, handling and disposition of these livestock if deemed necessary by the results of the study. The conferees are concerned that although the farm bill was signed into law on May 7, 2002, USDA did not publish a Notice of Request for Approval of an Information Collection in the Federal Register to begin collecting information for this study until October 28, 2003. The conferees direct the Secretary to work expeditiously to complete this study at the earliest possible time, and to provide copies of all interim reports as well as the final report to the Committees on Appropriations and the authorizing committees. Further, the Secretary is directed to provide to the Committees on Appropriations a preliminary report no later than March 1, 2004.

EXECUTIVE OPERATIONS

CHIEF ECONOMIST

The conference agreement provides $8,707,000 for the Office of the Chief Economist as proposed by the Senate instead of $8,716,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees direct the Department to submit to the Committees on Appropriations the biofuels report requested by the House by February 1, 2004.

NATIONAL APPEALS DIVISION

The conference agreement provides $13,670,000 for the National Appeals Division as proposed by the House instead of $13,997,000 as proposed by the Senate.

OFFICE OF BUDGET AND PROGRAM ANALYSIS

The conference agreement provides $7,740,000 for the Office of Budget and Program Analysis instead of $7,749,000 as proposed by the House and $7,544,000 as proposed by the Senate.

HOMELAND SECURITY STAFF

The conference agreement provides $499,000 for Homeland Security staff instead of $910,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House did not provide funding for this account.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF INFORMATION OFFICER

The conference agreement provides $15,493,000 for the Office of the Chief Information Officer instead of $14,993,000 as proposed by the House and $15,710,000 as proposed by the Senate.

COMMON COMPUTING ENVIRONMENT

The conference agreement provides $119,289,000 for Common Computing Environment instead of $100,999,000 as proposed by the House and $118,789,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees are aware that the acquisition of geospatial data and Geographic Information System technologies is critical to the Department of Agriculture's plans to modernize its County Service Centers and install a common computing environment that optimizes information sharing, customer service, and staff efficiencies, and dramatically improves the Department's ability to track and react to natural disasters, plant and animal disease outbreaks and bioterrorism events. Within the funds provided in this Act, the conferees encourage the Department to provide the appropriate level of support for the acquisition of geospatial data and Geographic Information System technologies.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

The conference agreement provides $5,684,000 for the Office of the Chief Financial Officer instead of $5,785,000 as proposed by the House and $5,496,000 as proposed by the Senate.

WORKING CAPITAL FUND

The conferees are concerned about issues raised by the Department's recent report on remote mirroring technology and expect the fiscal year 2005 budget request to adequately address these needs identified in the report, including how the costs of the remote data capability should be assigned and paid for by non-USDA users of the NFC as requested in the fiscal year 2003 Act.

The conferees deem the study submitted on remote mirror imaging sufficient to meet the requirement set forth in the fiscal year 2003 Act for release of funds. The conferees direct that of the funds provided in the fiscal year 2003 Agriculture Appropriations Act, no less than $4,000,000 shall be spent for the immediate implementation of an interim solution to address data vulnerability for mission critical applications, including data storage hardware and software, data replication software, and synchronous replication of the identified mission critical data. The conferees direct that this interim solution be achieved within six months of enactment of this Act.

OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR CIVIL RIGHTS

The conference agreement provides $808,000 for the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights as proposed by the House instead of $794,000 as proposed by the Senate.

OFFICE OF CIVIL RIGHTS

The conference agreement provides $17,450,000 for the Office of Civil Rights instead of $15,445,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House provided no funding for this account.

OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement provides $673,000 for the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Administration as proposed by the Senate instead of $678,000 as proposed by the House.

AGRICULTURE BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES AND RENTAL PAYMENTS

The conference agreement provides $156,469,000 for agriculture buildings and facilities and rental payments instead of $156,091,000 as proposed by the House and $187,022,000 as proposed by the Senate.

HAZARDOUS MATERIALS MANAGEMENT

The conference agreement provides $15,611,000 for Hazardous Materials Management as proposed by the Senate instead of $15,713,000 as proposed by the House.

DEPARTMENTAL ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement provides $23,031,000 for Departmental Administration as proposed by the Senate instead of $40,597,000 as proposed by the House.

OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR CONGRESSIONAL RELATIONS

The conference agreement provides $3,796,000 for the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Congressional Relations as proposed by the House instead of $3,825,000 as proposed by the Senate.

OFFICE OF COMMUNICATIONS

The conference agreement provides $9,228,000 for the Office of Communications as proposed by the Senate instead of $9,245,000 as proposed by the House.

The Committees directed the Office to provide them with copies of open source news material made available to USDA officials through the use of appropriated funds. The Office has not done so. Accordingly, the conferees direct the Office to begin doing so no later than 15 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

OFFICE OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL

The conference agreement provides $77,281,000 for the Office of the Inspector General instead of $78,114,000 as proposed by the House and $75,781,000 as proposed by the Senate.

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL

The conference agreement provides $34,700,000 for the Office of the General Counsel as proposed by the House instead of $35,343,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees note that the fiscal year 2004 funding level for the Office of the General Counsel does not provide funds to increase the number of Senior Executive Service employees of the Office. If the Office of the General Counsel determines the need to increase the number of SES employees in the Office, the General Counsel is directed to submit a reorganization plan to the Committees on Appropriations for approval.

OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY FOR RESEARCH, EDUCATION AND ECONOMICS

The conference agreement provides $596,000 for the Office of the Under Secretary for Research, Education and Economics as proposed by the Senate instead of $597,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees are concerned that research budgets submitted by the Department reflect a continuing disregard for Congressional program priorities. For a number of years, there has been no adequate justification presented to the Committees to support proposed project terminations. As a result, such proposed terminations have been disapproved by Congress, only to be resubmitted in a budget proposal for a subsequent year. The conferees direct the Under Secretary to end the recycling of proposed terminations that have already been rejected by the Congress. Further, the conferees expect that any termination proposed in the fiscal year 2005 budget will include a detailed justification in the explanatory notes accompanying the budget request.

ECONOMIC RESEARCH SERVICE

The conference agreement provides $71,402,000 for the Economic Research Service as proposed by the House instead of $69,902,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees encourage ERS to coordinate with the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and North Carolina State University to collect the economic data and do the statistical analysis necessary to study the impact that growth in the horticulture industry is having on that state's economy.

The conferees provide the requested increase of $1,000,000 for development of an expanded Security Analysis System for U.S. Agriculture (SAS-USA). This is a scenario-based decision system, which will aid in evaluating threats to the food system. Within the amount provided, the conferees encourage ERS to develop requirements for a system to use available agricultural data to circumvent an attack on the food supply chain.

NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS SERVICE

The conference agreement provides $128,922,000 for the National Agricultural Statistics Service as proposed by the Senate instead of $129,800,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees provide $4,800,000 for Agricultural estimates. The conferees encourage NASS to consider conducting Monthly Hogs and Pigs Inventory reporting, and Barrow and Gilt Slaughter reporting. The conferees also expect that both the potato objective yield survey and the potato size and grade survey will be continued.

AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH SERVICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $1,088,892,000 for the Agricultural Research Service, Salaries and Expenses, instead of $1,014,000,000 as proposed by the House and $1,045,533,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes bill language proposed by the Senate regarding a land conveyance.

The conferees have agreed to increased funding for the following laboratories and areas of research:

Budgeted increases, as follows: Babesiosis (Pullman, WA), $270,000, (Kerrville, TX), $630,000; Maize (Albany, CA), $180,000; Genetic Markers, Genomics, New Bioinformatics Tools (Ithaca, NY), $270,000: Computer Networking Capabilities (Beltsville, MD), $225,000; Soybean and Other Vegetable Oils (Peoria, IL), $360,000; Turf and Forage Grasses (Corvalis, OR), $135,000; Pink Bollworm (Phoenix, AZ), $225,000; Resistant Pest (Wapato, WA), $144,000; Asian Longhorned Beetle Including Emerald Ash Borer (Newark, DE), $270,000; Livestock Disease (Ames, IA), $270,000; Poultry Disease (Athens, GA), $270,000; Forensic Databases of Animal Diseases Including Nucleic Acid (Clay Center, NE), $270,000; Arbovirus Threats (Laramie, WY), $270,000; Merek's Disease (East Lansing, MI), $270,000; Foot and Mouth Disease (Headquarters), $315,000; Newcastle Disease (Athens, GA), $270,000; Emerging Diseases Offshore (Headquarters), $225,000.

The conference agreement provides $13,772,000 for increased costs associated with Federal employees salaries and benefits.

The conference agreement provides an additional $383,000 for the Children's Nutrition Research Center at Houston, TX, for a cooperative research project with Baylor College of Medicine and the Peanut Institute to examine ways to prevent the onset of chronic diseases and the growing problem of overweight children.

The conference agreement provides an additional $450,000 for increased investigation of the nutritional needs of pregnant and nursing women, and children.

The conference agreement provides an additional $225,000 for ongoing cooperative research between the Flint River Water Planning & Policy Center and the National Peanut Research Laboratory at Dawson, Georgia.

The conferees provide increased funding for the development of a wine grape foundation block of certified "clean" rootstock at Prosser, WA and direct ARS to ensure that this funding is not obligated toward other research.

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

The conference agreement provides $63,810,000 for the Agricultural Research Service, Buildings and Facilities, instead of $35,900,000 as proposed by the House and $46,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The following items reflect the conference agreement: Grape Genomics Research Center (Davis, California), $2,700,000; U.S. Agricultural Research Station (Salinas, California), $4,500,000; U.S. Pacific Basin Agricultural Research Center (Hilo, Hawaii), $4,860,000; National Center for Agricultural Utilization Research (Peoria, Illinois), $2,700,000; ARS Sugarcane Research Laboratory (Houma, Louisiana), $1,350,000; Northeast Marine Cold Water Aquaculture Research Center (Orono/Franklin, Maine), $2,700,000; Abraham Lincoln National Agricultural Library (Beltsville, Maryland), $900,000; Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (Beltsville, Maryland), $2,700,000; Jamie Whitten Delta States Research Center (Stoneville, Mississippi), $4,860,000; National Plant and Genetics Security Center (Columbia, Missouri), $2,430,000; Northern Plains Agricultural Research Laboratory (Sidney, Montana), $2,520,000; Center for Crop-based Health Genomics (Ithaca, New York), $3,870,000; Center for Grape Genetics (Geneva, New York), $2,430,000; Grazinglands Research Laboratory (Ft. Reno, Oklahoma), $2,160,000; U.S. Vegetable Laboratory (Charleston, South Carolina), $3,150,000; ARS Research Laboratory (Pullman, Washington), $3,960,000; Appalachian Fruit Laboratory (Kearneysville, West Virginia), $1,800,000; Nutrient Management Laboratory (Marshfield, Wisconsin), $3,690,000; and Upgrade Security at ARS Laboratories (Various Locations), $10,530,000.

The conferees note that there is widespread interest in additional construction and renovation of ARS facilities throughout the country. This is not surprising when considering the fact that many of the existing facilities are decades old. However, the conferees are concerned that there does not seem to be a master plan for addressing these needs. Rather, construction projects in several parts of the country have been described by various ARS officials as the agency's top priority.

The conferees believe that there should be a logical progression for determining what projects should be funded. Therefore, beginning with the fiscal year 2005 appropriations process, the Committees will not consider funding requests for projects for which a prospectus has not been completed and submitted to the Committees by March 1 of each year. Each prospectus shall, at a minimum, include the following information: the feasibility, requirements, and scope of the proposed project; details on building size, cost, associated facilities, scientific capacity, and other requirements; and details on existing and planned program and resource requirements. Further, the conferees are requesting the assistance of ARS in determining the merits and priority for these projects.

In order to begin this orderly review process, the conferees direct ARS to provide a prospectus for each of the following projects: Aberdeen/Billingsley Creek, Idaho; Animal Waste Management Research in Bowling Green, Kentucky; Forage-Animal Research Laboratory in Lexington, Kentucky; Laboratory and Office Facilities in Starkville, Mississippi; Animal Biosciences Facility at Montana State University; Red River Valley Agricultural Research Center in Fargo, North Dakota; Laboratory, Greenhouse, and Office Space at the University of Toledo; Dairy Forage Lab at Prairie du Sac and Madison, Wisconsin.

The conference agreement provides sufficient funding to complete all planning and design provided by the House and Senate, and construction phases as described in the Senate report.

COOPERATIVE STATE RESEARCH, EDUCATION, AND EXTENSION SERVICE

RESEARCH AND EDUCATION ACTIVITIES

The conference agreement provides $621,447,000 for research and education activities instead of $597,372,000 as proposed by the House and $617,575,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement provides an increase of $2,266,000 for Pest Detection programs of which $200,000 is to evaluate the utility of remote sensing (hyper spectral imaging and Light Detection Ranging) for the identification of ash trees, the early identification of emerald ash borer infestation, and the tracking and mapping of the diseased trees; $750,000 is for a cooperative agreement with the California County Pest Detection Augmentation Program; and $1,000,000 is to increase the domestic infrastructure for enhanced detection.

The conference agreement provides $18,632,000 for chronic wasting disease instead of $16,815,000 as proposed by the House and $20,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement provides that $1,750,000 is for the State of Wisconsin; $250,000 is for the State of Utah; and $250,000 is for the Conservation Medicine Center of Chicago.

The conferees expect the Secretary to continue to use the authority provided in this Act to transfer funds for the arrest and eradication of animal and plant pests and diseases that threaten American agriculture. The conference agreement adopts Senate bill language that prohibits funds from being spent to issue a final rule in Docket No. 02-06201 "Cost-Sharing for Animal and Plant Health Emergency Programs," and expects APHIS, in submitting apportionment requests for emergencies that threaten American agriculture, to disregard any arbitrarily imposed cost-share requirements for these funds.

The conference agreement provides an increase of $18,250,000 for Emerging Plant Pests of which $8,000,000 is for citrus canker eradication and control; $4,000,000 is for Asian long-horned beetle activities, of which $1,500,000 is for activities in the Chicago, Illinois area; $4,750,000 is for glassy-winged sharpshooter eradication and control; and $1,500,000 is for the Emerald Ash Borer Task Force for the removal of trees that have been affected by the emerald ash borer, with a priority for the removal of trees on public property or that threaten public safety.

The conferees are concerned that the continued presence of the emerald ash borer threatens the ash tree population in Michigan and other states, and direct the Secretary to provide to the Committees on Appropriations by March 1, 2004, a plan for addressing this problem.

The conferees are aware that the Asian long-horned beetle is extremely destructive and may spread to states where they do not yet exist. The conferees are also aware that this pest was recently found in Ontario, Canada, and are concerned this presents an additional threat to the introduction of the Asian long-horned beetle into Michigan and other states by way of commercial vehicles or other means. The conferees direct APHIS to do a comprehensive review of their procedures and regulations, and report to the Committees on Appropriations by January 1, 2004, on whether they are adequate to prevent the introduction of this or similar pests into the United States.

The conference agreement provides $5,491,000 for grasshopper and Mormon cricket suppression, of which no less than $1,000,000 shall be for suppression activities in Utah, and $150,000 for suppression activities in Nevada.

The conference agreement provides an increase of $100,000 for the Nez-Perce Biocontrol Center.

The conferees do not concur with the President's request to reduce funding in the wildlife services operations account to allow cooperators to assume a larger share of the costs associated with preventing wildlife damage, and protecting human health and safety.

The conference agreement provides an increase of $1,100,000 for a cooperative oral rabies vaccination program, and encourages the Secretary to use funds from the CCC, as necessary, for additional control activities in fiscal year 2004.

The conference agreement provides increases of $400,000 for hazing programs to manage the growth of cormorants in central New York watersheds; $75,000 to assist with the Nevada Division of Wildlife; $100,000 for beaver control in Kentucky; $200,000 for nonlethal geese control in New York; $175,000 for blackbird control in Kansas; and $125,000 for cormorant control in Michigan.

The conferees are aware of the Monkeypox outbreak in Wisconsin and other midwestern states. APHIS is working with the Centers for Disease Control to develop a comprehensive Federal response to the outbreak. The conferees urge APHIS to take all necessary steps to deal with the problem and direct it to provide the Committees with regular reports on the status of the situation.

The conference agreement provides $2,000,000 for the biosecurity program. The conferees have included language under the Office of the Secretary to ensure that veterinary diagnostic work at Plum Island, New York remains focused on agriculture. The conferees note that should APHIS encounter a shortfall in that veterinary diagnostic work, the funds in this line item may be used for that work, subject to reprogramming requirements in this Act.

The conference agreement provides an increase of $2,738,000 for Veterinary Diagnostics of which $1,000,000 is to enhance the laboratory network; $500,000 is to conduct anthrax diagnostics and related activities, and $750,000 is to update equipment needed to test certain animal samples in Colorado.

The conference agreement provides an increase of $2,225,000 for Wildlife Services Methods Development of which $1,300,000 is for the Predator Research Station in Utah; $100,000 is to enhance existing research efforts at the National Wildlife Research Center field station in Starkville, Mississippi; $200,000 is to expand the program at the Jack Berryman Institute for addressing wildlife damage management issues, and $400,000 is for the National Wildlife Research Station located in Texas.

The conferees are aware of the presence of chronic wasting disease in elk and deer in the state of New Mexico. The conferees encourage the Secretary to review the current situation and work with the state to establish, equip, and operate a state-run laboratory to conduct a rapid screening test for chronic wasting disease.

The conferees are aware of an outbreak of avian influenza in the state of Rhode Island. The conferees urge the Secretary to provide financial assistance to Rhode Island egg producers who have depopulated their flocks, as a result of this outbreak.

The conferees encourage the agency to support ongoing activities with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources animal nuisance program.

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

The conference agreement provides $4,996,000 for Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service Buildings and Facilities as proposed by both the House and Senate.

AGRICULTURAL MARKETING SERVICE

MARKETING SERVICES

The conference agreement provides $75,430,000 for the Agricultural Marketing Service instead of $75,953,000 as proposed by the House and $75,263,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes language regarding plant variety protection, as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees note that some of the additional funds may be used to improve scientific technical support of the National Organic Standards Board.

The conference agreement includes $14,700,000 for the Pesticide Data Program and $6,209,000 for the Microbiological Data Program.

LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $62,577,000 for Limitation on Administration Expenses as proposed by both the House and Senate.

FUNDS FOR STRENGTHENING MARKETS, INCOME, AND SUPPLY (SECTION 32)

The conference agreement provides $15,392,000 for Funds for Strengthening Markets, Income, and Supply as proposed by both the House and Senate.

PAYMENTS TO STATES AND POSSESSIONS

The conference agreement appropriates $3,338,000 for Payments to States and Possessions as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,347,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees direct that $2,000,000 be provided to the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade, and Consumer Protection for the creation of specialty markets. The conferees recognize the need to expand marketing opportunities for value-added products, and expect a report from the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade, and Consumer Protection, through the Agricultural Marketing Service, regarding short and long-term objectives and plans to meet this need by March 1, 2004.

GRAIN INSPECTION, PACKERS AND STOCKYARDS ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $35,890,000 for the Grain Inspection, Packers and Stockyards Administration instead of $39,690,000 as proposed by the House and $35,638,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees understand that the Secretary has undertaken a product verification protocols pilot, in conjunction with the Missouri, Illinois, and Iowa corn growers associations, to establish controls for regulated seed varieties and to augment grain marketing. The conference report provides $500,000 to continue this pilot program with the growers associations for development of production protocols.

The conferees are concerned about the management of the user fee program for grain export inspection and weighing services. The fee structure should fully fund the expenses of the program, as directed in the authorizing legislation. The funds appropriated by Congress for GIPSA's Salaries and Expenses account are meant to fund necessary personnel and operating expenses, and should not be used to fund deficiencies in the user fee account. In July 2003, the Secretary transferred $2,000,000 from the Salaries and Expenses account to the user fee account to avoid over-obligation in the user fee account. The unsustainable nature of the current fee structure is an ongoing problem. In a fiscal year 1998 supplemental, the fee account received an appropriation of $1,500,000 to avoid a violation of the Anti-Deficiency Act. The conferees are strongly opposed to the transfer of appropriated funds into user fee accounts, particularly in cases such as this in which the user fee funding shortfall is ongoing, predictable, and fixable. The conferees direct the Administration to immediately take all necessary steps to adopt and implement a fee structure that fully funds the services provided.

LIMITATION ON INSPECTION AND WEIGHING SERVICES EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $42,463,000 as proposed by both the House and Senate.

OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY FOR FOOD SAFETY

The conference agreement provides $599,000 for the Office of the Under Secretary for Food Safety as proposed by the House instead of $611,000 as proposed by the Senate.

FOOD SAFETY AND INSPECTION SERVICE

The conference agreement provides $784,511,000 for the Food Safety and Inspection Service, instead of $785,261,000 as proposed by the House and $783,761,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes bill language relating to enforcement of the Humane Methods of Slaughter Act, as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees provide increases of $4,250,000 for increased inspection staffing to accommodate industry growth; $5,650,000 to improve the scientific and surveillance skills of the workforce; $1,650,000 to establish a continuous baseline program for risk assessments and performance measurement; $4,460,000 to increase sampling for pathogens and to develop the laboratory capability to respond to chemical terrorism; $1,777,000 to increase the number of Equivalency Review trips and auditors to conduct the reviews; and $750,000 to design a mass media campaign aimed at improving the safe food handling habits of consumers at home.

The conference agreement provides the agency with $1,650,000 solely to outsource microbiological testing, as requested in the President's budget, with the goal of establishing a continuous baseline program for risk assessment and performance measurement. The conferees expect the Department to outsource baseline testing to private American Association for Laboratory Accreditation. International Standards Organization approved laboratories. The conferees direct the Department to report on the progress of this initiative within 60 days of enactment of this Act.

The conferees are concerned about the safety of imported meat. The amount of imported meat re-inspected by FSIS at our borders has dropped sharply in 2003. The conferees are also concerned that countries whose food safety systems have been deemed "equivalent" to ours (and whose producers are therefore allowed to export to the U.S.) may have serious weaknesses in their domestic food safety systems, but not be taken off the equivalency list.

The conferees request FSIS to report to the Committees by March 1, 2004, on the equivalence and reinspection processes. The report should address: how the agency determines that a country's meat inspection system is equivalent; whether this determination is subject to regular review and if so, how; what process FSIS uses for determining that a country is no longer equivalent; what public review of FSIS's equivalency determinations exists; why the amount of meat reinspected at the border has declined sharply; and how the agency's new automated import information system has impacted inspection operations at the border.

The conferees are aware that certain additional states have been approved for participation in the Livestock Risk Protection Pilots for swine and other livestock categories, but that this expansion was limited to ten states. The conferees urge the Department to expand the program during fiscal year 2004 to the maximum extent possible, including the states of Missouri, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE CORPORATION FUND

The conference agreement provides an appropriation of such sums as may be necessary for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation Fund (estimated to be $3,368,000,000 in the President's fiscal year 2004 Budget Request), as proposed by both the House and Senate.

The conference agreement includes Senate bill language that prohibits the discretionary funds in this account from being used to provide technical assistance for mandatory farm bill programs.

The conferees direct the Chief of the NRCS, in making the fiscal year 2004 Conservation Operations funding allocations to the states, to treat items under the heading 'Conservation Operations' in the Statement of Managers accompanying this conference report, as increases to the states' funding allocation. The conferees direct the NRCS to provide a report to the Committees on Appropriations, not later than 45 days after the enactment of this Act, that includes the following: fiscal year 2003 Conservation Operations allocation by state; fiscal year 2004 Conservation Operations allocation by state; fiscal year 2004 Congressional earmarks by state; and the total fiscal year 2004 Conservation Operations allocation by state.

The conference agreement provides $23,500,000 for the Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative. The conferees also provide an additional amount of $950,000 for Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative activities in the State of Wisconsin.

The conferees urge NRCS to make EQIP funding available for public land contracts to the maximum extent permitted under the law. In particular, the conferees are concerned that EQIP funding be made available for public land ranchers in states such as AZ, NM, ID, UT, OR, CA, CO, and WY to help meet regulatory demands and to relieve utilization pressure on private lands in those states.

The statement of managers remains silent on provisions that were in both the House directives as contained in H. RURAL COMMUNITY ADVANCEMENT PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides $757,425,000 for the Rural Community Advancement Program (RCAP) instead of

The Rural Housing Service is encouraged to work with South County Housing Corporation in Monterey County, California, on the Salinas Road Swing Housing Project.

The following table indicates loan and subsidy levels provided in the conference agreement:

RENTAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides $584,000,000 for the Rental Assistance Program instead of $731,000,000 as proposed by the House and $721,281,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees strongly support the Section 521 rental assistance program which helps approximately 264,000 low and very-low income rural households by providing a subsidy to offset a portion of their rent. The conference agreement provides sufficient funding to meet the needs associated with program renewals and new construction in fiscal year 2004. However, the conferees are concerned that the past budget requests for the cost of rental assistance have been overstated and have resulted in substantial unliquidated balances. In recent years, appropriations provided for five-year rental assistance contracts have been sufficient to cover a period of, on average, six and one half years. The conference agreement changes the contract term from five to four years to better reflect the actual costs of existing contracts. The conferees support the continuation of multi-year contracts to provide stability to the multi-family program. Further, the conference agreement provides the Secretary with the authority to carry-over unexpended funds at the completion of the four-year contract period to address future program needs for certain purposes.

MUTUAL AND SELF-HELP HOUSING GRANTS

The conferees provide $5,000,000 for a demonstration housing program for processing workers in the states of Alaska, Mississippi, Utah and Wisconsin. The conferees encourage the Secretary to administer this program through non-profits, governmental entities and community based organizations, including cooperatives and to fund grants up to 75 percent of the total development cost for each project awarded.

The Department should consider on-site tenant services in the selection criteria for projects awarded. The conferees encourage the Department to issue a notice of availability of funds within 60 days of enactment of this Act.

The conferees are concerned that only a few states benefited from the Supervisory and Technical Assistance Grant Program in the fiscal year 2003 allocation, and encourage the Secretary to consider an allocation process that will not discriminate against other states or regions of the nation. The conferees encourage the Secretary to limit funding to any state or territory to 10 percent of available funds, and to give priority to entities that have experience in homeownership education and/or reducing delinquencies and foreclosures. The conferees expect the Secretary to provide not less than $2,000,000 for the Supervisory and Technical Assistance account.

RURAL COOPERATIVE DEVELOPMENT GRANTS

The conference agreement provides $24,000,000 for Rural Cooperative Development Grants instead of $13,000,000 as proposed by the House and $8,967,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement does not include bill language that sets aside $500,000 for cooperative research agreements.

The conference agreement provides $15,000,000 for value-added agricultural product market development grants.

The conference agreement adopts language for cooperatives or associations of cooperatives, whose primary focus is to provide assistance to small, minority producers and whose governing board and/or membership is comprised of at least 75 percent minority.

The conference agreement adopts bill language that provides guaranteed underwriting loans.

The conference agreement adopts House language providing for a transfer of $37,853,000 to salaries and expenses instead of $38,166,000 as proposed by the House and $37,920,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees are aware of and encourage the Secretary to support the utilization of remote telemedicine services capable of transmitting medical information in both real-time and stored scenarios for diagnosis, medical monitoring, and emergency purposes. Furthermore, the conferees recognize the need for integration and interoperability of real-time remote mobile medical technology with other devices, systems, and services which together offer increased capabilities, functionality, and levels of care.

TITLE IV—DOMESTIC FOOD PROGRAMS

OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY FOR FOOD, NUTRITION AND CONSUMER SERVICES

The conference agreement provides $599,000 for the Office of the Under Secretary for Food, Nutrition and Consumer Services, as proposed by the House, instead of $611,000 as proposed by the Senate.

FOOD AND NUTRITION SERVICE

CHILD NUTRITION PROGRAMS

The conference agreement provides $11,417,441,000 for Child Nutrition Programs, instead of $11,418,441,000, as proposed by both the House and Senate. The conference amount includes full funding of the request for program expenses, and $5,000,000 for a certification study, instead of $6,000,000 as requested.

Included in the total is an appropriated amount of $6,717,780,000 and a transfer from section 32 of $4,699,661,000.

The conference agreement includes a provision prohibiting use of funds for studies and evaluations, except as specifically provided.

The conferees provide $5,000,000 in one-time funding for a study of over and under certification errors and the effect those errors have on expenditures in the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs, and an assessment of the feasibility of using income data matching in those programs. The conferees are aware that this study will provide information necessary to make informed policy decisions regarding these programs, but direct the Department to work to ensure that neither the design nor implementation of the study will discourage participation in these programs by eligible children.

The conferees provide $10,025,000, the same level as fiscal year 2003 and the budget request, for the School Meals Initiative/Team Nutrition. The conferees believe it is important to support physical activity and healthy eating habits in children and strongly support the nutrition education activities carried out with these funds. The conferees encourage the Department to provide additional funding to support these efforts as appropriate to combat increased obesity and other health problems in children.

The conference agreement provides the following for Child Nutrition programs:

Total Obligational Authority

Child Nutrition Programs:
School lunch program	$6,683,704,000
School breakfast program	1,797,923,000
Child and adult care food program	2,019,045,000
Summer food service program	308,653,000
Special milk program	15,270,000
State administrative expenses	140,240,000

SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTAL NUTRITION PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS, AND CHILDREN (WIC)

The conference agreement provides $4,639,232,000 for the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC), as proposed by the Senate, instead of $4,588,310,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement includes no less than $15,000,000 for a breastfeeding support initiative. In addition, the conference agreement provides up to $25,000,000 for investments in management information systems, and up to $4,000,000 for pilot projects to combat obesity in children, if the Secretary determines that those funds are not needed to maintain caseload. The conferees provide $23,000,000 for the Farmers' Market Nutrition Program, instead of $25,000,000 as proposed by the Senate, and no funding as proposed by the House. The House had funded this program at $20,000,000 under the Commodity Assistance Program account.

The conference agreement does not provide funds to increase the WIC contingency fund. The conferees note that $125,000,000 was provided for the WIC contingency fund in fiscal year 2003, and the entire amount remains available to the Secretary to fund program costs if necessary.

The conferees urge the Secretary to allow state and local WIC agencies the flexibility to use breastfeeding promotion and support methods and efforts that have yielded positive results, in the expenditure of funds provided for under Section 17 for the breastfeeding support initiative.

The conference agreement includes a provision prohibiting use of funds for studies and evaluations.

FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides $30,945,981,000 for the Food Stamp Program, instead of $27,745,981,000, as proposed by the House and $29,945,981,000 as proposed by the Senate. Included in this amount is a reserve of $3,000,000,000, instead of $2,000,000,000, as proposed in the budget request.

The conference agreement includes a provision prohibiting use of funds for studies and evaluations.

COMMODITY ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides $150,000,000 for the Commodity Assistance Program, instead of $166,072,000, as proposed by the House and $145,740,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Within that amount, the conference agreement provides $98,919,000 for the Commodity Supplemental Food Program, an increase of $3,928,000 over the request and the House and Senate levels.

The conferees have provided this increase to address the growing caseload in this program. USDA has indicated that, at the request level of $94,991,000, the total budgetary resources available for fiscal year 2004 for the program—including beginning inventory—would be sufficient to support participation of 520,642, and caseload of 536,744. The conferees expect the Department to make the full amount of those budgetary resources available to support participation and caseload. The intention of the conferees is to ensure at a minimum that the final caseload in September, 2003, can be maintained in 2004, while meeting the requirement to protect the caseload of states that joined the program in 2003.

The conferees provide $50,000,000 for administration—processing, storage, transport, and distribution—of The Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP). The conference agreement includes a general provision that provides the Secretary with authority to transfer up to $10,000,000 from TEFAP commodity purchases to administration.

Within this account, the conferees provide $1,081,000 to the Food Donations Program for Pacific Island Assistance.

The conference agreement does not include funding for the Farmers' Market Nutrition Program in this account, as proposed by the House. Rather, $23,000,000 in funding for that program is provided in the account for The Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC).

The conference agreement includes language regarding new authorization for assistance to nuclear affected islands.

NUTRITION PROGRAMS ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement provides $138,304,000 for Nutrition Programs Administration, as proposed by the Senate, instead of $140,512,000 as proposed by the House. Included in this amount is not less than $4,000,000 to improve integrity in the Food Stamp Program and Child Nutrition Program.

The conferees provide the same funding level as fiscal year 2003 for studies and evaluations in the Nutrition Programs Administration account.

The conference agreement does not include funding for the requested initiatives, as proposed by the House.

TITLE V—FOREIGN ASSISTANCE AND RELATED PROGRAMS

FOREIGN AGRICULTURAL SERVICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $132,148,000 for the Foreign Agricultural Service, Salaries and Expenses instead of $133,924,000 as proposed by the House and $131,648,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees direct the Secretary to distinguish between white (food grade) sorghum and yellow (feed grade) sorghum in food aid programs.

PUBLIC LAW 480 TITLE I AND TITLE II PROGRAM AND GRANT ACCOUNTS

The conference agreement provides $103,887,000 for Title I loan subsidies for a loan level of $132,000,000 as proposed by the House instead of $131,670,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement provides $28,000,000 for Ocean Freight Differential as proposed by the House and the Senate.

The conference agreement provides $1,192,000,000 for Public Law 480 Title II as proposed by the House and the Senate.

The following table reflects the conference agreement for Public Law 480 program accounts:

Public Law 480

Title 1—Program account:
Loan authorization, direct	($132,000,000)
Loan subsidies	103,887,000
Ocean freight differential	28,000,000
Title II—Commodities for disposition abroad:
Program level	(1,192,000,000)
Appropriation	1,192,000,000
Salaries and expenses:
Foreign Agricultural Service (transfer to FAS)	1,059,000
Farm Service Agency (transfer to FSA)	1,075,000

The conferees direct the administration not to place arbitrary limits on monetization under the Public Law 480, Title II, program. In food-deficit, import-reliant countries, monetization stimulates the economy and allows needed commodities to be provided in the marketplace. Food aid proposals should be approved based on the merits of the program plan to promote food security and improve people's lives, not on the level of monetization.

MCGOVERN-DOLE INTERNATIONAL FOOD FOR EDUCATION AND CHILD NUTRITION PROGRAM GRANTS

The conference agreement provides $50,000,000 for the McGovern-Dole International Food for Education and Child Nutrition Program instead of $56,874,000 as proposed by the House and $25,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Although Food for Progress funds may not be used for the McGovern-Dole program, the conferees support the goals of that program and encourage the Secretary to investigate use of other resources, such as 416(b), to carry out activities consistent with the goals of the McGovern-Dole program.

COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION EXPORT LOANS PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The conference agreement provides $4,152,000 for the Commodity Credit Corporation Export Loans Program Account as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,312,000 as proposed by the House.

TITLE VI—RELATED AGENCIES AND FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

The conference agreement also makes mammography user fees and export certification user fees available to the agency.

Within the total funding for the Food and Drug Administration, the following increases above the fiscal year 2003 level are provided: $20,500,000 for counterterrorism and food safety activities; $8,000,000 to reduce review times and increase the number of generic drugs on the market; $4,000,000 for activities to support the Best Pharmaceuticals for Children Act; $3,000,000 for activities related to patient safety; $650,000 to improve FDA's over the counter drug program; and $1,145,000 to continue implementation of the Unified Financial Management System. Amounts provided above the budget request include: $9,000,000 for increased medical device review; $600,000 for the Office of Women's Health; $692,000 for the CFSAN Adverse Events Reporting System; $150,000 for the Agricultural Products Food Safety Laboratory; and $500,000 for dietary supplements.

The conference agreement includes language allowing for the collection and use of authorized user fees, and does not allow user fees collected in excess of the limitation to be credited to the various accounts and to remain available until expended. The conference agreement also allows for fees assessed prior to fiscal year 2004 but credited during fiscal year 2004 to be added to the account. Language is included to release the requirement of Section 521 of P.L. 107–188.

The conference agreement includes $2,375,000 for relocation expenses related to the move of the Center for Drug Evaluation and Research offices to the consolidated White Oak campus. Carryover funds available in the Prescription Drug User Fee Account should fund the remaining amount needed for the relocation.

The conferees are aware that language to authorize the Animal Drug User Fee Act has been passed by the House and Senate, but has not yet been signed into law. Therefore, the conferees have included language in the bill required for FDA to collect these fees, but prohibit FDA to begin collection until the authorization has been signed into law.

The conference report provides funding of $21,607,000 for Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy (BSE) prevention activities.

The conference agreement recommendation includes a total of $9,445,000 for the Unified Financial Management System (UFMS), an increase of $1,145,000. The conferees direct that, from this total amount, no less than $4,503,000 is to be invested in improvements to FDA's legacy systems and is not to be used for UFMS contracts or global UFMS costs.

The conferees provide $1,900,000 for the Agricultural Products Food Safety Laboratory, an increase of $150,000 over the fiscal year 2003 level, for FDA to continue its contract with New Mexico State University's Physical Sciences Laboratory to operate the Food Technology Evaluation Laboratory, which conducts evaluation and development of rapid screening methodologies, technologies, and instrumentation; and to provide technology deployment modeling and data analysis for food safety and product safety in order to facilitate FDA's regulations and responsibilities in food safety, product safety, homeland security, bioterrorism, and other initiatives.

The conferees direct that no less than $13,270,000 be available for grants and contracts awarded under section 5 of the Orphan Drug Act.

The conferees request that FDA report to the Committees on its oversight plan regarding the adequacy of current systems for the tracking of blood-derived products and patient notification of adverse events.

The conferees are pleased that the FDA has published a rule articulating a transition strategy for removing chlorofluorocarbon (CFC) propelled medicines from the U.S. market. The conferees are aware that several patient and physician organizations which represent those who suffer from asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease submitted a Citizen Petition to the FDA requesting that it take measures to remove albuterol from the list of essential uses for CFCs. The conferees encourage the FDA to respond to the petition request in a timely manner and, if appropriate, expeditiously implement a transition strategy as alternative non-CFC products enter the U.S. market. The conferees request a report from the agency on its course of action regarding this issue, including plans to assure adequate access to necessary medications, within 90 days of enactment.

The conferees direct that no less than $53,750,000 of total funding appropriated for FDA be provided for the generic drugs program.

The conferees direct that none of the funds made available to the Food and Drug Administration in this Act be used for any assessments or charges by the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) unless identified in the FDA budget justification and provided in this Act, or approved by the Committees through the reprogramming process.

The conference agreement does not include language relating to human resources consolidation, as proposed by the House. The directive in the preceding paragraph includes that function, as well as all others subject to charges and assessments by DHHS.

The conference agreement includes no less than $250,000 for research and education activities with the Interstate Shellfish Sanitation Commission (ISSC) to focus on efforts relating to Vibrio vulnificus.

The conferees are concerned that FDA registration requirements for the licensed beverage industry under the Interim Final Rule published October 10, 2003, duplicate the requirements of registration at the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau (TTB) of the U.S. Department of the Treasury. The conferees direct FDA to report to the Committees within 60 days of enactment on the scope of duplication, a description of data required by FDA but not by TTB, the estimated cost of transferring TTB registration data into the FDA system, and the timeframe in which the transfer could be accomplished, to avoid duplication and unnecessary costs to the industry.

The conferees are concerned that different Federal agencies have published information on the level of methyl mercury exposure that is considered safe for humans, which may be confusing to consumers. The conferees understand that in the last nine months, FDA and the Environmental Protection Agency have been working together to develop a single joint advisory that will contain advice about all types of fish (commercial and locally caught). The conferees expect FDA to provide a copy of the resulting draft joint advisory to the Committees by January 2, 2004.

The conferees direct that no less than $250,000 be provided to process comments submitted in response to Docket No. 95N–0304 published in the Federal Register on March 5, 2003 (68 FR 10417) and related activities.

The conferees are aware that the Food and Drug Administration has issued a final rule regarding the labeling of dietary supplements containing ginseng (68 Fed. Reg. 167, August 28, 2003) and has indicated that the industry must be in compliance with this labeling rule. The conferees encourage FDA to ensure that this final rule is being fully enforced.

The conferees are aware that on May 6, 2003, the FDA issued a draft guidance document on current good manufacturing practices for the medical gas industry, and that numerous comments were received on this draft prior to the deadline for public comments. The conferees expect the Agency to give consideration to each of these comments, and to respond to each comment accordingly. The conferees also encourage the FDA to undertake a risk-based and cost-benefit analysis before finalizing this document.

The conferees direct that of the funding provided, no less than $10,900,000, an increase of $500,000 be made available for the regulation of dietary supplements.

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

The conference agreement includes $7,000,000 for the repair and improvement of existing buildings and facilities, instead of $6,000,000 as proposed by the House and $7,948,000 as proposed by the Senate.

INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION

The conference agreement provides $90,435,000 for the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, instead of $88,435,000 as proposed by both the House and Senate.

USDA recently made efforts to limit abusive practices by attempting to reduce the number of credit card holders, issuing revised departmental regulations, and instituting a new system of alerts to catch abusive transactions.

The conferees commend the Secretary for moving forward to begin to address the problems with official credit and travel cards, and urge the Secretary to continue work on this problem. DIVISION B—COMMERCE, JUSTICE, AND STATE, THE JUDICIARY, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS, 2004

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees recommend a total of $106,687,000 for General Administration, Salaries and Expenses, instead of $106,664,000 as proposed by the House and $116,171,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees note that during fiscal year 2003, the Justice Department announced a number of new initiatives without consulting Congress, including creation of the Terrorist Threat Integration Center, the Terrorist Screening Center, and the Anti-Terrorism Advisory Councils. These follow the proliferation of task forces, a massive and evolving reorganization of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and various database initiatives in the previous fiscal year. No legislative proposals have been submitted to establish any of these entities; it is unclear what the long term funding needs associated with each of these will be; and most importantly, it is unclear what the overarching strategy is to reconcile each of these entities within the current structure of the Justice Department and blend them with other Federal law enforcement entities outside the Justice Department to ensure that law enforcement at all levels has the tools to effectively combat terrorism and protect citizens from traditional crimes. The conferees remain supportive of the Justice Department, and toward that end direct the Justice Department to submit with the fiscal year 2005 budget a rationalization of these various efforts with the goal of consolidating efforts to ensure that Federal law enforcement enhances its ability to prevent terrorist attacks and fight traditional crime.

The conference agreement adopts by reference House and Senate language providing an increase of $7,000,000 for the highest priority activities of the Chief Information Officer (CIO), as well as House language regarding a report on all existing and planned information technology sharing projects, and review and coordination of Justice Department information technology initiatives. The conferees will consider a reprogramming for information technology projects should additional funds be necessary. The conferees remain concerned with the proliferation of database initiatives and direct the Justice CIO to provide quarterly briefings. The conferees request the Justice CIO to submit a prioritized list of information technology projects to the Committees on Appropriations with the FY 2005 budget submission.

The conference agreement adopts by reference Senate language regarding funding for RFK building security needs. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding corporate fraud and Native American gambling.

The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding the creation of a position to oversee Department of Justice activities with regard to civil rights. The conferees expect this position to be filled by a senior career official with specific knowledge and experience in civil rights. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding posthumous award of Public Safety Officers Medal of Valor to the 414 public safety officers who perished on September 11, 2001. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding a comprehensive review of all training programs for State and local law enforcement.

The conferees adopt by reference House and Senate language regarding the Justice Department's core financial management system and direct the Department to consider a cross-servicing arrangement with another Federal agency to provide these services rather than building a system of its own. A study of such a cross-servicing option and other options shall be submitted by March 1, 2004. The conferees will consider a reprogramming for these activities as necessary. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding locks.

The conference agreement adopts by reference Senate language regarding quarterly briefings from the Office of Intelligence Policy and Review. The conferees do not adopt Senate report language regarding a study to consolidate Justice Department facilities out of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, but direct the Justice Department to submit a long-term plan for its facilities no later than June 15, 2004. The conferees do not include Senate language regarding transfer of the U.S. Marshals seized assets management program to General Administration.

The conferees direct the Justice Department to develop Memoranda of Understanding with the Department of Homeland Security and other appropriate Federal agencies regarding continued integration of fingerprint systems, automated booking capabilities, detention bed space needs, and transportation of prisoners.

The conference agreement modifies bill language proposed by both the House and the Senate regarding legislative affairs positions and workyears and associated funding levels.

JOINT AUTOMATED BOOKING SYSTEM

The conference agreement includes $19,176,000 for the continued operation of the Joint Automated Booking System (JABS), instead of $15,577,000 as proposed by the House and $23,176,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement adopts by reference Senate language regarding an increase of $3,200,000 for the deployment of JABS to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives. The conferees direct the Justice Department to submit a proposal with the fiscal year 2005 budget to fund JABS out of the Assets Forfeiture Fund, if appropriate. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding collaboration with other Federal law enforcement entities outside the Justice Department, and Senate language regarding a cost sharing fee proposal.

INTEGRATED AUTOMATED FINGERPRINT IDENTIFICATION SYSTEM

The conference agreement includes $5,100,000 for the planning, development, and deployment of an integrated fingerprint identification system. The House provided funding for these activities under the Identification Systems Integration account; the Senate did not fund this activity. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding continued collaboration on integrating fingerprint systems. The Department is directed to consult with the Committees on Appropriations regarding the status of this program.

LEGAL ACTIVITIES OFFICE AUTOMATION

The conferees recommend $27,034,000 for Legal Activities Office Automation instead of $30,136,000 as proposed by the House and $66,240,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees are willing to entertain a reprogramming from available balances should additional funds be necessary for continued deployment of this system. This report should include an expected final implementation date, and estimates for ongoing operations and maintenance costs for all components of the system.

NARROWBAND COMMUNICATIONS

The conference agreement includes $103,171,000 for Narrowband Communications as proposed by the House and the Senate. The conferees recognize that the Justice Wireless Management Office (WMO) has developed a plan to deploy interoperable radios to high priority locations as part of its overall plan to upgrade Federal law enforcement radio communications for the nation. The WMO may use available funding to augment state and local law enforcement interoperable radio communication systems as long as that equipment is necessary for the achievement of the overall WMO Federal radio interoperability plan. The conferees direct the WMO to consult with the Committees on Appropriations regarding this effort prior to obligating any funds. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding funding that will be available to the Justice Department and direction to revise program requirements. The conferees also adopt by reference House language regarding submission of status reports as directed in Public Law 106–553, to include an operational plan for expenditure of funds. The conferees also direct the WMO to submit reports to the Committees on Appropriations regarding the ongoing pilots, deployment to high priority locations, and collaboration with other non-Justice Federal law enforcement agencies.

The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding emphasis on interoperable radios, and Project Safecom. The conferees do not include Senate language regarding a spending plan.

The conferees include House bill language regarding transfer of radio funds from Justice law enforcement accounts to this account.

The conference agreement includes $1,000,000 for the Counterterrorism Fund as proposed by the House. The Senate did not fund this program. When combined with $20,000,000 in unobligated balances available in this account, a total of $21,000,000 will be available for obligation for fiscal year 2004 to cover unanticipated, extraordinary expenses as a result of a terrorist threat or incident.

The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding creation of a task force to better forecast detention needs; development of a Memorandum of Understanding with the Department of Homeland Security for their detention needs; and Senate language prioritizing extraditions. The conference agreement does not include Senate language regarding transfer of U.S. Marshals Service or Bureau of Prisons staff, or the Justice Prisoner and Alien Transportation System to the Detention Trustee. The conference agreement adopts by reference House and Senate language admonishing the Detention Trustee for attempting to address detention needs by contracting to construct a facility. The conferees underscore that any constructing, planning, supporting or contracting of new detention facilities is not an allowable use of funds provided under this account and directs the Detention Trustee to withdraw any solicitations for such activities.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL

The conference agreement includes $60,840,000 for the Office of Inspector General as proposed by the Senate instead of $56,245,000 as proposed by the House. The conference agreement includes funding for the Witness Security program as provided by the House. The conference agreement provides funding for the D.C. Superior Court and fugitive apprehension task forces under this heading as proposed by the Senate instead of under the Office of Justice Programs as proposed by the House. The conference agreement does not transfer funding for the Justice Prisoner and Alien Transportation System to the Office of Detention Trustee or transfer the seized assets management responsibilities to the Justice Management Division as proposed by the Senate but directs the Department of Justice to submit a report on the potential impact of such transfers to the Committees on Appropriations not later than March 15, 2004. The conference agreement provides funding for USMS construction under a separate heading, as proposed by the Senate. Fugitive Apprehensions.—The conference agreement includes $11,476,000 for all costs related to the regional task forces located in New York City, Los Angeles, Chicago, and Atlanta. Of that amount, $2,000,000 shall be for a new regional task force in the District of Columbia metropolitan area and $300,000 shall be for a task force in Billings, Montana.

These regional fugitive task forces [RFTFs] are full time initiatives, not ad hoc activities and shall answer only to headquarters, not the districts, as is already the case with the New York City and Los Angeles task forces. The USMS is directed to report to the Committees on Appropriations not later than April 30, 2004, on the accomplishments recorded by the RFTFs and to make recommendations based on workload projections on whether and where additional RFTFs should be created.

The conferees are concerned with the apparent duplication of fugitive apprehension capabilities among Federal law enforcement agencies. The conferees direct that the Department of Justice submit a comprehensive report to the Committees on Appropriations within 45 days of enactment of this Act describing all Department of Justice fugitive apprehension activities and identifying opportunities to consolidate these activities under the one agency that is best trained and equipped for fugitive apprehension. ASSETS FORFEITURE FUND

The conference agreement includes $21,759,000 for the Assets Forfeiture Fund as proposed by the House instead of $22,949,000 proposed by the Senate.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Of this amount, not less than $490,104,000 as proposed by both the House and the Senate shall be used for counterterrorism investigations, foreign counterintelligence, and other activities related to national security.

Strategic Growth.—Since the terrorist attacks on September 11th, 2001, the FBI has shifted its main focus from investigating crimes to preventing acts of terrorism. Inherent in this transformation is a greater emphasis on collection, management, and analysis of data and intelligence, and greater collaboration across all levels of law enforcement. The urgency to prevent acts of terrorism has required the infusion of substantial resources, with the FBI growing by over 50 percent in just three years. The conferees believe the FBI should thoughtfully absorb this massive infusion of personnel and capital through strategic long-term decisions, and therefore direct the FBI to submit a five year plan to the Committees on Appropriations not later than March 15, 2004, detailing the FBI's plan to succeed at its terrorism prevention and law enforcement responsibilities, including proposed agent and support personnel levels for each division. This review should also include long term capital improvement and infrastructure plans, training needs, and a review of current and future information technology programs to ensure that the FBI can better leverage technology.

The conference agreement includes $4,566,798,000 for the Federal Bureau of Investigation salaries and expenses account instead of $4,576,730,000 as proposed by the House and $3,885,989,000 as proposed by the Senate. The Committees on Appropriations are concerned that additional resources and staff provided for the Legal Attaché program are not being implemented as expeditiously as possible, and direct the FBI to consult with the Committees on Appropriations regarding this program. The conferees adopt by reference House and Senate language regarding a right-sizing review of the Legats. The conferees also provide language regarding increases in representational allowances.

Cyber Capabilities.—The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding a review by the Executive Assistant Director for Administration of information technology products and activities of the cyber division.

Hazardous Devices School.—The conferees are aware of the concerns of the FBI regarding the transfer of the Hazardous Devices School to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF). The conferees point out that the vast majority of explosions (more than 95 percent) occurring in the United States are not related to terrorism and are usually investigated and prosecuted at the State and local level. However, the conferees are willing to accept a proposal from the Department of Justice to merge and rationalize overlap for explosives training between the ATF, the FBI, and other law enforcement entities in the Justice Department. Toward that end, the conferees direct the Justice Department to submit, as part of its fiscal year 2005 budget submission, a proposal to better blend and eliminate duplication of explosives training and other law enforcement programs at the Department of Justice.

Organized Crime Enterprises.—The conference agreement includes increases of $33,943,000 for criminal investigations and white collar crime investigations. Of this, the conferees adopt by reference House and Senate increases of $14,603,000, 214 positions and 107 workyears for criminal investigative analytical support, and increases of $10,000,000 for corporate fraud investigations and $10,000,000 for other priority criminal investigations as recommended by the House. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding the College of Analytical Studies at Quantico, as well as the continuing education program for senior FBI agents and support staff and consultation with the Navy, as appropriate, regarding their advanced training programs. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding concern about the language program. The FBI shall provide quarterly briefings to the Committees on Appropriations regarding the language program beginning March 2004. The conferees also adopt by reference House and Senate language regarding a review of response capabilities.

Aviation assets.—The conferees are aware that the FBI aviation program has sought additional air assets. The conferees remind the FBI that it has previously been directed to provide a comprehensive needs assessment of the aviation program. The Committees on Appropriations will entertain funding increases for these programs in the context of a regular budget submission and priorities established by the Director, and pending an analysis of the existing aviation program.

The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding submission of an assessment of mobile command centers and the VITAL program.

Information Technology.—The Congress has provided the FBI with nearly $595,000,000 for Trilogy, some $216,000,000 more than the original cost estimate, to both speed implementation and enhance the overall capabilities of the program. The Committees on Appropriations are concerned that the basic software needed to operate the Virtual Case File is not ready to be deployed, causing another slip in schedule. The conferees stress the importance of deploying this program as expeditiously as possible, and direct the Trilogy Program Manager and Department of Justice CIO to continue to provide regular briefings on Trilogy in addition to providing the quarterly written reports. The conference agreement adopts by reference House and Senate funding increases of $92,736,000 for refreshment needs, operations and maintenance. The conferees also adopt by reference House language regarding submission of a review of the FBI's databases, with the goal of removing applications that have outlived their usefulness. The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding submission of a comprehensive information technology report, to include a complete list of all information technology projects; the stage of each project's development and deployment; base funding for each project, to include all sources of funding; and the outyear cost projections for each project, including recurring requirements for operations and maintenance. The conferees also include $10,000,000 for records management activities.

Trafficking.—The conferees adopt by reference House language regarding efforts to combat human trafficking.

Harold Rogers Prescription Drug Monitoring Program.—The conference agreement includes $7,000,000 to assist States in building or enhancing prescription drug monitoring systems, facilitating the exchange of information between States, and providing technical assistance and training on establishing and operating effective prescription drug monitoring programs.

Prison Rape Prevention and Prosecution.—The conference agreement provides $37,175,000 for implementation of the Prison Rape Elimination Act of 2003 (Public Law 108–79). The conference agreement provides up to $10,000,000 for the collection of statistics, data and research as authorized by section 4 of the Act; $5,000,000 is provided for the National Institute of Corrections for a national clearinghouse, training and education as authorized by section 5 of the Act; $20,000,000 is provided for grants to States to protect inmates and safeguard communities as authorized by section 6 of the Act. If the entire $10,000,000 provided for statistics, data and research is not utilized, the conferees expect these funds to be used to make additional grants to States. An additional $2,175,000 shall be transferred to the National Prison Rape Reduction Commission.

Victims of Trafficking.—The conference agreement includes $10,000,000 for victim services programs to assist victims of trafficking as authorized by the Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act of 2000. The conferees expect the Office of Victims of Crime to work with the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention on child exploitation issues.

Drug Courts.—The conference agreement provides $38,500,000 for the Drug Courts program. The conferees note that funding for drug courts is an eligible expense under the Local Law Enforcement Block Grant program, the Byrne program, and Juvenile Justice Programs.

Law Enforcement Family Support and Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention.—The conferees understand that sufficient funding is available in prior year unobligated balances to continue to fund these programs during fiscal year 2004.

WEED AND SEED PROGRAM FUND

The conference agreement includes $58,542,000 for the Weed and Seed program as provided by the Senate. The conference agreement adopts by reference the House report language requiring OJP to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations on the coordination of the Weed and Seed program with Project Safe Neighborhoods, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosive's Youth Crime Gun Interdiction Initiative and other Department of Justice and Federal programs.

COMMUNITY ORIENTED POLICING SERVICES

The conference agreement includes $756,283,000 for Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) programs instead of $682,933,000 as proposed by the House and $656,636,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement provides significant resources above the request to enhance the ability of the COPS office to accomplish their mission of advancing community policing practices. While the conferees appreciate the Administration's need to address its Federal counterterrorism responsibility, this need should not preclude the Administration from executing other law enforcement responsibilities such as local law enforcement programs aimed at ensuring community safety.

The table below displays the funding provided in the conference agreement compared to the level of funds requested under the COPS and Justice Assistance headings for similar activities and compared to the levels provided in the House and Senate bills.

COPS Hiring Program.—The conference agreement includes $120,000,000 for the hiring of law enforcement officers, of which $60,000,000 shall be for school resource officers. From within available amounts, $5,000,000 is for training and technical assistance. The conference agreement adopts by reference the House report language concerning events of national or regional importance and directing COPS to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations on "best practices" within 180 days of enactment of this Act.

Bulletproof Vests.—The conference agreement includes $25,000,000 for the Bulletproof Vests program. The conferees request that the Department of Justice conduct a study and submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations on the National Institute of Justice's (NIJ) voluntary testing protocols and minimum standards for body armor to determine the extent to which the efficiency of those voluntary testing protocols and minimum standards for body armor correlates with successful and improved law enforcement officer and public safety, and include any recommendations for improving the efficiency and safety of these voluntary testing protocols and minimum standards for body armor. The report must address, but is not limited to, the criteria used by the NIJ to establish voluntary standards of testing and evaluation to identify minimum performance standards for body armor critical to protecting officers from ballistic threats; when the NIJ last updated the minimum performance standards for body armor; the qualifications and factors used by the NIJ to determine the need to update minimum performance standards for body armor; why the NIJ testing protocols only rate body armor in the newest possible condition; and why the NIJ does not test the deterioration of body armor actually worn by officers in the field to determine if such materials and body armor constitutes to comply with the NIJ minimum performance standards during the warranty period of the body armor.

Police Corps.—The conference agreement includes $15,000,000 for the Police Corps program. The conferees are disappointed that the Police Corps program did not submit a fiscal year 2003 financial plan as requested in the fiscal year 2003 conference report. The conferees believe it is important for this program to standardize the funding provided for recruit training and require State matching funds for training costs. The conferees are also disappointed that the Police Corps program has not submitted the requested report describing OJP's efforts to incorporate terrorism prevention and response training into the Police Corps program and discussing the feasibility of establishing regional Police Corps training centers. The conferees expect this report to be submitted as soon as possible and the conference agreement again directs OJP to submit a Police Corps financial plan no later than 180 days after enactment of this Act.

The conference agreement provides $5,000,000 for training, technical assistance and grants to localities with highest priority needs. The conference agreement adopts by reference the House report language concerning coordination with other Federal agencies.

In addition, within the amount provided, the conferees expect the COPS Program Office, in consultation with DEA, to examine each of the following proposals, to provide grants if warranted, and to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations on its intentions for each proposal:

COPS Interoperable Communications Technology Program.—The conferees recommend $85,000,000 for the COPS Interoperable Communications Technology Program, in consultation with the Office of Science and Technology (OS&T) within the NIJ, as well as the Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA). This program shall utilize the expertise of all three organizations to create a grant program that is highly responsive to the immediate needs of the State and local law enforcement community and that takes full advantage of the expertise and lessons learned from OS&T's and BJA's research and development in the field of interoperable law enforcement communications, particularly project AGILE.

This program should address the critical need of law enforcement to improve cross-jurisdictional communication, intelligence and information sharing. Grants shall be exclusively available to law enforcement agencies. Consistent with the existing COPS grant programs, the COPS Interoperable Communications Technology Program should include a 25 percent local match requirement and be available to both rural and urban communities.

Grants shall be available for both voice and data communications systems. Grants for voice communications systems shall be available for system upgrades and technologies to make existing communication systems compatible. Grants shall also be available for data communications systems to enhance law enforcement's abilities to share intelligence and to integrate existing local law enforcement legacy databases.

The COPS Office shall ensure that all grant awards comply with existing standards adopted by the OS&T, BJA and OLES. Within the funding provided, $1,000,000 shall be transferred to OLES to continue the development of a comprehensive suite of minimum standards for law enforcement communications.

The conferees expect the COPS Office to work with State, local, and Federal agencies through the Global Justice Information Sharing Initiative to address the communications and intelligence needs of law enforcement.

The conferees direct the COPS office to develop and submit to the Committees on Appropriations, no later than 45 days after the enactment of this Act, proposed guidelines for the program.

The conferees understand the difficulties in attempting to balance the positive and the negative effects of a free trade agenda. The conferees are steadfast in their support of America's trade policy to create growth and raise living standards around the globe, and in return to increase the benefits to U.S. workers, farmers, consumers, and businesses. Yet, the U.S. Government must uphold its responsibility to enforce trade laws, particularly with China. If trading partners do not abide by the rules that are set in the global trading system, then U.S firms are not competing on a level playing field.

The United States Government has an obligation to ensure American companies are not forced to compete with foreign companies that are engaged in unfair trading practices, including receiving subsidies from their governments.

The conference agreement includes by reference House report language regarding the Trade Policy Body Review, Reports, Reorganization, Trade Promotion, American Trading Centers, Manufacturing and Services, Import Administration, Investigations/Operations, Office of China Compliance, Policy and Negotiations, New Shipper Review Process, Market Access and Compliance, Executive Direction/Administration, Human Rights Training, Trade Missions, International Standards, and Travel Expenditures.

The conference agreement includes funding to increase coastal ocean monitoring and prediction efforts for West Florida.

The conferees recognize and support the work of NOAA and the U.S. Coral Reef Task Force (CRTF) to protect and preserve coral reefs. Coral reefs are the most complex, species-rich and productive marine ecosystems. Reefs cover two percent of the ocean's floor, yet they support one-third of all marine fish species and tens of thousands of other marine species, providing essential fish habitat for endangered and threatened species, and harboring protected marine mammals and turtles. Coral reef fisheries yield 6 million metric tons of fish catch annually, with one-quarter of total worldwide fish production occurring in developing countries with coral reefs. NOAA and the CRTF are developing and implementing coordinated efforts to map and monitor U.S. coral reefs, research coral reef degradation, reduce and mitigate coral reef degradation from pollution and other causes, and carry out strategies to promote conservation and sustainable use of coral reefs internationally.

The conference agreement adopts, by reference, language proposed by the Senate under the headings of Budget Structure and Various. The conference agreement consolidates all NOAA coral reef funding under NOS. The conferees expect NOAA to prepare a spending plan for coral reef funding and deliver to the Committees on Appropriations, not later than January 15, 2004.

The conference agreement adopts, by reference, language proposed by the Senate under the heading of Coastal Ocean Science.

The conferees have provided a significant amount of funding during the past two years for the establishment of an integrated interagency ocean and coastal observing system. The conferees understand that NOAA has outlined a strategy for establishing a national network. The conferees expect regional entities to share the costs of the funding the establishment of an integrated interagency ocean and coastal observing system. Therefore, the conferees plan to require all participants receiving funding from the Federal government to contribute an equal share of funds in fiscal year 2005.

Of the amounts available under the Aquatic Resources Initiative, up to $750,000 is for Bluegrass Pride, Inc.

The conference agreement includes a new structure as proposed in the Senate bill for identifying and funding extramural research. The conferees direct NOAA to submit a spending plan within 30 days outlining the process for administering the program. The conferees do not intend for the new structure to restrict current participation by the external research community or by researchers identified with the National Centers for Coastal Ocean Science laboratories. The conferees do intend, however, that greater interaction and participation occur between the external research community and Federal researchers located at NOAA's laboratories.

NATIONAL MARINE FISHERIES SERVICE

The conference agreement includes $639,990,000 for the operations of the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS).

The conference agreement adopts, by reference, language proposed by the House under the heading of Regulatory Streamlining.

The conference agreement adopts, by reference, language proposed by the Senate under the headings of Base Funding, Regional Office Financial Accountability, Fisheries Enforcement, Enforcement and Surveillance, International Conservation of Sea Turtles, Decline Pacific Marine Mammals, Enforcement of International Dolphin Agreement, Gulf/Atlantic Turtle Excluder Devices, Fisheries Research and Management, Seafood Inspections, and Ecosystem Management.

The conferees remain concerned regarding the seismic and erosion conditions near the Southwest Fisheries Science Center (SWSC). The conferees understand that economies of scale may be achieved by collocating the SWSC with other NOAA facilities in California. In 1997, the Department of Commerce Office of the Inspector General issued a report, which highlighted options for relocation of the SWSC. The Committee directs NOAA to issue a follow-on report on the best location for SWSC facilities by no later than June 30, 2004.

The conferees expect NMFS to allocate sufficient funds to achieve ten percent observer coverage in the New England groundfish fishery, and in the non-directed fishery to the extent practicable, by no later than May 1, 2004.

The conferees expect NOAA to continue to support the Center for Coastal Studies' efforts regarding right whale protection and expect the final funding allocation to be based on recommendations of the right whale program coordinator at the Center.

The conference agreement adopts, by reference, language proposed by the House under the headings of Chesapeake Bay, Habitat Conservation and Management, NMFS Facilities Maintenance, and Saltonstall-Kennedy.

The conferees recognize the value of NOAA presence and programs in Louisiana in serving the northern Gulf of Mexico region. The conferees expect a report to be submitted by the agency on the development and installation of a Coastal Services Center to be established in the state and to serve the Northern Gulf of Mexico Region.

The conferees understand that on February 21, 2003, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) issued new regulations to increase the dimension of Turtle Excluder Device (TED) openings to protect endangered sea turtles. The Final Rule went into effect on April 15, 2003 in the South Atlantic and August 21, 2003, in the Gulf of Mexico. Industry representatives in Louisiana and South Texas have voiced concern about the impact of TEDs on shrimp catch and loss of income for the industry. Conservation groups and scientists, on the other hand, have expressed serious concern over the status of these turtle populations and have threatened litigation to ensure sea turtle protection. The conferees direct NOAA to work with the National Academy of Sciences on a multi-year, comprehensive in-water study designed to accurately measure shrimp fishery effort and the impacts of such effort on sea turtle mortality, including measuring turtle-shrimp trawl interaction in the inshore, nearshore and offshore waters of the Gulf of Mexico and similar geographical locations in the South Atlantic. The conferees expect observers to be placed on the commercial shrimp fishing vessels for the purposes of the study.

The study shall evaluate innovative technologies to increase shrimp retention in TEDs but also ensure the protection of endangered and threatened sea turtles. The National Academy of Sciences shall provide an interim report to the committee every six months summarizing preliminary findings.

The conference agreement includes language transferring funding to the Marine Mammal Commission.

The conference agreement adopts, by reference, language proposed by the Senate regarding the Gulf and South Atlantic Fisheries Development Foundation.

OCEANIC AND ATMOSPHERIC RESEARCH

The conference agreement includes $400,813,000 for the Oceanic and Atmospheric Research (OAR) line office.

The conferees support NOAA's efforts to provide national and international leadership on critical environmental issues, and to address the environmental research and development needs of internal NOAA customers, States, industry, and other Federal agencies. The conferees expect OAR to prioritize research efforts that have true operational benefits to NOAA.

The conference agreement adopts, by reference, language proposed by the House and Senate regarding a review of research requirements and a certain laboratory plan, and language proposed by the Senate under the heading NISA Alaska.

The conference agreement includes $12,000,000 for the National Undersea Research Program, of which $6,000,000 is for research conducted though the east coast NURP centers and $6,000,000 is for the west coast NURP centers, including Hawaiian and Pacific Center and the West Coast and Polar Regions Center. The conferees expect fiscal year 2003 funding to be available for Aquarius, and ALVIN.

Of the amounts provided under the climate research heading, $2,500,000 is for the Analytical Center for Climate and Environmental Change to enhance existing capabilities.

The conference agreement includes $500,000 to expand efforts of the Cooperative Sensor Development Laboratory in cooperation with the Atlantic Oceanographic and Meteorological Laboratory and the Pacific Marine Environmental Laboratory.

The conference agreement includes $3,525,000 for ballast water demonstrations and technologies, of which $1,700,000 is for a collaborative ballast water treatment test bed platform for the purpose of determining the effectiveness of injecting ozone into ballast water to kill invasive aquatic species. NOAA is directed to prepare, for the Committees on Appropriations, a report, no later than ninety days after the enactment of this Act, showing the impact of ozone in eradicating invasive species and the presence of any toxic effluents in the treated ballast water. Further, of the amounts provided $1,825,000 is for ballast water demonstrations to mitigate concerns in the Chesapeake Bay and the Great Lakes.

The conference agreement includes $994,000 to provide for an autonomous underwater vehicle, selected based on Brooks Act qualifications, for survey services in the deep water of the central Gulf of Mexico.

Supreme Court of the United States

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $55,360,000 for the salaries and expenses of the Supreme Court, as provided by the House, instead of $59,414,000 as provided by the Senate. The conferees are supportive of the funding increases and report language included in the Senate report concerning data systems, additional personnel, and the Metrocheck transit subsidy program. Within the funding level provided, the conferees ask the Court to fund these programs to the maximum extent possible based the Court's priorities. The Court's financial plan is expected to outline the Court's allocation of funding among these priorities. As described in the Senate report, the Court is also expected to report to the Committees on Appropriations on the savings associated with hiring systems accountants to replace contractors.

The conferees adopt by reference the House report language concerning minority hiring and diversity among law clerks.

CARE OF THE BUILDING AND GROUNDS

The conference agreement includes $10,591,000 for the Supreme Court "Care of the Building and Grounds" account, as provided by the House, instead of $4,658,000 as provided by the Senate. The conference agreement includes $20,662,000 for the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, as provided by the Senate, instead of $20,665,000 as provided by the House. The conference agreement provides no funding to establish a Deputy Circuit Executive, as described in the Senate report.

United States Court of International Trade

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $14,068,000 for the U.S. Court of International Trade, as provided by the House, instead of $13,210,000 as provided by the Senate.

Courts of Appeals, District Courts, and Other Judicial Services

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $3,994,176,000 for the salaries and expenses of the Courts of Appeals, District Courts and Other Judicial Services instead of $4,004,176,000 as provided by the House and $3,894,021,000 as provided by the Senate.

The conferees would like to see greater emphasis on automation in local courts. The conferees understand that the time required to hear Court cases can be reduced by as much as 15 percent through the use of technologies in the courtroom. The Conferees direct the Judiciary to continue to implement these new technologies in courtrooms.

The conferees adopt by reference the Senate report language requiring a report on the savings generated by the CM/ECF program and requiring a report on the Court Operations Support Center. The conferees adopt by reference the House report language concerning Electronic Public Access fees.

The conferees are concerned with the methodology used to prepare and the presentation of the Judiciary's information technology budget and long-range plan. The conferees expect the Administrative Office of the United States Courts (AO) to work with the Committees on Appropriations on the presentation of funding requests for this program. The conferees are concerned with the presentation of new initiatives in the O&M budget, and as well as the large amount of O&M funding required in proportion to the total information technology budget request.

The conferees understand that the Judiciary's staffing, operations and maintenance, and information technology resources are allocated to the courts according to formulas intended to equitably distribute resources based on the actual workload of each district. The conferees direct the Judiciary to update the formulas to improve their accuracy. The updates should incorporate changes in the courts' resource needs to reflect the implementation of technology enhancements such as the CM/ECF project and the unique situations that occur in districts with large geographic divisions. The conferees direct the Judiciary to report within 180 days of enactment of this Act on the Judiciary's efforts to update these formulas.

The Edwin L. Nelson Local Initiative Program.—The conferees have learned that many courts are developing significant IT solutions to meet local needs. The entire Judiciary receives great benefit from the development of automation initiatives at the local court level and the sharing of this technology with other courts will realize precious savings throughout the Judiciary. The conferees noted the inclusion of an Information Technology Grant program in the "Long Range Plan for Information Technology in the Federal Judiciary", specifically goal 7, initiative 1. The conferees fully support this program. However the conferees understand that even though funding was included in previous years' financial plans, no grants for this program have been awarded in fiscal years 2002 or 2003. To accelerate the pace of this program, the conferees direct that no less than $2,000,000 shall be made available for the Edwin L. Nelson Local Initiatives Program. These funds shall be used to establish and operate a National Clearing House, facilitate local court collaboration, expand training opportunities at the circuit level, and provide Information Technology Grants. The conferees direct the development and execution of this new Edwin L. Nelson Local Initiatives Program shall be coordinated with United States Judicial Conference Committee on Information Technology. The conferees direct the AO to report to the Committees on Appropriations, within 90 days of enactment of this Act, on the proposed process and structure to operate the Clearing House, evaluate initiatives, distribute grants, conduct training and execute the Local Initiatives Program, as approved by the Judicial Conference. In addition, the AO shall report the status of this program no later than April 1 and September 1, 2004. The status reports shall contain, at a minimum, an activity report from the Clearing House, a list of courts receiving grants including the purpose and amount of each grant and any training conducted.

The conference agreement does not provide any increases in panel attorney hourly pay rates above the current rates. The conference agreement adopts by reference the House and Senate report language concerning future budget requests for panel attorney pay rate increases. Conferees expect the Judiciary to address these concerns before requesting panel attorney rate increases above the rate of inflation.

FEES OF JURORS AND COMMISSIONERS

The conference agreement includes $57,822,000 for Fees of Jurors and Commissioners, instead of $53,181,000 as provided by the House and Senate. The conferees understand the Judiciary's "First Day" statistics show that the percentage of petit jurors called that are not selected, serving or challenged on their first day has increased from 33 percent in fiscal year 1997 to 39 percent in fiscal year 2002. The conferees are concerned with the decline in juror utilization rates and the associated increase in costs. The conferees direct the Judicial Conference of the United States to report to the Committees on Appropriations within 180 days of enactment of this Act on (1) the reasons for the decline in juror utilization, (2) the impact the implementation of the Jury Modernization System has had on juror utilization, and (3) recommendations on how the Judiciary can improve the efficiency with which it calls petit jurors.

COURT SECURITY

The conference agreement includes $277,500,000 for the Federal Judiciary's Court Security account, instead of $288,941,000 as provided by the House and $266,058,000 as provided by the Senate.

The conferees adopt by reference the House report language requiring a monthly report on court security equipment and systems spending throughout fiscal year 2004. The Conferees are concerned about the delay in submitting the management study the United States Marshals Service (USMS) was directed to conduct in fiscal year 2003 and hope this study will provide recommendations to improve the administration of this program by the USMS and the Judiciary.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES COURTS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $66,000,000 for the Administrative Office of the United States Courts instead of $66,968,000 as provided by the House and $63,717,000 as provided by the Senate. The conferees adopt by reference the Senate report language concerning cyclical replacement of automation equipment and the Senate report language directing the AO to develop a comprehensive records management plan and inform the Committees on Appropriations of this plan as soon as possible. In addition, the conferees adopt by reference the Senate report language requiring the submission of semi-annual reports to the Committees on Appropriations on travel expenses associated with AO personnel by directorate.

FEDERAL JUDICIAL CENTER

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $21,440,000 for salaries and expenses of the Federal Judicial Center as provided by the House, instead of $22,434,000 as provided by the Senate. The conferees laud the Center's education and training program and believe it can be a model for training programs in the Federal government.

The conference agreement includes $29,000,000 for payment to various judicial retirement funds, as provided by the House and Senate.

UNITED STATES SENTENCING COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Section 301.—The conference agreement includes a provision included by both the House and Senate allowing appropriations to be used for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109.

Section 302.—The conference agreement includes a provision related to the transfer of funds.

Section 303.—The conference agreement includes a provision allowing up to $11,000 to be used for official representation expenses of the Judicial Conference of the United States.

TITLE IV—DEPARTMENT OF STATE AND RELATED AGENCY

In total, the conference agreement includes $8,264,072,000 for the Department of State and the Broadcasting Board of Governors. Of the total amount provided, $8,129,093,000 is derived from general purpose discretionary funds and $134,979,000 is scored as mandatory spending. This funding level includes significant program increases to improve diplomatic readiness and security. The conference agreement includes $1,508,101,000 to continue worldwide security activities, including the design and construction of replacement facilities for the most vulnerable overseas posts.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

The conference agreement for the Department of State is intended to continue the Department's efforts to achieve diplomatic readiness, strengthen diplomatic and border security, and institute sweeping management reforms. In the past four fiscal years, the Congress has provided appropriations increases of over 44 percent for the Department's operating budget, including funding to support the hiring and training of more than 2,000 new employees.

The conference agreement includes a total of $7,706,639,000 for fiscal year 2004 for the Department of State. Of the total amount provided, $7,571,660,000 is derived from general purpose discretionary funds and $134,979,000 is scored as mandatory spending. The overall funding level for fiscal year 2004 represents an additional 8.9 percent increase to the operating budget, which will support up to 603 new positions. The conferees expect that this funding level will allow the Department to meet critical embassy security and staffing requirements, modernize its technology and equipment, and continue vigorous management reform initiatives to right-size America's overseas presence.

The conference agreement includes a total of $5,969,805,000 for the discretionary appropriation accounts under Administration of Foreign Affairs; $1,465,305,000 for International Organizations; $57,795,000 for International Commissions; and $78,755,000 for Other activities. The conferees' priorities for the Department of State are delineated in the following paragraphs.

ADMINISTRATION OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes $4,106,701,000 for the Diplomatic and Consular Programs account, instead of $4,099,961,000 as proposed by the House and $3,874,778,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes $646,701,000 to continue funding for worldwide security upgrades, $301,563,000 for public diplomacy programs, and $40,000,000 for worldwide OpenNet and classified connectivity infrastructure. The conference agreement represents an increase of $210,868,000 above the fiscal year 2003 appropriation.

The conference agreement includes a program increase of $72,572,000 to support the hiring and training of new foreign service and civil service employees, including foreign service positions dedicated to visa adjudication as described in both the House and Senate reports. The conferees are concerned that not all of the new full-time equivalents hired by the Department under the Diplomatic Readiness Initiative (DRI) are available for worldwide deployment. One of the primary objectives of the DRI was to allow the Department to address staffing shortages at U.S. diplomatic posts overseas. The Department shall submit a report to the Committees, no later than February 1, 2004, on the number of personnel hired under DRI that are not available for worldwide deployment and on the Department's plan for ensuring that personnel yet to be hired under DRI are available for worldwide deployment. To the greatest extent possible Foreign Service Officers hired during the third and final year of DRI should be available for worldwide deployment.

The conferees urge the Department to move forward expeditiously with its right-sizing plan. Right-sizing refers to the reconfiguration of overseas U.S. Government personnel to the number necessary to achieve U.S. foreign policy goals. The conferees recognize that, as the property manager for all U.S. Government properties overseas, the Department of State faces considerable pressure to accommodate ever-greater numbers of non-State Department personnel in its overseas facilities.

For any right-sizing framework to be effective, it must have two main components: (1) a process for determining, internally, the appropriate numbers of State Department personnel stationed overseas, and (2) an interagency process for determining the appropriate numbers of non-military U.S. government personnel stationed overseas. To this end, the conference agreement includes up to $2,000,000 for the Department to establish and operate an Office on Right-Sizing the United States Overseas Presence, and adopts, by reference, the language on this matter in the House report. The conferees expect this new Office, which shall report directly to the Undersecretary for Management, to lead the Department's effort to develop internal and interagency mechanisms to better coordinate, rationalize, and manage the deployment of U.S. government personnel overseas.

The conferees commend the Department for its recent steps to strengthen internal processes for determining staffing projections for overseas personnel needs. However, more needs to be done. The conferees are not aware of any right-sizing analysis in the past three years that has resulted in a proposed reduction to a country-wide staffing presence. The conferees are supportive of the concept of regionalization. Regionalization refers to the practice of basing certain administrative functions and personnel in regional centers, or "hubs", thereby creating efficiencies. The conferees note that the Department has made less than notable progress towards developing an interagency right-sizing process. The conferees urge the Department, with the Office of Management and Budget, to take the lead in establishing an interagency process for developing staffing projections for U.S. government facilities overseas. The conferees support the Department's cost-sharing plan which will encourage other Federal agencies to examine more closely whether the personnel they send overseas are truly mission-critical. The conferees remind the Department that this interagency process should not supercede the authority of the Chiefs of Mission (COM) to determine the composition of their posts, but rather to serve as a tool and support mechanism for the COM's. The post must remain at the center of the right-sizing process.

The conference agreement includes the requirements stipulated in the House report regarding a report on the impact of new staffing analysis requirements in the Mission Performance Planning process, and the direction to undertake a review and report on the size of the largest overseas missions using the mission performance plan and the right-sizing criteria developed by the General Accounting Office.

The conference agreement includes program increases as described in the House report for Trafficking in Persons, International Summits, International Religious Freedom, and re-establishing a United States Mission to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

The conference agreement includes language specifying that $301,563,000 is available only for public diplomacy programs. The conference agreement continues support for special program initiatives in the Arab and Muslim world, which were significantly expanded in fiscal years 2002 and 2003.

The conferees are aware of the recently completed report of the Advisory Panel on Public Diplomacy, and the Department's response to the Panel's recommendations. The amounts provided for public diplomacy under this heading and under "Educational and Cultural Exchange Programs", including a reallocation of base funding toward the Arab and Muslim World, will allow the Department to pursue the Panel's recommendations. The conferees urge the Department to act expeditiously on several items proposed by the Panel, including the establishment of an office of policy, plans and resources within the Office of the Under Secretary; strengthening the authority of the Under Secretary for Public Diplomacy and Public Affairs and improving accountability for public diplomacy resources; improved interagency coordination; increased resources dedicated to program performance measurement and research; expansion of English language office, speaker and fellows programs; expansion of American studies programs including American Corners; and increased public diplomacy staff with better language skills. The conferees expect that significant resources from the Diplomatic Readiness Initiative will be allocated to increased Public Diplomacy staff resources and training.

The conference agreement includes, by reference, language in the Senate report regarding the refining of public diplomacy strategy, including the harmonization of mission and strategy with the Broadcasting Board of Governors, and the incorporation of public diplomacy into ongoing international assistance and volunteer programs.

The conference agreement includes $646,701,000 for worldwide security upgrades as proposed by the House, instead of $594,373,000 as proposed by the Senate. This conference agreement includes $542,998,000 to provide full year costs of maintaining base security activities at current levels. These activities include perimeter security upgrades, guard services, physical security equipment, armored vehicles, personnel, training and wireless communications. The conference agreement includes $7,952,000 for 85 additional security professional staff positions and $25,300,000 for completion of the initial multi-year plan to enhance perimeter security at 243 posts, and technical upgrades at annexes and other buildings not included in the original program. The conferees note that funds provided under this category may be used for protection and security costs in Kabul, Afghanistan. The conference agreement also includes up to $3,000,000 for State Department participation in the TOPOFF III national counterterrorism exercise and $5,000,000 for the Center for Antiterrorism and Security Training.

The conference agreement includes $736,013,000 for the Department's Border Security program, to be funded entirely though collection of Machine Readable Visa (MRV) fees. The fiscal year 2004 program level is an increase of $119,192,000, and includes a program increase of 125 new consular positions. The conference agreement does not include language proposed in the Senate bill regarding the automatic transfer of funding to the Border Security program in the event of MRV fee shortfalls. The Department received an appropriation of $109,500,000 in Public Law 108–106 to cover the estimated shortfall. However, the underlying problem—that a decline in visa fee revenue could disrupt the Border Security program—remains. The conferees direct the Department to submit a plan, no later than April 2, 2004, to ensure that visa fee revenue shortfalls do not disrupt the Department's critical border security operations in fiscal year 2004 or beyond. The conferees urge the Department to continue to work on an interagency basis to strengthen the visa process to make it an effective antiterrorism tool, while avoiding the creation of unnecessary barriers or delays to legitimate travel to the United States.

The conference agreement includes language designating $40,000,000 under this account for worldwide OpenNet and classified connectivity infrastructure. These costs were requested under the Capital Investment Fund. While that account was the appropriate one for funding the costs of developing and deploying these automation initiatives, the conferees agree that the costs of sustaining these systems, including hardware replacement and refreshment, are more appropriately funded under this heading.

The conference agreement includes, by reference, language in the House report on the Africa Policy Advisory Panel, the interagency task force to monitor the United Nations headquarters renovation project, minority hiring and recruiting, overseas schools, extradition, security of classified material, Tibet, the Bureau of Legislative Affairs, and U.S. presence in China. The conference agreement also includes, by reference, language in the Senate report on financial operations, foreign language proficiency, and international trade; and language and corresponding funding levels pertaining to the Arctic Council and the Bering Straits Commission.

The conferees expect the Department and the Bureau of International Organization Affairs to place top priority on international human rights protection and advocacy, and to submit a report to the Committees by December 15, 2003, presenting an international human rights agenda and work plan for the coming year. In addition, the conferees expect the Department to continue the effort begun last year to make funds available to each U.S. Embassy to translate into the official language of the host country the report for the host country from the "Country Reports on Human Rights Practices", the "Annual Report on International Religious Freedom", and the "Trafficking in Persons Report" within 30 days of issuance, and post those documents on the embassy website along with the English version. The Department shall notify the Committees by January 31, 2004, if there are any U.S. Embassies that do not comply with this requirement.

The conference agreement includes such funds as necessary for costs associated with fulfilling United States responsibilities with regard to participation in interparliamentary meetings, including North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe meetings taking place during fiscal year 2004.

The conference agreement includes language, as in the previous fiscal year, providing that funds under this heading may be used for a United States Government interagency task force to examine, coordinate, and oversee United States participation in the United Nations headquarters renovation project.

The conference agreement includes up to $10,000,000 for continuing language education programs, as described in the Senate report.

The conference agreement also includes up to $500,000 for a cultural antiquities task force as described in the Senate report. The task force will coordinate with all relevant Federal law enforcement and cultural agencies to prevent further looting and promote preservation of Iraq's historically and culturally significant works. The conferees urge the Department to create a database as described in the Senate report. The conferees further urge the Department to make changes to visa policies as they pertain to persons found to have looted, damaged, or trafficked historically or culturally significant works. The Department shall submit a report to the Committees no later than April 15, 2004, on the Department's progress towards establishing the task force. This report should include recommendations concerning the database and changes in visa policy.

The conference agreement includes up to $2,000,000 for the Ambassador's Fund for Cultural Preservation, as described in the Senate report.

The conferees are concerned that the Department's policy of rotating Foreign Service Officers may hinder the work of the Bureau of Oceans and International Environmental and Scientific Affairs (OES). The successful negotiation of effective international agreements often takes place over an extended period of time and relies heavily on historical and institutional knowledge of the pertinent issues. The rotation of officers on a three year cycle may inhibit the development of such knowledge. The conferees direct the Department to report to the Committees no later than July 1, 2004, on the impact of such personnel policies on the United States' ability to negotiate effective international environmental treaties. From within the amount available to the OES Bureau, the conferees agree that up to $1,000,000 may be available for international health affairs.

The conferees remain concerned about the adequacy of the Department's efforts to counter the serious problem of international child abductions. The conferees direct that the Department use the authorities in existing law to prohibit the issuance of visas to international child abductors. The conferees also direct that, henceforward, the Department require that children over the age of one year and under the age of 14 be physically present at the time of application for a United States passport, or renewal thereof. The conference agreement includes up to $1,300,000 to promote international information sharing to combat child pornography as described in the Senate report.

The conferees direct the Department to undertake a general survey of foreign missions operating throughout the United States as part of a performance measurement of the work of the Office of Foreign Missions. The Department shall report to the Committees on the findings of this survey no later than October 1, 2004.

The conferees are aware of dissatisfaction with the Department's position regarding certain shipments of mahogany lumber from Brazil. It is the understanding of the conferees that the required export permits were obtained by the proprietor of these shipments from the Government of Brazil, in accordance with existing law. The conferees expect the Department to facilitate the resolution of this matter in a way that is equitable and consistent with U.S. law.

The conferees urge the Department, in consultation with the Department of Commerce, to ensure that U.S. conservation standards are applied to foreign fisheries that wish to import fish products to the U.S., consistent with Public Law 101-162. The conferees direct the Department to submit an enforcement plan to the Committees by April 1, 2004, as described in the House and Senate reports. The Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce shall establish standards and measures for bycatch reduction that are comparable to U.S. standards, as described in the Senate report.

As in previous years, the conferees expect that there will be additional savings available to the Department, including exchange rate gains and vacancies in funded positions. The Department will have the ability to propose that savings be used for needs not funded by the recommendation through the normal reprogramming process. The conferees are concerned about the Department's practice of resubmitting reprogramming requests that have previously been denied by the Committees on Appropriations. Reprogrammings should be resubmitted only if the circumstances surrounding the request or the request itself change substantially enough to warrant a reevaluation by the Committees.

CAPITAL INVESTMENT FUND

The conference agreement includes $80,000,000 for the Capital Investment Fund, instead of $142,000,000 as proposed by the House and $207,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, the conferees expect that $114,000,000 in expedited passport fees will be used to support the information technology modernization effort, for a total fiscal year 2004 spending availability of $194,000,000.

The entire amount available under this heading, including fees, will support investments in new information technologies to improve the efficiency of Department operations. Costs associated with ongoing information technology operations and maintenance, including $40,000,000 for equipment replacement requested under this account, are funded under the Diplomatic and Consular Programs account.

The conferees encourage the Department to allocate funding under this heading to the following high priority projects: the SMART messaging initiative; public key infrastructure; and up to $8,000,000 for the wide area network/thin client prototype.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL

The conference agreement includes $31,703,000 for the Office of Inspector General (OIG) as proposed by the Senate, instead of $29,777,000 as proposed by the House. The conference agreement includes language, as carried in previous years, waiving the requirement for a five-year post inspection cycle. The conference agreement does not include language in the Senate report on conducting risk and threat assessments.

EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL EXCHANGE PROGRAMS

Within the funds made available under this category, the conferees expect the Department to undertake new office building projects from among the highest priority facilities listed in the Long Range Overseas Buildings Plan. The conferees direct the task force to coordinate its efforts with OBO and to consult with senior OBO officials in formulating its recommendations.

The conferees are aware of significant potential benefits that could result from U.S. participation in the International Coffee Organization (ICO). The conference agreement assumes that the IBWC may carry out requested Western Boundary activities using prior year unobligated balances, and propose a distribution of such funds through the regular reprogramming process. The conferees encourage the IBWC to attempt, if possible, to achieve greater secondary treatment of Mexican sewage within current funding levels under this account. Any plan that assumes a significant increase in appropriations under this heading in future years is not feasible given resource restraints and competing priorities.

The conferees expect the Department to allocate the balance of funds in the conference agreement, and, through the regular reprogramming process, any additional funds that may become available, to priority commissions. In allocating the balance of funds, the conferees encourage the Department to particularly consider funding needs of the International Whaling Commission, the International Commission for the Conservation of Atlantic Tunas, the North Pacific Anadromous Fish Commission, the Inter-American Sea Turtle Convention Commission, and the North Pacific Marine Science Organization. The conferees are aware that the Department may propose to reprogram funds to meet the needs of the various fisheries commissions should funding become available.

The conferees expect the Department to take immediate action to evaluate and prioritize United States participation in, and funding for, international fisheries commissions. In a climate of limited resources the conferees continue to insist that the Department operate within appropriated amounts, prioritize as necessary among commissions according to policy goals, take steps as necessary to withdraw from lower priority commissions, and refrain from entering into new commitments.

The conferees support efforts to devote more resources to regions of the world that have had exposure to U.S. broadcasting efforts, with particular attention to the Middle East and to Muslim populations around the globe. The conferees adopt the Broadcasting Board of Governors' (BBG) proposal regarding funding for language services in central and eastern European nations that have been invited to become new member states of the European Union or the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and have received a Freedom House press freedom ranking equal to that of the United States. The conferees expect the BBG to continue to monitor the press freedoms in these countries, and throughout the world, and advise the Committees on Appropriations regarding any change to language service priorities.

BBG's proposal would reduce, but not eliminate, language services to the Ukraine and Armenia. The conferees understand the VOA Armenian programming would be merged with Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty (RFE/RL) broadcasting efforts. The conferees understand the BBG would not eliminate broadcasting in Romanian or Croatian.

The conference agreement includes funding for Office of Cuba Broadcasting (OCB) under this heading. Further, the conference agreement does not include funding requested for the operating costs related to transmission stations that are not currently in operation.

The conferees understand the Administration has engaged the government of the Czech Republic regarding the relocation of the headquarters facility of the RFE/RL from St. Wenceslas Square in Prague, the Czech Republic, to a different location. The conferees further understand that, to date, the BBG and RFE/RL have not reached agreement with the Czech Republic on a suitable site within the Czech Republic for relocation. The conferees direct the Chairman of the BBG to submit no later than April 1, 2004, a relocation plan to the Committees on Appropriations. The plan shall include at least four possible sites, developed in consultation with the Director of the Department of State's Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations. In determining the site options, the conferees direct the BBG to consider sites in other countries in the region in addition to the Czech Republic, and include a comparison of the long-term costs of operating in the different countries.

The conferees agree that all anti-trafficking policies, grants and grant policies shall be covered by the provisions of Section 406 of division B of Public Law 108–7. The conference agreement also includes language clarifying that the Senior Policy Operating Group and its chairman are the coordinating body (and official) accountable for federal anti-trafficking policies, grants and grant policies. The conferees are concerned by recent administrative efforts to subordinate and transfer the Operating Group's coordinating responsibilities. The language also makes clear that the coordinating responsibilities of the Operating Group are not intended to supercede the decision making authority of the constituent members of the Task Force to Monitor and Combat Trafficking in Persons, to whom Operating Group members continue to report. The Operating Group is, and was intended to serve as, the forum for interagency coordination of anti-trafficking policies, even as final decisions regarding any such policies are necessarily vested with the President and the senior officials who comprise the Task Force. The conferees agree that the Senior Operating Group and its chair have successfully performed the coordinating functions assigned to them.

However, the conferees remain concerned about the impact this restructuring will have on the quality of service provided by the agency. The Committees on Appropriations should be kept apprised of any organizational changes, in accordance with the reprogramming requirements in Section 605 of the Act.

The conferees are aware of the many financial management initiatives the EEOC has successfully undertaken over the last year, and the conferees commend the Commission for these actions. The conferees direct the FCC to expend for enforcement in fiscal year 2004 an amount equal to or greater than the amount expended for enforcement in fiscal year 2003.

The conference agreement includes, by reference, language included in the House and Senate reports on broadcast television standards. The conference agreement includes, by reference, language in the Senate report regarding Universal Service Fund audits and wireless portability.

The conferees are pleased that the FCC is voluntarily examining the practice of Commissioners and staff receiving travel payments from entities it regulates in order to largely eliminate section 1353 travel. The FCC should inform the Committees on Appropriations of any resulting changes to the travel policy. The conference agreement includes a level of funding that is sufficient to accommodate mission-critical travel.

The conference agreement allows the FCC to spend up to $85,000,000 to administer the spectrum auctions program. In addition, all collections retained by the FCC in accordance with section 309(j)(8)(B) of the Communications Act of 1934 are subject to the requirements of section 605 of this Act.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $186,041,000 for the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), instead of $183,041,000 as proposed by the House and $189,032,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of the amounts provided, $112,000,000 is derived from Hart-Scott-Rodino premerger filing fees, $23,100,000 is derived from Do-Not-Call fees, and $50,941,000 is derived from discretionary appropriations.

The conference agreement adopts by reference the House report language requiring GAO to study the implementation of the Do-Not-Call program and determine whether the Commission is achieving its goal of reducing by 80 percent the number of telemarketing calls received by registered consumers. To improve responsiveness to an individual's decision to enroll in the Do-Not-Call program, the conference report includes bill language requiring telemarketers who are subject to the Telemarketing Sales Rule to obtain from the Federal Trade Commission the list of telephone numbers on the Do-Not-Call registry once a month.

The conference agreement adopts by reference the House report language concerning violent video games. In addition, the conferees direct the Commission to make the toll free consumer complaint line (1–877–FTC-HELP) and the Commission's web-site available for consumer complaints on media violence. The Commission should make consumers aware that the complaint line and web-site are available for this purpose.

The conference agreement adopts by reference the Senate report language concerning child protection, the Internet, and commercial fleet card programs.

Federal Deposit Insurance Act.—In the Fiscal Year 2003 Conference Report, the conferees directed the General Accounting Office (GAO) to study the enforcement of section 43 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act and make recommendations to the Committees on Appropriations on which Federal agency could most effectively enforce this provision. GAO Report 03–971 recommends that the Commission is the best among the Federal agencies considered to enforce the consumer protection activities of this provision. In addition, the report also concludes that the most apparent impact on consumers, from the lack of enforcement of section 43, may result from non-Federally insured credit unions not providing adequate disclosure that they are not Federally insured. Based on these recommendations, the conference agreement revises language included in the House and Senate bills requiring enforcement concerning disclosure and annual independent audits, but maintains the prohibition of enforcement of section 43(e) concerning the eligibility of Federal deposit insurance.

In the enforcement of section 43, the FTC is directed to consult with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the National Credit Union Administration when determining the manner and content of disclosure requirements, and to coordinate with State supervisors of non-Federally insured depository institutions to assist in enforcing these requirements.

HELP COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $3,000,000 for necessary expenses of establishing the Helping to Enhance the Livelihood of People (HELP) Around the Globe Commission. The conference agreement also includes authorization language under title VI of this Act concerning the Commission and its activities.

LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION

PAYMENT TO THE LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION

The conference agreement includes $338,848,000 for the payment to the Legal Services Corporation, as proposed in both the House and Senate bills. The recommendation is $9,548,000 above the budget request. Of the amounts provided, the Legal Services Corporation will provide $2,500,000 in grants equitably distributed to the ten states most negatively affected by recent census-based reallocations.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION

The conference agreement includes bill language to continue the terms and conditions included under this section in previous Appropriations Acts.

MARINE MAMMAL COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $1,856,000 for the Marine Mammal Commission, as proposed by the House, instead of $3,063,000 as proposed by the Senate. An additional $1,207,000 is provided by transfer from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Operations, Research, and Facilities account. The conference agreement includes, by reference, the language in the Senate report on the cost effectiveness of current protection programs and the effects of rogue killer whales on the most endangered marine mammals.

NATIONAL VETERANS BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

The conference agreement includes $2,000,000 for the National Veterans Business Development Corporation as provided by the House and the Senate. The conferees note that the Corporation's authorizing legislation mandates that it institute a plan to raise private funds and become a self-sustaining corporation by the end of fiscal year 2004. The conferees encourage efforts by the Corporation to meet this goal.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $811,500,000 for the Securities and Exchange Commission, instead of $841,500,000 as provided by the House and Senate.

Staffing.—In fiscal year 2003, the Commission was provided with funding for 840 new positions to protect investors and implement the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. The fiscal year 2004 budget request assumed that the 840 new positions funded in fiscal year 2003 would be hired by the start of fiscal year 2004. The conferees understand the Commission has had difficulty hiring accountants and examiners but that Public Law 108–44 provides the Commission with greater flexibility in hiring these positions. The conferees understand that through November 1, 2004, the Commission has only been able to increase its staff by 309. As a result of lower than anticipated on-board staffing levels, the conference agreement has reduced the level of funding provided to the Commission by $30,000,000. The conferees direct the Commission to continue to work to fill all of the 840 new positions as quickly as possible and to provide the Committees on Appropriations with quarterly staffing reports.

The conference agreement adopts by reference the Senate report language concerning pay parity and enforcement. The conference agreement adopts by reference the Senate report language concerning data management and includes such sums as are necessary to fund these efforts. The conference agreement adopts by reference the Senate report language requiring a monthly report to the Senate Appropriations Committee listing the exercise of stock options by corporate officers and directors. The conference agreement adopts by reference the House report language requiring GAO to study the Commission's allocation of funding increases provided in fiscal years 2003 and 2004. The conference agreement adopts by reference all of the House report language concerning the establishment of an Office of Global Security Risk within the Division of Corporation Finance.

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement provides a total of $718,343,000 for the four appropriations accounts of the Small Business Administration (SBA). Detailed guidance for the four SBA appropriation accounts is contained in the following paragraphs.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $325,750,000 for the salaries and expenses account of the SBA instead of $326,592,000 as provided by the House and $332,413,000 as provided by the Senate. Of the amount provided under this heading, $185,000,000 is for operating expenses of the SBA. In addition, a total of $136,500,000 from other SBA accounts may be transferred to and merged with the salaries and expenses account for indirect operating costs. This amount consists of $128,000,000 from the Business Loans Program account and $8,500,000 from the Disaster Loans Program account for the administrative expenses related to those accounts.

The conference agreement includes the full amount requested for Low Documentation Processing Centers and expects the SBA to continue to help small businesses adapt to a paperless procurement environment.

The conferees adopt by reference the House report language concerning the submission of a long-range plan for the implementation of the loan monitoring system and the joint accounting and administrative systems project.

Non-Credit Programs.—The conference agreement includes the following for the non-credit programs of the SBA:

Regulatory Fairness Boards/National Ombudsman	$500,000
Advocacy Research	1,100,000
Veterans Programs	750,000
7(j) Technical Assistance Programs	2,000,000
Small Business Development Centers	89,000,000
SCORE	5,000,000
Women's Business Centers	12,500,000
Women's Business Council	750,000
Native American Outreach	2,000,000
Drug-free Workplace Program	1,000,000
Business Information Centers	400,000
Microloan Technical Assistance	15,000,000
PRIME Technical Assistance	5,000,000
SBIR Technical Assistance	250,000
SBIR—FAST	2,000,000
HUBZones	2,000,000
US Export Assistance	1,500,000
Total, non-credit programs	140,750,000

The SBA shall not reduce these non-credit programs to fund operating costs. Of the amounts provided for the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) program, $500,000 shall be available for the South Carolina Women's Business Center. In addition, SBA shall fund the SBDC defense transition program and the regulatory compliance simplification program at the fiscal year 2003 level. The conferees adopt by reference the House report language requiring SBA to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations within 90 days of enactment of this Act describing the various programs offered by SBDCs to support American small businesses.

SBA is directed to report to the Committee prior to closing any Business Information Centers. The report should include a justification for closing the particular office and a detailed proposal as to how services will be provided to the affected community in the future.

The conferees adopt by reference the Senate report language concerning an electronic grant system. The conferees support the SBA's 8(a) business development program internet application program.

The conferees adopt by reference the Senate report language directing that disaster loans in Alaska continue to be managed by SBA and not be sold for processing.

Because of the unique legal status of Alaska Natives, Native Hawaiians, and residents living in the territories, the offices handling SBA programs on reservations often lack the knowledge and ability to make SBA programs work outside the continental United States. To address this failure, the conferees direct the SBA to assign a Senior Executive Service (SES) position to focus on these unique communities. The conferees expect this new SES position shall be accommodated within SBA's existing number of SES positions. Within 60 days of enactment of this Act, the conferees direct SBA to submit to the Committees on Appropriations a report outlining all SES positions within the SBA, including their titles and responsibilities, and a proposed reorganization of these positions to ensure the needs of Alaska Natives, Native Hawaiians, and residents living in the territories are being addressed.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL

The conference agreement includes $13,000,000 for the Office of Inspector General of the Small Business Administration as proposed by the House instead of $12,341,000 as provided by the Senate. The conference agreement includes language allowing $500,000 to be transferred to this account from the Disaster Loans Program for oversight costs related to that program.

BUSINESS LOANS PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The conference agreement includes $209,042,000 under this account, consisting of: $79,132,000 for the Business Loans Program account for subsidies for guaranteed business loans; $1,910,000 for subsidies for direct business loans; and $128,000,000 for administrative expenses related to business loan programs. The amount provided for administrative expenses may be transferred to and merged with the appropriation for SBA salaries and expenses to cover the common overhead expenses associated with business loans. In addition, the conference agreement includes a provision, also carried in previous years, which allows up to $45,000,000 to remain available for two fiscal years.

7(a) Business Loan Program.—The conference agreement includes $101,228,000 for the 7(a) program. This amount includes $79,132,000 in appropriations, $19,773,000 in prior year unobligated balances, and $2,455,000 in remaining balances from the DELTA 7(a) program. Section 633 of this Act makes the remaining balances available for the DELTA 7(a) program available for the general 7(a) program. The conferees understand that there is no longer a demand for the DELTA 7(a) programs.

The total level of funding provided will support a loan program level of $9,550,000,000, which is $250,000,000 above the requested program level and $612,000,000 above the level of 7(a) business loans provided in fiscal year 2003.

The conferees were disappointed to learn that the subsidy included in the Administration's budget request is inaccurate and that an additional $4,000,000 above the request is required to fund the Administration's requested program level. While the conferees have provided this increase to ensure sufficient funding is available to assist American small businesses, the conferees expect future budget requests to contain accurate subsidy rate calculations.

DISASTER LOANS PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The conference agreement includes $170,551,000 for the Disaster Loans Program Account for loan subsidies and associated administrative expenses instead of $190,250,000 as provided by the House and Senate. The conference agreement includes new budget authority of $56,188,000 for the subsidy costs of disaster loans and $114,363,000 for administrative expenses associated with carrying out the program.

The conference agreement provides for a total of $89,109,000 for disaster loans of which $56,188,000 is in new appropriations and $32,921,000 in prior year carryover balances, including $15,032,000 made available through Section 628 of this Act. This fully funds the Administration's requested disaster loans program level of $760,316,000. The conferees understand that at this time the Administration believes that the costs associated with Hurricane Isabel and the fires in California can be funded within the requested disaster loan program level.

Within the $114,363,000 provided for administrative expenses, $500,000 is available for the Office of Inspector General, $105,363,000 is available for direct administrative expenses of loan making and servicing, and $8,500,000 is available to be transferred to the Salaries and Expenses account for indirect costs of the program.

STATE JUSTICE INSTITUTE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $2,250,000 for the State Justice Institute (SJI), instead of $3,000,000 as proposed by the House and $5,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees encourage SJI to work with the Office of Justice Programs on issues involving State courts and encourages SJI to apply for funding under OJP grant programs that support State court programs.

UNITED STATES-CHINA ECONOMIC AND SECURITY REVIEW COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $2,000,000 for the Commission, as proposed by the Senate. The House did not include funding for this Commission under this heading.

The conferees direct the Commission to consult with the Secretary of Commerce, as appropriate, to research and report back to the Committees on Appropriations regarding the following:

China's industrial policies, including "pillar" sectors, technology acquisitions through joint ventures, various forms of subsidization, and the short and long-term implications of the modernization of those industries for the U.S. economy, industry, and employees;

Exports from China's state enterprises, the types and amounts of subsidies provided, and the longer-term effects of such exports/subsidies on specific U.S. industries;

Various means to compensate losses of U.S. intellectual property holders created by China's inability to meet its WTO intellectual property commitments;

Shifts of research and development from the United States to China, the nature of the 134 major foreign research and development corporate complexes now identified by the People's Republic of China, the prospects for future European Union, Japanese, and United States research and development shifts to China, and the resulting implications to U.S capacities;

Items on the U.S.—China Advanced Technology Trade list cross-referenced to the items on the Department of Defense's Critical Technology List, and what part of total U.S. purchases of these items are imported from China;

An analysis of the extent of professional service outsourcing that now exists and is projected from the United States, and the ultimate location of that outsourcing, and quantifications of the longer-term consequences to affected U.S. professions, such as software engineering;

A survey of business groups on the extent to which U.S. manufacturers and their supply chains are relocating to China.

The conferees expect this report to be provided to the Committees on Appropriations no later than May 1, 2004.

DIVISION C

District of Columbia Appropriations

In implementing this agreement, the Departments and agencies should comply with the language and instructions set forth in House Report 108–214 and Senate Report 108–142. The committee of conference approves the language and instructions set forth in these reports, which are not changed by the conference agreement.

In the case where the language and instructions specifically address the allocation of funds, the Departments and agencies are to follow the funding levels specified in the Congressional budget justifications accompanying the fiscal year 2004 budget or the underlying authorizing statute and should give full consideration to all items, including items allocating specific funding included in the House and Senate reports. With respect to the provisions in the House and Senate reports that specifically allocate funds, each has been reviewed and those that are jointly concurred in have been included in this joint statement.

A summary chart appears later in this statement showing the Federal appropriations by account and the allocation of District funds by agency or office under each appropriation, the fiscal year 2004 request, the House and Senate recommendations, and the conference allowance.

The District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 2004, put in place by this bill, incorporates the following agreements of the managers:

TITLE I—FEDERAL FUNDS

FEDERAL PAYMENT FOR RESIDENT TUITION SUPPORT

The conference agreement includes $17,000,000 for a Federal payment for resident tuition support as proposed by both the House and Senate. The agreement also includes language to require the Office of the Chief Financial Officer to provide a quarterly financial report to the Committees on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and Senate as proposed by the House. The Senate bill required the Resident Tuition Support Office and the Office of the Chief Financial Officer to provide such a report.

FEDERAL PAYMENT FOR EMERGENCY PLANNING AND SECURITY COSTS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

The conference agreement includes $11,000,000 for a Federal payment for emergency planning and security costs in the District of Columbia. This amount, together with funds carried over from fiscal year 2003, provides a total program level of $15,000,000 as proposed by both the House and Senate. The agreement makes a technical correction describing the use of these funds as proposed by the House.

FEDERAL PAYMENT TO THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COURTS

The conference agreement includes $167,765,000 for a Federal payment to the District of Columbia courts, instead of $163,819,000 as proposed by the House and $172,104,000 as proposed by the Senate. Included in this amount is $3,946,000 above the President's request for fire and security system upgrades, Moultrie Courthouse renovation, and the Integrated Justice Information System. The Courts shall provide written notification of how this funding will be distributed to the Committees on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and Senate.

The agreement includes a provision as proposed by the Senate to allow the District of Columbia courts to reallocate not more than $1,000,000 of the funds provided under this heading among items and entities funded under this heading. The House bill allowed funds for the Court of Appeals, Superior Court, and Court System to be reallocated, but such reallocation may increase or decrease funding for such entity by no more than two percent.

The conferees understand the Courts have submitted plans to the National Capital Planning Commission for the restoration of the Old Courthouse for re-use by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, but the Commission is holding up review of these plans pending an agreement with the Law Enforcement Museum on a design for the outdoor plaza area. The conferees expect the project will move forward as quickly as possible to permit efficient use of taxpayer dollars, and note that delaying the review and approval of the restoration plan could needlessly increase the cost of the project.

DEFENDER SERVICES IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COURTS

The conference agreement includes $32,000,000 for Defender Services in District of Columbia courts as proposed by both the House and Senate.

The agreement includes language as proposed by the Senate to allow funds to be used for payments for counsel appointed in adoption proceedings under chapter 3 of title 16, D.C. Code. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes modified Senate language to allow the courts to enter into contractual agreements to provide guardian ad litem representation, training, technical assistance, and/or other services to improve the quality of guardian ad litem representation. The House bill contained no similar provision. The Joint Committee on Judicial Administration of the District of Columbia shall monitor the guardian ad litem program and provide the necessary technical support to ensure superior representation of children and families.

The agreement also includes two provisions as proposed by the House to allow District of Columbia Court funds to be used for payments under this heading and to allow the Joint Committee on Judicial Administration to use District of Columbia Court funds to make payments described under this heading for obligations incurred during any fiscal year. The Senate bill contained no similar provisions.

FEDERAL PAYMENT TO THE COURT SERVICES AND OFFENDER SUPERVISION AGENCY FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

The conference agreement includes $168,435,000 for a Federal payment to the Court Services and Offender Supervision Agency for the District of Columbia, instead of $163,081,000 as proposed by the House and $173,396,000 as proposed by the Senate. Included in this amount is $1,910,000 above the President's request to reduce supervision caseload ratios for sex-offenders, mental health, and domestic violence cases to 25:1 by the end of fiscal year 2004. Current caseload ratios for these high-risk offenders are 36:1, 47:1, and 42:1 respectively.

The agreement includes language as proposed by the Senate to allow the Public Defender Service for the District of Columbia to transfer and hire motor vehicles. The House bill contained no similar provision. The agreement does not include Public Defender Service descriptive language as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include a provision proposed by the Senate to allow the Director of the Court Services and Offender Supervision Agency the authority to accept appropriation reimbursements from the District government for space and services provided on a cost reimbursable basis. The House bill contained no similar provision.

FEDERAL PAYMENT TO THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA WATER AND SEWER AUTHORITY

The conference agreement includes $30,000,000 for a Federal payment to the District of Columbia Water and Sewer Authority for the continued implementation of the Combined Sewer Overflow Long-Term Plan, instead of $35,000,000 as proposed by the House and $25,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

FEDERAL PAYMENT FOR HOSPITAL BIOTERRORISM PREPAREDNESS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

The conference agreement includes $7,500,000 for a Federal payment to the District of Columbia Department of Health for hospital bioterrorism preparedness in the District of Columbia, instead of $10,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no similar provision. The conferees recommend that the Mayor hold a public meeting to consult with advocacy groups and community leaders on the location of the five City Build pilot schools. The Mayor shall notify Congress at regular intervals on the progress of the Initiative.

The $14,000,000 provided to the Secretary of the Department of Education is to provide opportunity scholarships to low-income students in the District of Columbia who are attending consistently under-performing public schools to choose to attend private schools within the District of Columbia. These scholarships will be for tuition, transportation, and fees at participating private schools within the District and cannot exceed $7,500 per student. If the funds provided are not sufficient to serve all the eligible applicants, scholarships will be awarded through random selection. The agreement intends that up to $1,000,000 of these funds may be used to administer and fund assessments for title III of this Act. The conferees expect the Secretary of Education to enter into a Memorandum of Understanding with the Mayor of the District of Columbia to select one or more grantees to administer the scholarship program through a competitive process.

TITLE II—DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA FUNDS OPERATING EXPENSES

DIVISION OF EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides that operating expenses for the District of Columbia for fiscal year 2004 shall not exceed $6,326,138,000, of which $3,832,734,000 is from local funds, including $96,248,000 from funds identified in the fiscal year 2002 comprehensive annual financial report as the District's fund balance funds, $1,568,734,000 is from Federal grant funds, $910,904,000 is from other funds, and $13,766,000 is from private funds as proposed by both the House and Senate. In addition, the agreement includes $13,150,000 from funds previously appropriated in this Act as Federal payments, instead of $4,300,000 as proposed by the House and $11,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. These Federal payment funds are allocated as follows: $150,000 for renovations at Eastern Market; $5,000,000 for the Anacostia Waterfront Initiative; and $8,000,000 for the Unified Communications Center.

The conferees request that a report on the activities carried out with these funds be submitted to the Committees on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and Senate no later than March 15, 2004.

TITLE III—DC SCHOOL CHOICE INCENTIVE ACT OF 2003

The conference agreement includes language to establish a 5-year school choice program in the District of Columbia.

TITLE IV—GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conference agreement changes several section numbers for sequential purposes and makes technical revisions to several provisions.

The conference agreement retains Sec. 407(a) as proposed by the House to prohibit the use of any funds in the Act for publicity or propaganda purposes or implementation of any policy including boycott designed to support or defeat legislation pending before Congress or any State legislature. The Senate bill allowed the use of local funds for this purpose.

The conference agreement retains Sec. 407(b) and (c) as proposed by the House to allow the use of local funds to carry out lobbying activities on any matter except the promotion or support of any boycott, statehood for the District or voting representation in Congress. The Senate bill allowed the use of local funds for these purposes.

The conference agreement retains Sec. 417 as proposed by the House to establish criteria for the acceptance, obligation, and expenditure of Federal, private, and other grants by the District government. The Senate bill included a similar provision, but included different criteria.

The conference agreement includes Sec. 421 as proposed by the House to prohibit the use of any funds contained in this Act for needle exchange programs. The Senate bill allowed the use of local funds for such programs.

The conference agreement makes Sec. 429 permanent law as proposed by the House. The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement makes Sec. 431 permanent law as proposed by the House. The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes Sec. 432 as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained a similar provision, but required that all savings be used to expand special education services within the District.

The conference agreement includes Sec. 434 to amend the Student Loan Marketing Association Reorganization Act of 1996 to clarify that annual administrative costs should be provided through the credit enhancement fund. The House and Senate bills contained no similar provision. The administrative fee cannot exceed 5 percent within any year, is non-cumulative, and is to be based on annual calculations. Any unobligated amounts at the close of the fiscal year shall revert back to the credit enhancement fund prior to the calculation of the following year's administrative cap. These funds will enable the Office of Charter School Financing and Support to expand its ability to conduct outreach to charter schools and provide technical assistance to attain appropriate facilities.

The conference agreement includes Sec. 435 as proposed by the Senate to provide for the appointment and compensation of counsel in adoption cases. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes Sec. 436 which amends Senate Sec. 141 to allow the District to exceed its appropriation by not more than $15,000,000 from funds identified in comprehensive annual financial report as the fiscal year 2003 general fund surplus with prior approval from the Committees on Appropriations. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement does not include a provision as proposed by the House to prohibit the use of funds in the Act to support the action of District of Columbia, et al., v. Beretta U.S.A. et al. The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement does not include a provision as proposed by the Senate related to the District acceptance and use a gift or donation. The House bill contained no similar provision. This provision is permanent law.

The conference agreement does not include a provision as proposed by the Senate related to the procurement of goods or services. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement does not include a provision as proposed by the Senate related to payments within the District of Columbia Courts. The House bill contained no similar provision. This provision is permanent law.

The conference agreement does not include a provision as proposed by the Senate related to the Crime Victims Compensation Fund. The House bill contained no similar provision. This provision is permanent law.

The conference agreement does not include a provision as proposed by the Senate related to other type funds. The House bill contained no similar provision.

DIVISION D—FOREIGN OPERATIONS, EXPORT FINANCING, AND RELATED PROGRAMS, 2004

TITLE I—EXPORT AND INVESTMENT ASSISTANCE

Export-Import Bank of the United States

The managers note that in fiscal year 2004, there is no request by the President for a subsidy appropriation for the Export-Import Bank of the United States. While the conference agreement provides no funding for the subsidy appropriation, the managers expect that there will be no reduction in Export-Import Bank activity levels due to the extraordinarily high level of carryover balances in fiscal year 2004, which total approximately $575,000,000.

The conference report includes no appropriation for the tied-aid "war chest". The estimated $260,000,000 remaining "war chest" balance for tied-aid purposes may be used to support loans. The managers continue to expect that none of the funds appropriated by prior Acts for the tied-aid credits or grants may be used for any other purpose except through the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

The conference agreement appropriates $72,895,000 for administrative expenses for the Export-Import Bank, instead of $71,395,000 as proposed by the House and $74,395,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement does not include a first-time appropriation for the Office of Inspector General. The Senate provided $1,000,000 for this office and the House did not address this matter. The managers note that the Export-Import Bank already has an audit committee and other regimes in place, including independent auditors that provide financial oversight to its operations.

Overseas Private Investment Corporation

The managers direct the President of OPIC to continue current policy and consult with the Committees on Appropriations before any future financing for non-governmental organizations or private and voluntary organizations is approved.

Trade and Development Agency

The managers commend the Trade and Development Agency (TDA) for its efforts to assist countries in improving their aviation safety and security systems, which has had a positive effect on enhancing United States trade for our aviation and aerospace industries. The managers recognize that setting aviation and safety standards worldwide is an important component for integrating a global system of trade. Accordingly, the managers recommend $1,500,000 for TDA to promote its work in this area by providing for the development of training materials to help prepare participating countries for International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) audits and to correct safety and security deficiencies.

TITLE II—BILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

United States Agency for International Development

CHILD SURVIVAL AND HEALTH PROGRAMS FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $1,835,000,000 for the Child Survival and Health Programs Fund instead of $2,235,830,000 as proposed by the House and $1,435,500,000 as proposed by the Senate. Significant funding for HIV/AIDS is in a new account, the "Global HIV/AIDS Initiative", and additional funding for HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis (TB), malaria, and other health issues is provided in Assistance for Eastern Europe and the Baltic States, Economic Support Fund, Assistance for the Independent States of the Former Soviet Union, and Foreign Military Financing accounts. The managers welcome the emergence of the Office of the Global AIDS Coordinator at the State Department, and specific direction for this office and its funding is included under the heading "Global HIV/AIDS Initiative".

The conference agreement includes the list of funding categories as proposed by the House which makes clear that funding for children orphaned or otherwise made vulnerable by HIV/AIDS should be considered separately from that for other orphans and vulnerable children. The managers also include $250,000 for the monitoring and oversight of child survival, maternal and family planning/reproductive health, and infectious disease programs, instead of $150,000 as contained in the Senate.

The conference agreement includes language allocating $1,835,000,000 among seven program categories in the Child Survival and Health Programs Fund: $330,000,000 for child survival and maternal health, including vaccine-preventable diseases such as polio; $28,000,000 for vulnerable children (not including children affected by HIV/AIDS); $516,500,000 for HIV/AIDS, including assistance for communities, including children orphaned by HIV/AIDS and otherwise affected by the disease; $185,000,000 for other infectious diseases, including TB and malaria; $375,500,000 for reproductive health/family planning; and $400,000,000 for the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria (Global ATM Fund). The managers expect that any change proposed subsequent to the allocation as directed in bill language will be subject to the requirements of section 515 this Act. A definition of program categories and their components can be found on pages 9 through 11 of House Report 107–142 and under the heading "Family Planning/Reproductive Health" on page 12 of Senate Report 107–58. The managers, for the first time in several years, include funding for UNICEF in "International Organizations and Programs" rather than in this account.

The managers commend the President for his commitment to combat HIV/AIDS, TB, and malaria. The conference agreement includes $1,646,000,000 to fight these three diseases, and anticipates that $754,00,000 is available in the Labor, Health and Human Services Appropriations Act. It is anticipated that a total of $2,400,000,000 is provided to fight HIV/AIDS, TB, and malaria in these two Acts.

Of the amounts in this Foreign Operations Appropriations Act, $516,500,00, $185,000,000, and $400,000,00 are for HIV/AIDS, TB, and malaria, and a United States contribution to the Global ATM Fund, respectively. An additional $491,000,000 is included in the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative account, and $53,500,000 is in Economic Support Fund, Foreign Military Financing, and regional accounts for Eastern Europe and the Baltic States and the Former Soviet Union.

Foreign Operations funding for HIV/AIDS, TB, and Malaria, fiscal year 2004

Child Survival and Health Programs Fund (CSH)	1,101,500,000
HIV/AIDS	(516,500,000)
Other Infectious Diseases (TB + malaria)	(185,000,000)
Global ATM Fund	(400,000,000)
Global HIV/AIDS Initiative	491,000,000
Other bilateral accounts, HIV/AIDS, TB, malaria	53,500,000
Total, HIB/AIDS, TB, malaria	1,646,000,000

The managers recognize that these three pandemics, especially HIV/AIDS and TB, are closely related, and that the response to them can not readily be separated. However, the managers have estimated how this $1,646,000,000 could be disaggregated by major infectious disease for tracking purposes. The managers also note that funding for "other infectious disease" should be allocated for activities besides fighting tuberculosis and malaria, such as disease surveillance. The TB and malaria estimates in this section should not be construed to indicate that these activities should not be undertaken.

The conference agreement provides not less than $1,283,500,00 for programs for the prevention and treatment of HIV/AIDS, and for care and support of those infected and affected by the disease. $756,500,000 is funded through the Child Survival and Health Programs Fund, including $240,000,000 as a conservative estimate of the amount form this Act that will be allocated for HIV/AIDS by the Global ATM Fund. An additional $491,000,000 is included in the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative account, and an estimated $36,000,00 is provided through other accounts, such as the Economic Support Fund, International Disaster Assistance, Foreign Military Financing, and regional accounts for Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. The estimate of $1,283,500,000 for HIV/AIDS does not include the United States share of HIV/AIDS assistance through the World Bank Group.

The managers provide most HIV/AIDS funding in two accounts, Child Survival and Health and a new account, the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative, similar to the structure of the Senate bill and the budget request. Instructions retained from the House bill and relevant to the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative are included under that heading. The managers intend that the $516,500,00 allocated for HIV/AIDS in the Child Survival and Health Programs Fund will be used to finance ongoing programs, and that the $491,000,000 in the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative account will be used for new and expanded programs in 15 focus countries.

The managers recognize that the epicenter of the HIV/AIDS epidemic is moving from Africa and the Caribbean toward Asia, Eastern Europe, and the former Soviet Union. In order to help prevent these epidemics from exploding, the managers once again direct that funds form the Child Survival and Health Programs Fund be made available for HIV/AIDS progarms in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. The conference report also includes funds under several bilateral accounts specifically to fight HIV/AIDS, TB, and malaria. The managers also encourage USAID, working in coordination with the Global AIDS Coordinator, to make make available funds from Child Survival and Health Programs Fund for HIV/AIDS program in "EST countries" other than those for which funds are specifically mandated in this Act.

The managers concur with the President's 2001 remarks at the announcement of the initial United States contribution to the proposed Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria that a successful approach to fighting these diseases must incorporate bilateral and multilateral programs and approaches, and that the Global ATM Fund has a crucial role to play in marshalling and distributing international resources.

The conference agreement includes $400,000,000 for a contribution to the Global ATM Fund, as proposed by the House, rather than $250,000,000 as in the Senate bill or $100,000,000 as contained in the budget request. The managers note that, of the awards pledged thus far by the Global ATM Fund to recipient countries, approximately 60 percent are for HIV/AIDS interventions, 23 percent are for malaria interventions, and 17 percent are for TB or combined TB/AIDS interventions. The managers have used these percentages to estimate the portion of the United States contributions to the Global ATM Fund that is likely be attributed for each disease.

The managers intend that the United States contributions to the Global ATM Fund be used to leverage other donors' contributions. These conference agreement does not include a provision contained in the House bill limiting the United States contribution to the Global ATM Fund to not more than one-half of all contributions from other sources because a provision addressing the same matter is contained in section 202 of Public Law 108–25, the "United States Leadership Against HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria Act of 2003". The managers expect that the Global AIDS Coordinator will use the funds provided for a United States contribution to the Global ATM Fund to maximally leverage resources from other donors.

However, the managers also recognize that funding cycles for donors vary, and that the application of the above provision may cause a portion of funds allocated for a United States contribution to the Global ATM Fund to remain unspent. Therefore, the conference report also includes a "kick-out" clause, as proposed by both the House and the Senate, which would ensure that funds are used for bilateral HIV/AIDS programs if other donors are unable to fully match the intended United States contribution to the Global ATM Fund. This provision is addressed in section 595. The managers expect that the Global AIDS Coordinator will bear in mind the managers' support for the Global ATM Fund and will judiciously use the flexibility provided by this "kick-out" clause to ensure that funds are allocated to the most effective uses.

The conference agreement does not include a Senate provision regarding the percentage of the budget for prevention and treatment programs of the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria that is made available to support technical assistance to ensure the quality of such programs. However, the managers recognize the importance of technical assistance and note the extensive resources and experience of the United States Government in providing such assistance. The managers urge the Global AIDS Coordinator to seek to ensure that an appropriate percentage of resources are utilized for this purpose.

When funding through bilateral programs administered by USAID is considered in combination with the United States contribution to the Global ATM Fund, the conference agreement provides a total of $169,000,000 for TB assistance. Of this amount, $92,500,000 is funded through the "other infectious diseases" allocation in this amount, an estimated $8,500,000 from other bilateral accounts, and $68,000,000 through the contribution to the Global ATM Fund.

For malaria, the conference agreement provides a total of $193,500,000. Of this amount, it is expected that $92,000,000 of the contribution to the Global ATM Fund will fund malaria programs, $92,500,000 is funded through the "other infectious diseases" allocation in this amount, and an estimated $9,000,000 is provided from other bilateral accounts.

The managers expect USAID to allocate up to 10 percent of its funding for malaria programs to medicines and vaccine research and development, including $3,000,000 for the Medicines for Malaria Venture, and the same amount for the Malaria Vaccine Initiative.

The conference agreement includes bill language, proposed by the Senate, regarding the development of microbicides as a means of combating HIV/AIDS.

The conference agreement does not include up to $150,000,000 for mother and child HIV prevention as contained in the Senate bill. However, the managers expect that funds will be made available from the HIV/AIDS allocation in this account and from funds provided in the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative account.

The conference account provides not less than $26,000,000 for research on and testing of HIV/AIDS vaccines. These funds should be allocated by the Global AIDS Coordinator at the Department of State to the International AIDS Vaccine Initiative. The managers expect that $10,000,000 will be used for cooperative projects coordinated with the European Union's new 5-year program, the "AIDS Vaccine Integrated Project," and in cooperation with the Partnership for AIDS Vaccine Evaluation (PAVE) operating under the aegis of the Department of Health and Human Services.

The conference agreement also provides that not less than $26,000,000 should be made available as a United States contribution to UNAIDS, instead of $28,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House did not address this matter. The managers note the central role that UNAIDS plays in coordinating the work of eight U.N. agencies and the Global ATM Fund, and in providing technical support to countries as funding to combat HIV/AIDS rapidly increases.

The managers urge USAID to implement programs that address the combination of the HIV/AIDS and hunger, including programs to enhance nutrition among HIV/AIDS-affected households and communities and that strengthen the ability of HIV/AIDS-affected individuals and households to meet current and future needs. Particular attention needs to be given to dealing with orphans and other vulnerable children and to promoting overall agriculture development and food production, including through school and hospital gardens as appropriate.

The managers are aware of the efforts of Voices for Humanity and the other organizations cited on page 9 of Senate Report 108–106 and page 15 of House Report 108–222 to convey HIV/AIDS awareness, prevention, treatment and medical training among non-literate and oral communicating populations in developing countries. The managers expect that USAID and the Global AIDS Coordinator consider and, where feasible, fund pilot projects and other proposals submitted by such organizations.

The conference agreement does not include a Senate provision that funds shall be made available to the HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria Cluster of the World Health Organization (WHO). However, the managers recognize the central role WHO plays in fighting HIV/AIDS and other infectious diseases, and expect that funds will be made available to support this new initiative.

For health in West Africa, the conference agreement does not include section 699D of the Senate amendment providing $5,000,000 for the Carter Center's Guinea Worm Eradication Program. The managers note that the Carter Center recently released an action plan for guinea worm eradiction that target Ghana, Nigeria, and Sudan. The managers strongly support this program and expect that $5,000,000 will be a made available for this purpose. The managers also endorse the House report language on the West African Health Organization and on obstetric fistula and urge USAID to initiate programs in heavily effected areas, and to expand the programs of the International Medical Corps in Sierra Leone that address this problem.

The conference agreement allocates $375,500,000 for family planning/reproductive health within the Child Survival and Health Programs Fund, as proposed by the Senate, instead of $368,500,000 as proposed by the House.

The managers also direct USAID to continue to provide the Committees with a detailed annual report not later than March 31, 2004, on the programs, projects, and activities undertaken by the Child Survival and Health Programs Fund during fiscal year 2003.

Funds appropriated for the Child Survival and Health Programs Fund are appropriated for programs, projects and activities. Funds for administrative expenses to manage Fund activities are provided in a separate United States Agency for International Development Operating Expenses account, with three exceptions included in the conference agreement: authority for USAID's central and regional bureaus to use up to $250,000 from program funds for Operating Expense-funded personnel to better monitor and provide oversight of the Fund; in section 522, authority to use up to $13,500,000 to reimburse other government agencies and private institutions for professional services; and in section 525, authority to hire overseas personnel on a limited term basis.

Any proposed obligations for Global Development Alliance programs, projects or activities shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations, as shall any proposed transfers of Child Survival and Health Programs funds to any other agency, program, or account.

DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement appropriates $1,385,000,000 for "Development Assistance" instead of $1,317,000,000 as proposed by the House and $1,423,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers have agreed to provide $235,000,000 for basic education, including adult literacy programs, under the development assistance account, instead of $250,000,000 as proposed by the House bill or $220,000,000 as proposed by the Senate amendment.

The conference agreement includes Senate language that provides $100,000,000 shall be made available for drinking water supply projects and related activities. The managers expect USAID to report no later than 90 days after enactment of this Act on funding and implementation of its water projects, including the number and location of wells drilled, and the cost per well.

The managers endorse language in Senate Report 108–106 regarding Water Conservation and, in particular, the recommendation for $1,500,000 for Water Missions International (WMI). The managers intend that this funding to WMI for hospitals in Honduras be in addition to water project funding previously planned for allocation in that country.

The managers are aware of the efforts of the Millennium Water Alliance to provide potable water to African communities that lack access to clean water, and recognize the importance of the Alliance's work. The managers recommend that, upon submission of suitable proposals to USAID, a significant part of the funds for potable water be provided to members of the Alliance to increase access to clean water and reduce rates of water-borne diseases and infant mortality in Africa.

The managers encourage USAID to allocate increased funding for agricultural development activities, and recommend that USAID allocate funding for these activities in sub-Saharan Africa more at the village level to include projects in small-scale irrigation, water and drainage, post-harvest storage, crop intensification, crop and livestock diversification, and rural infrastructure, such as the Special Programme for Food Security of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization.

The managers continue to support the work of private voluntary organizations in the economic growth sector, especially the Financial Services Volunteer Corps and the International Executive Service Corps. The managers direct USAID to provide such organizations with sufficient core funding and fair opportunity to compete for relevant contracts and awards in the economic growth sector.

The conference agreement includes language, similar to a Senate provision, which provides that not less than $10,000,000 should be made available for programs and activities in rural Mexico to promote microfinance, small business development, private property ownership in rural communities, energy and environmental conservation, and to support small farmers who have been affected by adverse economic conditions, subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations. The managers remain concerned with reports of corruption of the legal process in connection with a property dispute involving American citizens in Oaxaca and the University of the Americas, and the wrongful issuance of arrest warrants and imprisonment of these individuals. While the managers are aware that the criminal charges have been dismissed, the arrest warrants remain outstanding and the property dispute is unresolved. The managers intend to follow this matter until it is resolved satisfactorily.

The managers are greatly concerned by continued reports of violence against women in Cuidad Juárez and Chihuahua, Mexico. The managers consider this a bi-national issue, as U.S. citizens are among the victims and among those accused of committing these acts. The managers urge the State Department to work with the Mexican government to set up a DNA database, under international auspices, which would enable the positive identification of the victims by collecting DNA samples from the victims and from the families of the disappeared women.

The managers support projects in Central America that provide safe, nutritious, and affordable food to pre-school and school aged populations. The managers are aware of a nutritional drink that has achieved results in reducing malnutrition among Guatemalan pre-school children, and encourage USAID to determine the feasibility of establishing a long-term child nutrition program targeted toward reducing severe malnutrition rates among Central American children.

The managers endorse the House language on the Cooperative Association of States for Scholarships, which calls upon USAID to fully implement and fund its new agreement with the Association.

The managers endorse the House language on the Women in Development office urging that the office be funded at $11,000,000, and direct that USAID report no later than 90 days after the enactment of this Act on activities planned for the office and measures to increase staffing in order to expand its relevance to USAID-wide operations.

With respect to Afghanistan, section 523 includes language similar to a Senate proposal, providing that not less then $2,000,000 should be made available for assistance for Afghans who suffer losses as a result of the military operations. The managers are aware that assistance for these victims has begun to be provided by USAID and the Department of Defense, in consultation with local Afghan communities, with funds previously appropriated. The managers believe that the capabilities of the Provincial Reconstruction Teams, which have access to remote, nonpermissive areas, should be utilized. The managers intend these funds to be used for medical and rehabilitation assistance, shelter and other infrastructure, and other appropriate assistance from this account.

Although the conference agreement does not contain Economic Support Fund assistance for Pakistan, it does contain funding for education and health programs in the Development Assistance account and Child Survival and Health programs Fund. Given the enormous challenges that face Pakistan in the education and health sectors, the managers strongly urge the Administration to structure its proposed 5-year USAID package to address those needs. The managers expect not less than $2,000,000 should be made available for programs and activities of the Pakistan Human Development Fund and not less than $1,000,000 for Amanut Society. The Senate included funding for these organizations under the heading "Economic Support Fund", but no funds are made available for Pakistan under that heading in this Act as $200,000,000 was appropriated in Public Law 108–106.

The managers direct that, of the funds for agriculture and rural development programs $25,000,000 be provided for USAID's Collaborative Research Support Programs (CRSPs), of which $2,000,000 should be used to establish a CRSP that is focused on water security.

The managers support the language of the House report directing that USAID fund dairy development programs at not less than $15,000,000 for fiscal year 2004. Of this amount at least $7,500,000 should be made available for new projects at missions supplementing their existing rural development programs with a dairy component. The new programs should focus primarily on dairy development, rather than as a component of other cultural programs. The managers have included this directive in fiscal year 2004 in part because of USAID's failure to meet directives of previous years.

The conference report includes language similar to a Senate provision which provides $155,000,000 for programs which directly protect biodiversity, including forests. The managers endorse language under the heading "Environment Programs" on page 17 in Senate Report 108–106 on these issues, including the importance of developing a regional strategy for biodiversity conservation in the Amazon Basin, amounts of assistance for Brazil in fiscal year 2004, and support for the Amazon Conservation Team. The conference agreement does not include Senate language relating to the use of Child Survival and Health and Development Assistance funds for integrated population-health-environment programs. However, the managers expect Child Survival and Health funds to be used to fund child survival, health, and family planning activities of integrated population-health-environment programs, including in areas where biodiversity and endangered species are threatened and Development Assistance funds should be used to fund environment, conservation, natural resource management, and sustainable agriculture activities in such integrated programs.

The managers support programs that conserve energy and promote efficient energy production and distribution in developing countries. The conference agreement provides in section 555 that $180,000,000 should be made available for these programs. The managers urge that energy technology program offices at USAID, the Export-Import Bank, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, the Trade and Development Agency and other federal agencies involved in foreign assistance and export promotion activities that participate in the Clean Energy Technology Exports Initiative, contribute to this nine-agency effort.

The managers endorse language on page 15 of Senate Report 108–106 regarding, among other things, the importance of preserving the viability of leading micro-finance NGO networks so these organizations may increase the number of people they serve.

The managers direct that not less than $1,000,000 be made available for the United States Telecommunications Training Institute, a long-standing and successful program that provides communications and broadcasting training to professionals around the world. The Senate amendment included bill language mandating that such funds be made available for this purpose. The House bill did not address this matter.

The conference agreement provides that $19,000,000 should be made available for the American Schools and Hospitals Abroad program. The Senate amendment included bill language stating that $20,000,000 should be made available for this purpose.

The managers strongly support the fertilizer-related research and development being conducted by the International Fertilizer Development Center (IFDC) and urge USAID to make at least $4,000,000 available to IFDC, including not less than $2,300,000 for its core grant, as provided under the Senate amendment.

The conference agreement does not include language, as proposed by the Senate, providing up to $3,000,000 for the International Real Property Foundation. The managers direct USAID to provide funding to this organization.

The managers support the budget request for programs and activities conducted by USAID's Bureau of Democracy, Conflict and Humanitarian Assistance. The managers expect sufficient funding to be provided for democracy building activities that, if properly implemented, can serve as a bulwark against terrorism.

The managers endorse language in Senate Report 108–106 regarding Faith Based Organizations.

The managers note that a proposal by the University of South Dakota to develop international mental health programs was inadvertently omitted from the list of university proposals on pages 20 to 23 of the Senate report.

The managers continue to be supportive of efforts to form public-private partnerships, through the Global Development Alliance or other appropriate USAID mechanisms, to build and support schools and other educational institutions, which promote tolerant, secular educational curricula.

The conference agreement includes a general provision (section 586), similar to Senate language, which provides that not less than $35,000,000 in "Development Assistance" funds should be made available for Nicaragua, which is $4,000,000 above the amount requested. The managers commend President Bolanos for his efforts to combat the endemic corruption that has impeded Nicaragua's development. The managers recommend that these additional funds be used to assist subsistence farmers and to support judicial reform efforts.

The managers support the request for Development Assistance for Nepal, but are aware of the deteriorating climate for security and private investment. In particular, the Department of State is asked to continue to work with the Government of Nepal to promote broad-based economic development and to secure property rights for Nepalese and foreign-owned infrastructure, including private power generation facilities.

INTERNATIONAL DISASTER AND FAMINE ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement appropriates $255,500,000 for "International Disaster and Famine Assistance", instead of $315,500,000 as proposed by the House and $235,500,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Of this amount, $20,000,000 is made available specifically for assistance for famine prevention and relief, instead of $80,000,000 as proposed by the House and $100,000,000 as proposed by the Senate under a separate heading, "Famine Fund". The conference agreement requires consultation with the Committees on Appropriations prior to the commitment or obligation of these funds.

The remaining $235,500,000 is appropriated to USAID for traditional international disaster relief, rehabilitation, and reconstruction assistance, especially to mitigate the impact of unforeseen natural disasters.

DEVELOPMENT CREDIT AUTHORITY

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement includes authority for USAID to use funds made available by this Act for the cost of modifying loans guaranteed under this or prior Acts, as proposed by the Senate. The House bill did not address this matter. The conference agreement requires that the appropriate Committees be notified prior to the use of funds for loan restructuring.

OPERATING EXPENSES OF THE UNITED STATES AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Out of the $604,100,000 appropriated for Operating Expenses of the United States Agency for International Development, the conference agreement provided $25,000,000 to be available until September 30, 2005 instead of $30,000,000 as proposed by the House. In addition, contracts or agreements entered into with funds made available under this heading may entail commitments for the expenditure of such funds through September 30, 2005.

The managers have also included a new provision prohibiting the use of funds to open a new USAID overseas mission without prior written notification. In addition, several other provisions give the Agency greater flexibility in hiring personnel to meet expanding or unanticipated missions. The managers also support the intent of the language regarding USAIDLINK on page 30 of House Report 107–683, and expect that this activity will be carried out over the next two years.

The conference agreement includes language that would prohibit reducing the number of foreign service employees at each mission in Latin America expect as provided through notification to the Committees on Appropriations. The managers understand that the assistance and staffing levels for all Central American missions have been under pressure due to demands elsewhere in the world, but Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua are slated for substantial staffing reductions relative to other countries in this hemisphere. The managers do not believe that this strategy reflects the priorities of United States economic, trade, humanitarian and immigration policies with these countries. Guatemala specifically is struggling in a state of post-conflict polarization, and with the new January 2004 government, the managers strongly believe that reducing assistance and staffing would limit the ability of the United States to be responsive at this critical juncture in Guatemala's history.

CAPITAL INVESTMENT FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $82,200,000 for USAID's Capital Investment Fund, instead of $49,300,000 as proposed by the House or $100,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes House language that authorizes the Administrator of USAID to assess fair and reasonable rental payments for the use of space by employees of other government agencies; provides that the rental payments shall be deposited into this account as offsetting collections; requires notification for the use of such offsetting collections, as well as for funds appropriated under this heading; and provides that the assignment of United States Government employees and contractors to space in buildings shall be subject to the concurrence of the Administrator of USAID.

The conference agreement includes $62,200,000 for new USAID buildings in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, Kampala, Uganda, and Conakry, Guinea or Bamako, Mali, as requested by the President. The managers note that in the past USAID has abruptly modified its prioritization of major overseas building projects and, therefore, request to be consulted immediately should this occur again. The managers strongly support the provisions of funds, when available, for a new USAID building in Yerevan, Armenia.

OTHER BILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

ECONOMIC SUPPORT FUND

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement appropriates $2,132,500,000 for the Economic Support Fund instead of $2,240,500,000 as proposed by the House and $2,415,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Funds in this account are allocated in the following table and, as stipulated in bill language, any change to these allocations is subject to the regular reprogramming procedures of the Committees on Appropriations

The conference agreement provides $480,000,000 for Israel and language requiring disbursement of funds within 30 days of enactment of this Act. The conference agreement provides not less than $575,000,000 for Egypt as proposed by both the House and Senate, of which not less than $200,000,000 is for the Commodity Import Program assistance as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement also includes language that provides that not less than $250,000,000 should be made available for assistance for Jordan, as proposed by the House. The Senate language would have mandated this level of support.

The managers endorse the House report language regarding support for the International Arid Lands Consortium. The managers also direct that not less than $1,000,000 be made available from ESF funds or from "Development Assistance" for the Blaustein Institute for Desert Research to investigate the flow and transport of pollutants in groundwater.

The conference agreement provides that up to $1,000,000 of funds should be used to further legal reforms in the West Bank and Gaza, including judicial training on commercial disputes and ethics.

The conference agreement does not include funds for Pakistan under this heading. The Senate provided $200,000,000 for Pakistan, as requested by the President. The House included $67,000,000 for Pakistan, specifically for debt relief for Pakistan. The Senate did not address the matter of debt relief. Congress provides $200,000,000 in subsidy appropriations for Pakistan in P.L. 108-106, the Fiscal Year 2004 Emergency Supplemental for Defense and Reconstruction of Iraq and Afghanistan.

The conference agreement includes language similar to that proposed by the Senate providing that not less than $13,500,000 shall be available for assistance for Cyprus. The House bill provided that $12,000,000 should be made available, and the Senator bill provided $15,000,000 for Cyprus.

The conference agreement includes language similar to that in the Senate amendment that provides not less than $35,000,000 for assistance for Lebanon. In addition, funding provided in this account for the Central Government of Lebanon is subject to Congressional notification. The managers permit that $4,000,000 should be made available for American educational institutions in Lebanon from the bilateral assistance program.

The conference agreement does not include a Senate provision concerning the abduction of American children in Lebanon. However, the managers note that Lebanese officials have failed to enforce the custody and international pickup orders of Lebanon's civil courts despite repeated assurances. The managers condemn the Lebanese and Syrian authorities who have failed to uphold their laws and execute arrest warrants against parents who have abducted American children.

The conference agreement includes a general provision, similar to a Senate provision, which provides $8,000,000 for reconciliation programs and activities that bring together individuals of different ethnic, religious, and political backgrounds from areas of civil conflict and war. The managers note the bipartisan support for such activities that promote understanding and reconciliation particularly in the Middle East, and expect the State Department and USAID to establish an efficient and effective mechanism for evaluating and funding proposals for the use of these funds. The managers believe that the following organizations are among those deserving consideration and support: Seeds of Peace; the Jerusalem International YMCA, the Arava Institute for Environmental Studies, the International Crisis Group, the Middle East Children's Association, Partners for Democratic Change, and Interns for Peace.

The conference agreement provides $22,500,000 in "Economic Support Fund" assistance for East Timor (Timor-Leste) instead of $25,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and $13,500,000 (and $4,000,000 in Development Assistance) as proposed in the House. The managers recommend that funds be made available to, among other things, enhance economic programs to revitalize and for educational and vocational training especially for unemployed youth, promote good governance, meet basic human needs, and improve physical infrastructure. The conference agreement provides that of the funds for East Timor, $1,000,000 may be available for administrative expenses of the United States Agency for International Development.

The managers have included language, similar to the Senate bill, which provides $1,500,000 for technical assistance to implement the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme. The managers endorse the Senate report language on this issue and urge the Administration to request funds for this purpose in fiscal year 2005.

The managers have included a provision, similar to Senate language, regarding programs to develop justice and reconciliation mechanisms in Central Africa and expect the Administration to provide the amount of funding requested for these programs. The managers are concerned about human rights abuses in Central Africa, including rape committed on a massive scale in the eastern region of the Democratic Republic of the Congo. The managers urge the Administration to initiate programs aimed at ending the impunity that prevails in the region, preventing future abuses, and providing medical and counseling services to victims.

The conference agreement includes language in section 558 similar to a Senate provision which earmarks not less than $4,000,000 in "Economic Support Fund" assistance for Tibet through nongovernmental organizations located outside the People's Republic of China to support activities that preserve cultural traditions and promote sustainable development and environmental conservation in Tibetan communities in the Tibetan Autonomous Region and in Tibetan communities in China. The managers are aware that the migration of Han Chinese into these areas threatens the survival of Tibetan culture and that nongovernmental organizations are involved in small scale projects to empower Tibetan communities and preserve Tibetan culture, and address basic human needs. The managers support the unique role of The Bridge Fund, and expect not less than $1,700,000 to be provided for the Bridge Fund in fiscal year 2003 funds, and not less than $2,000,000 to be provided for The Bridge Fund in fiscal year 2004 funds. The managers intend that the balance of the funds will be made available on a fully competitive basis to organizations with a history of working with Tibetan communities.

The managers endorse language similar to that contained in the House report, that recommends $250,000 be made available through a nongovernmental organization, such as the National Endowment for Democracy, for the purpose of providing training and education of Tibetans in democracy activities, and monitoring the human rights situation in Tibet. The managers intend these funds to be made available through section 526(d) of this Act.

The conference agreement does not include a Senate provision earmarking $250,000 for the Commission to Investigate Illegal Groups and Clandestine Security Apparatus in Guatemala. However, the managers strongly support this effort to investigate those responsible for the political violence and organized criminal activity that continues to hamper Guatemala's development, and recommend that at least $250,000 be provided to the Commission in fiscal year 2004.

The managers are concerned with reports that the Government of Ecuador has failed to adequately safeguard foreign investments in that country. The managers direct the Secretary of State to report to the Committees on the extent of United States investments in Ecuador, and an analysis of the political, legal and economic challenges posed to such investments. The managers request the report to include recommendations for addressing and resolving these challenges.

The conference agreement provides that Economic Support Fund resources shall be made available for administrative costs of the United States Agency for International Development to implement regional programs in Asia and the Near East, including the Middle East Partnership Initiative, in addition to amounts otherwise available for such purposes.

The conference agreement provides that funds appropriated under the Economic Support Fund for a Middle East Financing Facility, Middle East Enterprise Fund, or any other similar entity in the Middle East shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

The conference agreement provides not less than $1,750,000 should be made available for East Asia and Pacific Environment Initiatives. The Senate bill provided $3,500,000 for this program and the House bill did not address this issue. The conferees have included $18,000,000 for the Treaty on Fisheries between the United States and the governments of certain Pacific Island states, popularly known as the south Pacific Regional Fisheries Treaty. The conferees endorse the discussion of this issue in the House report.

The managers provide $3,000,000 for the Foundation for Security and Sustainability.

Of the $4,000,000 included in the conference agreement for the initiatives of the State Department Bureau of Oceans and International Environmental and Scientific Affairs, $2,000,000 is for supporting a bilateral science and technology agreement with Pakistan for which Development Assistance funds were denied in fiscal year 2003.

The conference agreement provides language not in either the House or the Senate bill that allows transfers to the Economic Support Fund from funds appropriated in P.L. 108–106 for the Iraq Relief and Reconstruction Fund. The conferees have included language that allows up to $100,000,000 for transfer to support programs for Turkey, and $30,000,000 for transfer to support the Middle East Partnership Initiative.

INTERNATIONAL FUND FOR IRELAND

The conference agreement appropriates $18,500,000 instead of $19,600,000 as proposed by the House. The Senate did not address this matter.

The conferees encourage the International Fund for Ireland to continue progress for direct reconciliation assistance and programs, particularly in helping to develop a fully supported, accountable and modern police service that serves all communities.

GLOBAL HIV/AIDS INITIATIVE

The conference report includes $491,000,000 for the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative instead of $989,000,000 as proposed by the Senate or $450,000,000 as contained in the budget request. The House addressed this matter within the Child Survival and Health Programs fund and did not include funding for initiatives in a limited number of focus countries in a separate appropriations account.

The managers welcome the creation at the State Department of the Office of the Global AIDS Coordinator, and anticipate that the powers and responsibilities delegated to the Coordinator by this Act and Public Law 108–25 will enable the Coordinator to finally coalesce the HIV/AIDS programs run by disparate agencies into an effective, coordinated approach. The managers have not include language included by the Senate that would have allowed the Coordinator authority to reach into other appropriations accounts and transfer funds into this account. The transfer authorities in section 509 of the conference agreement enable the Coordinator to fulfill his mandate. Any reprogramming or transfers of funds into or out of the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative account is subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations and section 634A of the Foreign Assistance Act.

The conference report does not include language contained in the House bill limiting the value of grants and contracts that may be let directly from the Coordinator's office at $50,000,000. The Coordinator has informed the Committees that his office will rely primarily upon the procurement and contracting capacity existent in United States agencies. The managers expect the Coordinator to consult with the Committees on Appropriations prior to exercising his contracting and grant-making authority to directly implement overseas programs.

The managers have included $8,000,000, as proposed by the Senate, for the administrative expenses of the Office of the Global AIDS Coordinator. The managers request the Global AIDS Coordinator, not later than 90 days following enactment of this Act, to submit to the Committees on Appropriations a report which details by object class the proposed uses of the Office's administrative expense allowance.

The conference agreement includes language, similar to Senate provisions, which provides up to $75,000,000 should be provided for the safe and appropriate use of injections and other forms of infection control and prevention, and for blood safety programs. With respect to the safe and appropriate use of injections and other forms of infection control and prevention, the managers intend these funds to be used for programs and activities including national assessments and planning; the provision of syringes with the reuse prevention and safety feature(s) that will effectively reduce exposure to contaminated syringes and needles, and safety disposal boxes; gloves, masks, and other supplies required to implement universal precautions; logistical support to ensure a reliable supply of and proper use of these items; public education on the safe and appropriate use of injections; training of health providers; post exposure prophylaxis programs for health and laboratory workers; and waste management.

With respect to blood safety programs, the managers intend these funds to be used for programs and activities including the establishment and support of national blood services; formulation/reform of national transfusion protocols to reduce the number of low priority transfusions; the provision of rapid HIV test kits; screening for other transfusion-transmitted infections; staff training, including in the appropriate clinical use of blood; the recruitment of voluntary, non-remunerated blood donors; and quality assurance programs.

The managers note that the United States Global Leadership Against HIV/AIDS, TB and Malaria Act of 2003 (P.L. 108–25) provides that in fiscal year 2004 it is the "sense of Congress" that 55 percent of all global HIV/AIDS funds should go for treatment, 20 percent for prevention, of which no less than 33 percent be reserved for "abstinence until marriage" programs, 15 percent for palliative care, and 10 percent for orphans and vulnerable children.

The managers continue to request a satisfactory explanation of how the Administration selected its Global HIV/AIDS Initiative focus countries, including selection criteria that takes into account the need to preemptively stem the tide of the disease in other parts of the world at high risk of developing full-blown pandemics. The conference agreement includes language urging the Global AIDS Coordinator to select one additional focus country not in Africa or the Caribbean region. The managers understand that the Global AIDS Coordinator will consult with the Committees as he selects this fifteenth country, and will keep them informed on the selection criteria as they are developed.

The leading indicator of success for the Global AIDS Initiative is treating 2 million people living with HIV/AIDS, preventing 7 million new infections, and providing care and support to 10 million of those infected and otherwise affected by the disease. One of the responsibilities of the Global AIDS Coordinator is to determine the proper allocation categories for programs and projects under his oversight in order to meet these objectives, but categorization may be difficult for some activities. The costs of mother and child transmission programs, for instance, are substantial. If these costs are included within the 20 percent target for prevention programs, funding for crucial behavioral change prevention programs may well be crowded out. The costs of mother and child transmission might also be considered part of the 55 percent target for treatment programs, since breaking the cycle of mother-to-child transmission often relies on the use of drug treatments.

The managers support the goals for HIV/AIDS antiretroviral treatment established through section 402 of Public Law 108–25, including that by the end of fiscal year 2004 at least 500,000 individuals with HIV/AIDS will be receiving antiretroviral treatment through United States assistance programs. The managers encourage the Global AIDS Coordinator to solicit and fund proposals for the delivery of antiretroviral treatment in targeted countries in an expeditious manner.

The managers recognize that United States funding in the fight against HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, and malaria will not, in itself, roll back these pandemics. Sustaining the advances made by the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative and other programs will be a growing challenge as more people begin drug therapy. The managers encourage the Global AIDS Coordinator to consider pilot programs and innovative approaches, including public-private partnerships and faith based organizations, aimed at increasing sustainability and access to high-quality, affordable drugs while respecting intellectual property rights.

The managers request the Global AIDS Coordinator to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations, the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, and the House Committee on International Relations not later than 60 days after enactment describing (1) the estimated proportion of all global HIV/AIDS funding in fiscal year 2004 that will be spent on prevention activities, and the estimated amount in dollars; (2) the amount estimated to be spent on "abstinence until marriage" programs in fiscal year 2004; and (3) a description of the criteria for determining which programs are included under treatment; prevention, with the criteria for "abstinence until marriage" programs specifically outlined; palliative care; and orphans and vulnerable children.

The managers also request the Global AIDS Coordinator to submit brief reports to the Committees on Appropriations, the House Committee on International Relations, and the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations not later than 90 days following the enactment of this Act and updated every 90 days thereafter, describing the obligation and transfers between accounts during the previous quarter of all funds overseen by the Global AIDS Coordinator. The managers note the reports mandated by P.L. 108–25, and direct the Global AIDS Coordinator to also submit these reports to the Committees on Appropriations.

ASSISTANCE FOR EASTERN EUROPE AND THE BALTIC STATES

The conference agreement appropriates $445,000,000 as proposed by the Senate, instead of $452,000,000 as proposed by the House.

Funds in this account are allocated in the following table and, as stipulated in bill language any change to these allocations is subject to the regular reprogramming procedures of the Committees on Appropriations:

Assistance for Eastern Europe and the Baltic States

[Budget authority in thousands of dollars]

	Conference agreement
Albania	$28,000
Bosnia-Herzegovina	45,000
Bulgaria	28,000
Croatia	25,000
Kosovo	79,000
Macedonia	39,000
Romania	28,000
Serbia	100,000
Montenegro	35,000
Total AEEB	445,000

The conference agreement contains language that provides that $2,000,000 should be made available to enhance safety at nuclear power plants. It is intended that this nuclear safety program will include the provision of full scope simulators.

The managers have provided $35,000,000 for assistance programs in Montenegro as recommended in the House report. The conference agreement includes language providing that not less than $12,000,000 of this amount shall be for economic development and environmental programs in Montenegro's coastal region. This language was not included in either the House or Senate bills, but is similar to direction contained in the House report.

The conference agreement includes Senate language providing not less than $1,000,000 should be made available for a program to promote greater understanding and interaction among youth in Albania, Kosovo, Montenegro, and Macedonia under this heading, and not "Economic Support Fund, as proposed by the Senate. This program also was discussed in the House report under the Assistance for Eastern Europe and Baltic States account. The managers expect the National Albanian American Council to conduct this program.

The managers strongly recommend that the Russian, Eurasian, and East European Research and Training Program (Title VIII) be funded at the 2003 level. The managers endorse the House report language on the East Central European Scholarship Program (ECESP) and recognize the Administration's continued support for the program. The managers further recognize that expansion of this program into Central Asia would benefit the people of this region.

The conference agreement includes not less than $53,500,000 for HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, and malaria from this heading, Assistance for the Independent States of the Former Soviet Union, Economic Support Fund, and Foreign Military Financing, instead of $50,000,000 from these accounts, (except Foreign Military Financing) as contained in the Senate amendment. The managers are increasingly concerned about the increase of HIV/AIDS and tuberculosis, especially multi-drug resistant tuberculosis, in Eastern Europe, central Asia, and Russia.

ASSISTANCE FOR THE INDEPENDENT STATES OF THE FORMER SOVIET UNION

The conference agreement appropriates $587,000,000, instead of $576,000,000 as proposed by the House and $596,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes not less than $57,000,000 for child survival, environmental and other health activities, and programs to reduce the incidence of HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, and other infectious diseases, including not less than $15,000,000 for reproductive health/family planning.

The managers reiterate language in the Statement of the Managers from prior years with regard to other limitations on assistance, "that assistance to combat infectious diseases, . . . support for regional and municipal governments, and partnerships between United States hospitals, universities, judicial training institutions and environmental organizations and counterparts in Russia should not be affected by this section."

The conference agreement provides not less than $19,000,000 should be made available for nuclear reactor safety initiatives in Ukraine. The managers expect that of this amount, $14,000,000 shall be provided for simulator-related projects. The conference agreement also includes language similar to that proposed by the Senate providing not less than $1,500,000 for coal mine safety programs.

The conference agreement provides that $94,000,000 shall be made available for assistance for Russia, including $4,000,000, as proposed by the Senate, to promote freedom of the media and independent media in that country. This amount is $21,000,000 above the budget request.

The managers remain gravely concerned with the deterioration and systematic dismantling of democracy and the rule of law in the Russian Federation. The managers condemn the Russian Government's crackdown on the media and political opposition groups and individuals, and call upon senior Russian officials to immediately cease the harassment of American citizens involved in foreign assistance programs in Russia by that country's security services.

The managers expect the State Department to proactively and publicly engage the Russian Government to immediately terminate forced returns of displaced Chechens to Chechnya, provide additional assistance to those Chechens impacted by Russian efforts to force or coerce returns, and secure accountability for gross human rights violations committed by Russian forces against Chechen civilians. The managers request the State Department to consult with the Committees on this matter.

The managers expect a significant portion of these funds to be used to support democracy and rule of law programs in Russia.

The managers support the Russian American Judicial Partnership, the Russian American Rule of Law Consortium, and the American Bar Association's Central and East European Law Initiative, which are involved in activities to strengthen the rule of law and protect civil liberties, which are essential to democratic and economic development in Russia. The mangers also support efforts, such as those of the Institute for Sustainable Communities, to mitigate the effects of environmental pollution on human health in the Central Asian region.

The conference agreement includes language providing not less than $17,500,000 for the Russian Far East, instead of $20,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers endorse language in Senate Report 108–106 regarding the Russia Far East.

The managers endorse Senate Report 108–106 language regarding orphans, and strongly support the work of Kidsave International and other organizations working in the Former Soviet Union.

The conference agreement provides $75,000,000 under the heading Assistance for the Independent States of the Former Soviet Union for assistance for Armenia, as proposed by the Senate. This amount is $25,500,000 above the budget request. The managers direct that $2,500,000 in Foreign Military Financing and not less than $900,000 in International Military Education and Training funds be provided to Armenia, as contained in the budget request. The managers support Senate report language on the use of military assistance to enhance communication capabilities.

The managers support the provision of assistance to the American University of Armenia (AUA), and recognize the important contribution of AUA to the development of Armenia's future leaders.

The managers endorse House report language regarding proposals to establish and develop in Armenia a central diagnostic laboratory for the Caucasus region to address health and food safety.

The managers continue to follow political developments in the region, particularly efforts to secure a peaceful resolution to the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict. The managers endorse confidence-building measures among all parties to the conflict.

The managers have not included a specific amount for Georgia in the conference agreement, but continue to closely follow political developments in Georgia. The managers are troubled by recent events, including political turmoil following flawed elections earlier this month. The managers condemn all acts of violence and intimidation against the opposition and encourage all parties to engage in dialogue to resolve the current political crisis.

The managers note that corruption and the absence of political will to implement much needed reforms hinder the political, economic, and legal development of Georgia. The managers expect the State Department to continue to press the Government of Georgia to be far more transparent and accountable.

The managers appreciate the threats to Georgia and the region from terrorists in the Pankisi Gorge, and encourage the State Department to continue to fund those programs and activities that further the national security interests of both the United States and Georgia.

The managers expect to be consulted by the Department of State prior to any obligation of funds, should that country's political situation continue to deteriorate and funding priorities change.

The conference agreement does not include Senate language expressing concern with the flawed October presidential elections in Azerbaijan but retains language in section 592 requiring the Secretary of State to report to Congress on the ongoing investigation into the murder of United States democracy worker John Alvis.

The managers condemn the manipulation of the electoral process by Azeri officials and deplore the post-election crackdown on demonstrators that killed at least one individual and injured more than 300. The managers note that Azerbaijan has yet to hold national polls that meet internationally recognized standards of free and fair elections.

The managers expect the State Department, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Azeri Government to reinvigorate efforts to investigate and prosecute those responsible for the murder of John Alvis in December, 2000.

The managers are concerned with reports that the Government of Moldova has failed to adequately safeguard foreign investments in that country. The managers request the Secretary of State to report to the Committees not later than 180 days after enactment of this Act on the extent and status of United States direct foreign investment in Moldova, and an analysis of the political, legal and economic challenges to such investments, particularly with regard to a cognac factory.

INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

INTER-AMERICAN FOUNDATION

The conference agreement appropriates $16,334,000 as proposed by the Senate, instead of $15,185,000 as proposed by the House.

AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT FOUNDATION

The conference agreement appropriates $18,689,000 as proposed by the Senate, instead of $17,689,000 as proposed by the House.

PEACE CORPS

The conference agreement provides $310,000,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $314,000,000 as proposed by the House. Under the heading Global HIV/AIDS Initiative, the conference agreement provides a permissive transfer of $15,000,000 to the Peace Corps for HIV/AIDS activities, instead of $20,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House did not address this matter.

The managers have included House language permanently waiving the so-called "five-year rule" of employment in the case of employees whose appointment involves the safety of Peace Corps volunteers, such as regional safety security officers and employees within the Office of Inspector General.

The managers continue to support expansion of the Peace Corps, however, the managers are concerned about recent attacks on volunteers, especially on female volunteers. The managers recommend that the Peace Corps continue consulting with the Committees on Appropriations to examine the current security issues to ensure that increasing the number of volunteers occurs simultaneously with better security and emergency procedures.

MILLENNIUM CHALLENGE CORPORATION

The conference agreement includes $650,000,000 for the Millennium Challenge Corporation (MCC) instead of $800,000,000 as proposed by the House and 1,000,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers strongly support this initiative and provide the maximum level of funding possible to the MCC within the constraints of the budget allocation, which is $1,653,729,000 below the President's request.

The managers believe that additional assistance is critical to support development on a global basis. Title VI, the Millennium Challenge Act of 2003 is included to provide such assistance in a manner that promotes economic growth and the elimination of extreme poverty and strengthens good governance, economic freedom, and investments in people.

The managers reserve the right to amend this language in the fiscal year 2005 Act.

The managers appreciate the input and efforts of the House International Relations Committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in drafting the authorizing language contained in this Act.

The managers note that funding provided for the MCC in title II is subject to section 515, "Notification Requirements". The managers direct the Corporation to consult within 30 days on the modalities for implementing section 515 in a manner acceptable to the Committees on Appropriations.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

INTERNATIONAL NARCOTICS CONTROL AND LAW ENFORCEMENT

The conference agreement appropriates $241,700,000 for International Narcotics Control and Law Enforcement as proposed by the House, instead of $284,550,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers note that the conference report does not include funding for Afghanistan since $50,000,000 was provided above the request in P.L. 108–106 for Afghanistan.

The managers note that the following amounts were provided specifically for counternarcotics and law enforcement in Afghanistan: $243,000,000 in the 2004 emergency supplemental (includes $73,000,000 for the Department of Defense); $25,000,000 in the 2003 emergency supplemental; and $80,000,000 in the 2002 emergency supplemental. Even given these significant levels of funding, the United Nations reports that Afghan farmers are replanting poppy at greater rates each year since the fall of the Taliban. The managers strongly support the United States participation in attacking the Afghan drug problem, which generates funds for terrorists and extremists not only in Afghanistan but also throughout the region. Concurrently, the mangers are concerned that while 90 percent of the heroin exported from Afghanistan is destined for Europe, the majority of funds to counter this crop are from the United States. Therefore, the managers direct the Department of State to provide a report to the Committees on Appropriations not later than 45 days after enactment of this Act that outlines the objectives of this program, including participation by the Department of Defense; a detailed analysis of the purposes for which fiscal year 2004 appropriated funds are to be used and a detailed accounting of how fiscal year 2002 and 2003 appropriated funds have been used; and the levels of actual or estimated funding over the 2001–2004 period by other donors listed by amount and by country.

The conference agreement provides that $12,000,000 should be made available for anti-trafficking in persons programs. The Senate amendment provided $20,000,000 for this purpose, and the House did not address this matter.

The conference agreement provides that $7,105,000 should be made available for the International Law Enforcement Academy in Roswell, New Mexico, of which $2,105,000 should be made available for the construction and completion of a new facility. The managers note this one-time language is intended to fully resolve this outstanding matter. The House did not address this matter.

The conference report does not include Senate language that provides $5,000,000 to combat piracy of United States intellectual property. However, the managers support this initiative and expect the State Department to provide $2,500,000 for this purpose. The State Department, in close consultation with the United States Trade Representative, the Department of Commerce, and the Committees on Appropriations, should formulate a detailed strategy for the use of these funds before they are obligated. The managers also urge the State Department to utilize the expertise of other agencies of the federal government when implementing these programs.

The conference agreement makes available $26,117,000 for administrative expenses instead of $24,180,000 as proposed by the House and $25,117,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers have provided $1,000,000 in additional administrative expenses to allow and encourage the Department of State to provide office space to the Bureau of International Narcotics Control and Law Enforcement in the Harry S. Truman Building (Main State) to bring together all of the Bureau's program offices.

ANDEAN COUNTERDRUG INITIATIVE

The conference agreement appropriates $ 731,000,000 for the Andean Counterdrug Initiative as proposed by the House instead of $660,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers emphasize that there are other funds for Andean nations in this Act.

The conference agreement provides that not less than $257,000,000 shall be made available for alternative development and institution building activities by USAID, the Department of Justice, and the Department of State and that $229,500,000 shall be directly apportioned to USAID. The managers note that funds for the Bureau of Population, Refugee, and Migration are included in the $257,000,000 earmark and expect the entire amount requested be provided for programs to assist refugees and displaced persons.

Again in fiscal year 2004, the managers have extended the availability of funds provided for assistance for Colombia to support a unified campaign against narcotics trafficking, against activities by organizations designated as terrorist organizations, and to take actions to protect health and human welfare. This provision is identical to that in the House bill and Senate amendment. The managers are supportive of the Colombian Government in its attempts to provide security for the Colombian people and have continued these expanded authorities in recognition that the narcotics industry is linked to the terrorist groups, including the paramilitary organizations, in Colombia. The managers expect counternarcotics, alternative development, and judicial reform to remain the principal focus of United States policy in Colombia. The managers reiterate that the expanded authority is not a signal from the managers for the United States to become more deeply involved in assisting the Colombian Armed Forces in fighting the terrorist groups, especially not at the expense of the counternarcotics programs, but to provide the means for more effective intelligence gathering and fusion, and to provide the flexibility to the Department of State when the distinction between counternarcotics and counterterrorism are not clear cut.

The conference report does not include certain earmarks for organizations and programs that protect human rights in Colombia, as proposed by the Senate. However, the conference agreement provides that not less than $13,000,000 should be made available for such organizations and programs. The managers intend these funds to be allocated as follows: not less than $2,500,000 for protecting human rights defenders in Colombia; not less than $2,500,000 for the United Nations Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in Colombia; not less than $6,500,000 for the Colombian Attorney General's Human Rights Unit; and not less than $1,500,000 for the human rights unit of the Colombian Procuraduria.

The managers remain concerned about the annual cost to the United States of operating and maintaining the fleet of helicopters used by the Colombian military for counternarcotics and counterterrorism purposes. While these helicopters are a key tool in the fight against coca and poppy, the managers believe the Department of State should begin to turn over the maintenance costs to the Colombian government. In fiscal year 2004, over one-quarter of all assistance to Colombia is devoted to these costs, and the managers believe that other important programs in Colombia need to be prioritized through the allocation of United States assistance. Therefore, the managers expect to see the start of this transition reflected in the fiscal year 2005 budget request, and if it is not, the managers expect this matter to be addressed in the fiscal year 2005 appropriations process.

The conference agreement continues current caps on the number of United States military personnel and United States civilian contractors in Colombia, as well as the current prohibition on participation by such persons in combat operations in connection with assistance made available by this Act.

The conference agreement again includes existing conditions on the aerial spraying of herbicide, similar to the Senate amendment, to ensure that any use of such chemicals is consistent with the Colombian Environmental Management Plan, with Environmental Protection Agency regulations, and to ensure that chemicals used in the aerial fumigation of coca do not pose unreasonable health or safety risks to humans or the environment. Additionally, not more than 20 percent of funds made available for the purchase of chemicals used in aerial spraying are available for obligation until the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, certifies to the Committees on Appropriations that a number of conditions and concerns regarding the safety of spraying are addressed. This is similar to current law and the Senate amendment. The House did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include a Senate prohibition on aerial fumigation in Colombia's national parks. The managers are concerned with reports that coca growers are moving into Colombia's national parks and reserves, cutting trees and causing other environmental damage. The managers support efforts to address this problem, but agree that aerial fumigation in the parks and reserves should be used as a last resort. Other alternatives should be pursued, including manual eradication, training and equipping police to protect the parks, and relocating families that have moved into these areas. Accordingly, the conference agreement includes language that before aerial fumigation is conducted, the Secretary of State must determine that it is in accordance with Colombian law and that there are no practicable alternatives to reduce drug cultivation in these areas. The managers request to be consulted prior to any such determination.

The conference agreement provides that not less than $2,500,000 should be made available for continued assistance for the Colombian National Park Service. This language is identical to the provision in the Senate amendment. The House did not address this matter.

The managers endorse the House report language on the Naval Postgraduate School and United States contractors in Colombia.

The conference agreement includes the House language prohibiting funds for the resumption of flights in support of a Peruvian air interdiction program until a system of enhanced safeguards are in place. The Senate did not address this matter.

The conference agreement includes language similar to a Senate provision, which provides that assistance should be made available to the Bolivian military and police subject to a determination and report by the Secretary of State that the Bolivian military and police are respecting human rights and cooperating with investigations and prosecutions of alleged violations of human rights. The managers note that despite repeated assurances by successive Bolivian governments that human rights cases would be properly investigated and the individuals responsible appropriately punished, little has been done and impunity remains the norm for members of Bolivian security forces who commit violations. The managers urge the Secretary to give higher priority to these justice issues.

The conference report includes changes to two reports for Plan Colombia from the fiscal year 2000 emergency supplemental. This issue is addressed in the general provisions.

The conference agreement makes available $16,285,000 for administrative expenses of the Department of State as proposed by the Senate instead of $15,680,000 as proposed by the House.

MIGRATION AND REFUGEE ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement makes available $21,000,000, for administrative expenses as proposed by the Senate instead of $18,500,000 as proposed by the House. The managers expect the additional administrative funds to be used for refugee admissions and emergency situations.

The conference agreement also includes Senate language providing not less than $50,000,000 for refugees from the former Soviet Union and Eastern Europe and other refugees resettling in Israel. The House addressed this matter in its report.

The conference agreement does not include Senate language providing that funds be made available for international organizations for assistance for refugees from North Korea. The managers strongly support the provision of funds for such purposes, and expect the State Department to provide sufficient assistance to safeguard the human rights and dignity of North Korean refugees.

The conference agreement does not include Senate language providing that funds should be made available for assistance for persons in Thailand from Burma. The managers remain deeply concerned with the plight of these individuals and are troubled by reports that Thai authorities are harassing Burmese in Thailand and hindering the provision of assistance to such needy persons. The managers address this issue in the general provisions of this Act.

The conference agreement does not include Senate language that limits assistance to the central Government of Nepal until the Secretary of State certifies that the Nepalese authorities are cooperating with the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and other international organizations on issues concerning the protection of refugees from Tibet. The managers endorse language in Senate Report 108–106 on this issue, and expect the Government of Nepal to cease this deplorable behavior and to cooperate fully with international organizations to ensure the safety of Tibetan refugees. If the Government of Nepal continues to forcibly repatriate Tibetan refugees, the managers will consider an appropriate response.

The managers note that recent GAO findings show the State Department has taken actions to implement Section 301(c) of the Foreign Assistance Act to improve monitoring of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) by requiring that they take all possible measures to assure that U.S. funds do not benefit terrorists and those receiving military training from guerilla groups. However, UNRWA's implementation of these procedures is constrained by many factors including safety of its staff and legitimate and necessary Israeli securtiy procedures.

The managers urge UNRWA to implement the State Department's recommendations to:

Issue explicit guidelines to staff to report compromises of UNRWA staff or facilities;

Sever connections with Gaza Youth Activity Centers because of ties to Palestinian radicals

Make the Operations Support Officer program a permanent part of UNRWA's monitoring program by including it in the regular budget, and Continue to make all efforts to meet Israeli authorities.

The managers strongly urge the State Department to provide necessary funding to enable UNRWA to make the Operations Support Officer Program permanent.

The managers direct the Secretary of State to submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations by no later than June 20, 2004 describing steps taken to ensure the implementation of these recommendations.

Language included in the House bill regarding organizations adopting the Sexual Exploitation and Abuse Code of Conduct is addressed in section 594. The Senate addressed this matter in the general provisions.

UNITED STATES EMERGENCY MIGRATION AND REFUGEE ASSISTANCE FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $30,000,000 for the United States Emergency Migration and Refugee Assistance Fund (ERMA), instead of $15,831,000 as proposed by the House and $40,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes language from the Senate amendment that provides the funds notwithstanding section 2(c)(2) of the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962. Section 2(c)(2) would limit appropriated funds to this fund if, when added, would cause the balance of the fund to exceed $100,000,000.

NONPROLIFERATION, ANTI-TERRORISM, DEMINING AND RELATED PROGRAMS

The conference agreement appropriates $353,500,000 for Nonproliferation, Anti-terrorism, Demining and Related Programs, instead of $385,200,000 as proposed by the Senate and $335,200,000 as proposed by the House.

Funds in this account are allocated in the following table and, as stipulated in bill language any change to these allocations is subject to the regular reprogramming procedures of the Committees on Appropriations:

NonProliferation, Anti-Terrorism, Demining and Related Programs

[Budget authority in thousands of dollars]

	Conference Agreement
Nonproliferation and Disarmament Fund	$30,000
Export Control and Border Security assistance	36,000
Science Centers	50,500
International Atomic Energy Agency—Voluntary Contribution	53,000
CTBT/International Monitoring System	19,000
Anti-terrorism Assistance	97,000
Terrorist Interdiction Program	5,000
Humanitarian Demining ...	50,000
International Trust Fund for Demining	10,000
Small Arms/Light Weapons Destruction	3,000
NADR Total	353,500

The conference agreement contains language similar to that included in the Senate amendment that authorizes not to exceed $250,000 for the support of public-private partnerships for mine action by grant, cooperative agreement, or contract. The managers direct that the State Department provide a financial plan for the use of these funds to the Committees on Appropriations prior to the use of this authority. The House bill did not address this matter.

The managers endorse the Senate report language regarding demining and the House and Senate report language regarding the Anti-terrorism Assistance program. With respect to Anti-terrorism Assistance, the managers note that an additional $10,400,000 was provided for this program in the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense and the Reconstruction of Iraq and Afghanistan (P.L. 108–106). The conferees strongly support the anti-terrorism program and the conference level of $97,000,000 represents an increase of 48 percent above the level provided in fiscal year 2003.

The managers recognize the central role of financing in the operation of terrorist organizations such as Al Qaeda and commend the Administration for initial actions taken in the wake of the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001 to block the flow of money to these organizations. Given the wide range of formal and informal financial mechanisms to secure funding and to move it around the globe, the managers acknowledge the need for an increasingly forceful approach to this problem.

The managers note the importance of an interagency effort by the Terrorist Financial Working Group to curb the funding to terrorist organizations such as Al Qaeda. The effort by the Departments of State, Treasury, and Justice, working with other agencies, is a key element in the fight against international terrorism.

The managers direct the Department of State, in consultation with the Department of the Treasury, to provide a report on the spending of funds provided for counter-terrorist financing in fiscal years 2001, 2002, and 2003, and a list of planned spending in 2004. In addition, the report shall contain a list of countries the Administration considers to be the major source and/or transit points for terror financing, a list of the interagency priority countries with which federal agencies are currently working and the activities taking place in those countries, and a list of other countries the interagency working group has identified as needing such assistance in the future and the types of activities that will be required in those countries. The report shall be provided no later than 120 days after enactment of this Act and the list of countries may be classified if the Secretary of State determines that this is necessary.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement provides $19,000,000 for the International Affairs Technical Assistance program of the Department of the Treasury as proposed by the House instead of $12,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers support the efforts of the Department of the Treasury, International Affairs Technical Assistance, to assist nations in their efforts to reduce financial crimes and corruption by strengthening those governmental systems. The Department of the Treasury has been providing technical assistance for over a decade to nations facing economic disruption due to systemic weaknesses, post conflict crises, terrorist influences, or criminal practices. The managers urge the Department of the Treasury to continue its current technical assistance program and to strengthen its law enforcement program with additional resident and intermittent advisors. The managers further direct the Department of the Treasury to manage its technical assistance program in accordance with its own policies and to report to the Committees on Appropriations on the status of its efforts.

The conference agreement provides an additional $5,000,000 above the President's request, and the managers direct the additional funds be used for terrorist financing activities and to expand programs providing economic advisors to assist countries in sub-Saharan Africa.

The managers endorse the language of the House report with respect to the International Affairs Technical Assistance program.

DEBT RESTRUCTURING

The conference agreement provides $95,000,000 for Debt Restructuring, the same level as proposed by the House bill instead of $195,000,000 in the Senate amendment. The managers expect the funds to be allocated as follows: $20,000,000 for the Tropical Forest Conservation Act Programs and $75,000,000 for the first of two contributions to the Heavily Indebted Poor Countries Trust Fund.

Prior to obligating any funds for the HIPC Trust fund, the managers direct the Department of the Treasury to submit in writing to the Committees on Appropriations: a list of donors to the HIPC Trust Fund, each donor's pledge and actual contribution, the date of contributions, detailed disbursement data of the Fund including the level of funds transferred to each financial institution and the date of transfer, the current and expected future balance of the HIPC Trust Fund, an explanation of the current HIPC Trust Fund shortfall of funds, and an estimate of future United States contributions to the HIPC Trust Fund beyond fiscal year 2005.

The conference report does not include funds for bilateral debt relief for the Democratic Republic of Congo (DROC). Given the greater humanitarian and emergency needs in the DROC, the conference agreement has dedicated funding to the Development Assistance, Child Survival and Health Programs Fund, International Disaster Assistance, Office of Transition Initiatives, and the Economic Support Fund in the expectation that this assistance will address and benefit more immediately the most pressing needs in DROC and Africa.

TITLE III—MILITARY ASSISTANCE

INTERNATIONAL MILITARY EDUCATION AND TRAINING

The conference agreement provides $91,700,000 for the International Military Education and Training program as proposed by the Senate instead of $91,100,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement provides that funding for Algeria and Cambodia shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations. The House bill did not include these nations, but both the House bill and the Senate amendment provided that funding for Nigeria and Guatemala is subject to notification.

As evidenced by the conference agreement, the managers continue to strongly support the International Military Education and Training (IMET) program.

The managers endorse the Senate report language concerning performance evaluation procedures of the IMET program. The managers believe that more needs to be done to improve output measures for the IMET program. The managers believe that simply counting the number of trainees is not sufficient to measure the IMET program and its results. The managers expect not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act, that the Secretary of State, after consultation with the Secretary of Defense, shall report to the Committees on Appropriations on other factors that will be used to measure and evaluate the success of the IMET program.

The managers endorse Senate report language on the Informational Program. In section 554, the managers have agreed to the provision in the House bill that requires the Secretaries of Defense and State to submit the annual foreign military training report required by section 656 of the Foreign Assistance Act to the Committees on Appropriations. This provision eliminates the requirement for separate reports to be prepared and transmitted to Congress.

FOREIGN MILITARY FINANCING PROGRAM
(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement appropriates $4,294,000,000 instead of $4,314,000,000 as proposed by the House and $4,384,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The managers have included language providing $2,160,000,000 for Israel and $1,300,000,000 for Egypt as proposed in both the House and Senate bills. The conference agreement includes language similar to that proposed in the Senate bill which provides that $206,000,000 should be made available for assistance for Jordan.

The managers note that in a previous continuing resolution, P.L. 108–84, the Congress authorized a $550,000,000 Foreign Military Financing loan to the Czech Republic for the acquisition, logistics and training support of U.S. F–16 aircraft. The Administration request stated that this action would have no budgetary impact, but the Congressional Budget Office did not concur and estimated the subsidy cost of this assistance under section 502 of the Budget Act to be $20,000,000. As this cost must be accommodated within the budget allocation for this bill, the managers have made the necessary reductions to absorb this credit subsidy within the amounts provided under this heading.

The conference agreement includes $50,000,000 for FMF assistance for Afghanistan. The conference agreement includes $20,000,000 for the Philippines as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes $2,000,000 in FMF assistance for counter-terrorism efforts by Uganda as proposed by the House.

The managers have not included the earmark of $27,000,000 for assistance to Poland as proposed by the Senate. The managers strongly support expansion of United States foreign military assistance to Poland, and increased assistance for all nations that are contributing coalition forces in Iraq. The managers expect the Administration to propose increased FMF support for nations such as Poland, Bulgaria, Latvia and Lithuania in the fiscal year 2005 budget request.

The managers note that in its efforts to obtain Article 98 agreements, the State Department inadvertently allowed the signature of the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia as simply "Macedonia." In the future the Department should adhere to current policy using the formal name for this Balkan nation.

The managers have included language similar to that in the Senate bill allowing transfer of $17,000,000 to the "Andean Counterdrug Initiative" account for aircraft and related assistance for the Colombian National Police. The managers have included language proposed by the Senate that prohibits the use of funds for activities relating to the clearance of unexploded ordnance from United States Armed Forces testing or training exercises, except on San Jose Island, Republic of Panama, where such activities already are underway.

PEACEKEEPING OPERATIONS

The conference agreement appropriates $74,900,000 for "Peacekeeping Operations" (PKO) instead of $84,900,000 as proposed by the Senate and $85,000,000 as proposed by the House.

The managers have fully funded every program in this account, except for a request for additional financial support for the Afghan National Army. While recognizing the importance of this initiative, the managers believe that this request can be fulfilled by using PKO funds provided in prior Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Acts for Iraq and Afghanistan (P.L. 108–106 and P.L. 108–11).

TITLE IV—MULTILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT FACILITY

The conference agreement appropriates $139,240,000 for the Global Environment Facility (GEF) instead of $107,500,000 as proposed by the House and $170,997,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers intend that $107,500,000 of this amount is for the scheduled United States contribution to the third replenishment of the GEF, and $31,740,000 for past payments due.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

The conference agreement appropriates $913,200,000 for the International Development Association (IDA), the concessional lending facility of the World Bank, instead of $850,000,000 as proposed by the House and $976,825,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers intend that the appropriation be made available to fully provide for the first scheduled payment under the United States commitment to the thirteenth replenishment of IDA and to provide $63,200,000 of the $100,000,000 incentive contribution.

The Secretary of the Treasury certified on April 12, 2003 that the World Bank had met the conditions, specifically the setting up of performance benchmarks for World Bank programs, which would have allowed for an additional contribution of $100,000,000. However, the Committees on Appropriations were not consulted regarding this commitment of an additional $100,000,000 in appropriated funds. Therefore, the managers have included language that would require an independent audit to determine if the World Bank is meeting its performance targets in the spring of 2004 before the Secretary of the Treasury can further commit appropriated funds to the IDA–13 agreement. If an independent audit is not conducted, the managers do not plan to include any incentive contribution in fiscal year 2005.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE MULTILATERAL INVESTMENT GUARANTEE AGENCY

The conference agreement appropriates $1,124,000 for paid-in capital for the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency (MIGA), the amount provided in the Senate amendment, instead of $4,001,672 as proposed by the House bill. The managers intend for the appropriation to be provided for past payments due by the United States to MIGA. Approval for a subscription to the appropriate amount of callable capital is also included in the conference agreement.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTER-AMERICAN INVESTMENT CORPORATION

The conference agreement includes no appropriation for past payments due to the Inter-American Investment Corporation, as proposed by the House. The Senate proposed funding at a level of $898,000.

The managers endorse House report language regarding the Inter-American Development Bank.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE ENTERPRISE FOR THE AMERICAS MULTILATERAL INVESTMENT FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $25,000,000 for past due payments by the United States to the Multilateral Investment Fund as proposed by the House, instead of $30,614,000 as proposed by the Senate.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE ASIAN DEVELOPMENT FUND

The conference agreement provides $144,421,000 for the United States contribution to the Asian Development Fund, instead of $151,921,405 as proposed by the House and $136,921,000 as proposed by the Senate. The managers intend that the appropriation be made available to fully provide for the $103,000,000 scheduled payment under the United States commitment to the seventh replenishment of the Asian Development Fund and $41,421,000 for past payments due.

The managers endorse House report language regarding the Asian Development Bank.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT BANK

The conference agreement appropriates $5,104,930 for the African Development Bank as proposed by the House instead of $5,105,000 as proposed by the Senate.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT FUND

The conference agreement appropriates $112,725,000 for the African Development Fund instead of $107,370,856 as proposed by the House and $118,081,000 as proposed by the Senate.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE EUROPEAN BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT

The conference agreement provides $35,431,111 for the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development as proposed by the House instead of $35,431,100 as proposed by the Senate.

INTERNATIONAL FUND FOR AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT

The conference agreement includes $15,004,042 for a United States contribution to the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), as provided by the House. The Senate amendment provided $15,004,000. While IFAD is the seventh largest multilateral contributor to the enhanced Heavily Indebted Poor Countries initiative (HIPC), it, however, still does not have access to the core resources of the companion HIPC Trust Fund. Currently, IFAD has to absorb 87 percent of the cost for participating in HIPC, while other multilateral development banks with full access absorb much smaller percentages. The managers urge the Administration to work with other donors so IFAD will gain access to the core resources of the HIPC Trust Fund.

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS AND PROGRAMS

The conference agreement provides $321,650,000 for voluntary contributions to International Organizations and Programs instead of $194,550,000 as proposed by the House and $322,550,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement provides $120,000,000 for a contribution to UNICEF under this heading, as proposed by the Senate. The House provided these funds under the heading "Child Survival and Health Activities".

The managers continue to support the work of the World Food Program (WFP) and have provided $6,000,000 for a voluntary contribution under section 534 of this Act similar to the Senate amendment. The House included a $6,000,000 contribution to the WFP under this heading.

The managers have included $750,000 for a voluntary contribution for the United Nations Human Settlements Program (UNHABITAT), which works to improve the lives of slum dwellers around the world. The managers note that in prior fiscal years the Administration has supported the work of UNHABITAT and reprogrammed funds to this organization. The managers recognize the Administration's efforts on this issue and urge that funds are requested for UNHABITAT in fiscal year 2005.

The managers are concerned that in fiscal year 2003, the Department of State disproportionately applied the 0.65 percent across-the-board cut mandated by P.L. 108–7 instead of reducing every program in this account by the same amount. As a result, certain organizations and programs under this heading bore the brunt of the rescission while others were not reduced. The conference agreement does not contain Senate earmarks under this heading, but the managers intend that the State Department will allocate funds according to the chart below. Should any across the board rescission be mandated that impacts this Act, such rescission is to be applied equitably for each organization and program indicated in the chart.

The managers have provided $2,500,000 for the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, to support its activities including human rights training for peacekeepers, activities to address trafficking in persons, monitoring and field activities.

Funds in this account are allocated in the following table and, as stipulated in bill language any change to these allocations is subject to the regular reprogramming procedures of the Committees on Appropriations;

[$ in thousands]

UN High Commissioner, Human Rights	$2,500
UN Fund for Tech. Cooperation in Human Rights	1,500

*$6,000,000 provided under section 534.

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

(NOTE: If House and Senate language is identical except for a different section number or minor technical differences, the section is not discussed in the Statement of Managers.)

Sec. 502. Private and Voluntary Organizations

The conference agreement includes language identical to that included in the House bill that requires receiving development assistance to obtain more than 20 percent of its total annual funding from other sources. The section does not include Senate language requiring that funds must be made available to PVOs in title II at the level they were provided in fiscal year 1995.

Sec. 506. Prohibition on Taxation of United States Assistance

The conference agreement contains a provision prohibiting taxation of United States assistance that is a modification of a similar provision contained in section 579 of the fiscal year 2003 foreign operations appropriations Act. The managers intend that section 579 be applied in accordance with the changes made to that section by this Act. In addition, in order not to create an undue reporting burden on contractors, grantees and other entities implementing that section, and in recognition that the reimbursement process is often not completed by the time it is necessary to determine what amounts are to be withheld, the managers agree that in determining amounts to be withheld agencies may use estimates and statistical sampling to determine the amount of assessed taxes and the amount of reimbursements that will be paid over a reasonable period of time. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 507. Prohibition Against Direct Funding for Certain Countries

The conference agreement includes language similar to that included in the House bill regarding prohibiting assistance to certain countries, but does not include Senate language adding Sudan to the list of countries.

The conference agreement includes language clarifying terminology in P.L. 106–570 regarding Sudan as proposed by the Senate, but it is included in section 534, "Special Authorities". The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 509. Transfers

The conference report includes House language on this matter. The new provisions of this section would prohibit transfers to any department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States unless specifically authorized in this Act, except for certain transfers authorized by provisions of the Foreign Assistance Act. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 515. Notification Requirements

The conference agreement reflects a technical change to include "Global HIV/AIDS Initiative" and "Millennium Challenge Corporation" to the list of accounts that are subject to notification pursuant to this section. The House bill had similar language, and the Senate did not address these matters.

Sec. 517. Independent States of the Former Soviet Union

The conference agreement includes language similar to that proposed in the House bill regarding Enterprise Funds. The provision does not include Senate language regarding the ability to deposit funds in an interest bearing account and the spending of such interest. This language is in permanent law and does not need to be included.

Sec. 520. Special Notification Requirements

The conference agreement adds "Cambodia" to the list of countries subject to special notification procedures of this section as proposed by the Senate but deletes "Colombia" as proposed by the House. This section does not delete "Serbia" and "Pakistan" as recommended by the House.

Sec. 522. Child Survival and Health Activities

The conference agreement authorizes USAID to use up to $13,500,000 from the "Child Survival and Health Programs Fund" and $3,500,000 from "Development Assistance" for technical experts from other government agencies, universities, and other institutions.

The conference agreement includes language notwithstanding any other provision of law, except for those provisions under "Child Survival and Health Programs" and P.L. 108–25 (the "United States Leadership Against HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria Act of 2003"), for funds appropriated by titles II and III of this Act for bilateral child survival or disease programs.

The conference agreement also deletes authority allowing funds from titles II and III (in the House bill) or title III (in the Senate bill) to be used for activities authorized under section 301 of the Foreign Assistance Act. This authority is no longer needed, since funding for UNICEF has been moved to the International Organizations and Programs section.

The conference agreement provides that not less than $432,000,000 shall be made available for reproductive health/family planning activities from funds appropriated by this Act.

Sec. 523. Afghanistan

The conference agreement provides that not less than $405,000,000 of the funds appropriated by titles II and III shall be made available for humanitarian and reconstruction assistance for Afghanistan. The House and Senate proposed a level of not less than $600,000,000. With the enactment of the fiscal year 2004 emergency supplemental (P.L. 108–106), an additional $1,200,000,000 has been provided for Afghanistan in fiscal year 2004.

The managers intend that funds provided under this section be allocated as follows:

Child Survival and Health Programs Fund	$21,000
Development Assistance	150,000
International Disaster Assistance	35,000
Economic Support Fund	75,000
Migration and Refugee Assistance	72,000
Foreign Military Financing	50,000
Other	2,000
Total	405,000

The managers intend that not less than $2,000,000 be provided for a reforestation program in Afghanistan, not less than $2,000,000 for the Afghan Judicial Reform Commission, not less than $5,000,000 for the Afghan women's programs, and not less than $2,000,000 for assistance for Afghans that suffer losses from military operations.

The managers urge the Department of State and USAID in Afghanistan to work together to ensure that United States and international officials, contractors, and grantees are more adequately protected from insurgent attacks as they manage and implement reconstruction projects. In particular, the Embassy is requested to use the authorities and funds made available for Afghanistan in this Act and in P.L. 108–106 to equitably allocate diplomatic security and contract security so that USAID and other assistance managers can more safely oversee and assess programs outside of Kabul.

The managers welcome the new mandate to expand the presence of the International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) outside Kabul. However, without additional resources and military personnel, ISAF expansion may not effectively contribute to creating a security environment for political development and reconstruction in Afghanistan, particularly in the south and southeast. The managers urge the Administration to provide resources to support ISAF expansion and to seek additional NATO partners in this effort.

The managers also urge the Administration to work with NATO partners to reconcile ISAF expansion with any plans to create additional Provincial Reconstruction Teams (PRTs). The managers support the PRTs and believe their primary focus should continue to be enhancing security throughout Afghanistan.

The managers note that women in Afghanistan continue to struggle to achieve the most basic rights despite the efforts of the new government. The managers urge that women be carefully integrated into activities related to development and reconstruction, and also believe that there should be a specific focus on strengthening women-led institutions and organizations.

Therefore the managers provide $5,000,000 for programs aimed at addressing the needs of Afghan women through training and equipment to improve the capacity of women-led Afghan nongovernmental organizations, and to support the activities of such organizations. The managers urge USAID to establish a contracting mechanism for the disbursal and monitoring of small grants to women-led nongovernmental organizations to accomplish this goal.

Sec. 525. USAID Overseas Program

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the House that provides funds in this and subsequent appropriations Acts to carry out Part I of the Foreign Assistance Act may be used to employ individuals overseas on a limited appointment basis, and limits the number of employees hired under this provision to not more than 85. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 526. Democracy Programs

The conference agreement includes $13,500,000 for democracy, human rights and rule of law programs in the People's Republic of China and Hong Kong, instead of $35,000,000 as proposed by the Senate, and provides that funds appropriated under the heading "Economic Support Fund" should be made available for assistance for Taiwan for the purposes of furthering political and legal reforms, subject to a matching requirement.

The conference agreement includes $11,500,000 for programs and activities to foster democracy, human rights, civic education, women's development, press freedom, and the rule of law in countries with a significant Muslim population, and where such programs and activities would be important to United States efforts to respond to, deter, or prevent acts of international terrorism. The Senate proposed $25,000,000 for these activities; the House did not address this matter. The conference agreement provides $3,000,000 of such funds shall be made available for programs and activities that provide professional training for journalists. The conference agreement includes language similar to a Senate proposal, which provides that "Economic Support Fund" assistance shall be made available to support civil society organizations working for democracy in Egypt. The managers intend that not less than $1,000,000 be made available for such organizations, including the Ibn Khaldun Center for Development, and that these funds are to be in addition to other amounts made available for Egypt in the Act.

The managers provide that not to exceed $1,500,000 of such funds may be used for making grants to educational, humanitarian and nongovernmental organizations and individuals inside Iran to support the advancement of democracy and human rights in Iran. The managers expect the Bureau for Democracy and Human Rights to provide $1,000,000 for such activities, the National Endowment for Democracy to provide $500,000, and to consult with the Committees on Appropriations prior to obligating any funds for these programs.

The conference agreement provides not less than $3,000,000 shall be made available for programs and activities of the National Endowment for Democracy to foster democracy, human rights, civic education, women's development, press freedom, and the rule of law in countries in sub-Saharan Africa.

The conference agreement provides a total of $17,500,000 for activities of the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights and Labor, Department of State under this section, and not less than $34,500,000 from funds made available by this Act. The agreement provides a total of $9,500,000 for activities of the National Endowment for Democracy under this section.

The managers expect that funds made available under this section will be made available to the Alliance for Reform and Democracy in Asia.

The managers endorse language in Senate Report 108–106 regarding democracy programs, and direct USAID to consult with the Committees prior to making any changes in the framework or operation of its Consortium for Elections Political Process Strengthening (CEPPS) funding mechanism. The managers endorse the reporting requirement contained in the Senate report on anticipated contributions to the CEPPS funding mechanism from all accounts.

Sec. 528. Debt for Development

The conference agreement includes House language on this matter. The Senate amendment would have authorized the use of appropriated funds for endowments. The managers are concerned about the desire of the Administration to create endowments without the consent of the Committees on Appropriations, therefore the managers expect that any endowments proposed by the Administration in fiscal year 2005 will be proposed in the President's budget request for fiscal year 2005.

The conference agreement does not include Senate language expanding the authorities of the provision to allow non-governmental organizations to deposit any funds made available in this Act or in prior Acts into interest bearing accounts. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 531. Burma

The conference agreement includes a modified version of the Senate's provision on the use of the Economic Support Fund in Burma and along the Burma-Thailand border, and, in addition, a House provision, similar to language in prior year Acts, regarding independent media activities promoting democracy inside Burma.

The managers continue to strongly support the struggle for freedom in Burma, and call for the immediate and unconditional release of Burmese democracy leader Daw Aung San Suu Kyi and all other prisoners of conscience. The managers expect the State Department to use every opportunity to press regional neighbors and the community of democracies to support political reconciliation in Burma that includes the full consultation and participation of the National League for Democracy and ethnic nationalities.

The managers are concerned with reports of growing military ties between Burma and North Korea, and the purchase of weapons from North Korea through shipments of heroin. The managers request that, not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State report to the Committees on the nature and extent of military ties between these two rogue nations.

The conference agreement provides $13,000,000 to support democracy programs in Burma, along the Burma-Thailand border, for activities of Burmese student groups and other organizations located outside Burma, and for the purpose of supporting the provision of humanitarian assistance to displaced Burmese along Burma's borders. The agreement provides that $5,000,000 shall be allocated to the United States Agency for International Development for humanitarian assistance for displaced Burmese and host communities in Thailand, and that $500,000 should be made available to support newspapers, publications, and other media activities promoting democracy inside Burma. The managers request to be consulted prior to the provision of any assistance to Irrawaddy Publishing Group.

The managers again expect that $1,000,000 will be provided to support efforts to combat HIV/AIDS inside of Burma, and that not less than $1,000,000 will be provided to support efforts to limit malaria and infectious diseases among Burmese along the Burma-Thailand border. These funds are to be made available under the heading Child Survival and Health Programs Fund in this Act, and are in addition to the amounts provided under this section.

The conference agreement includes a reporting requirement by the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Administrator of USAID, describing the estimated amount and rate of disbursement of fiscal year 2002 and 2003 funding for HIV/AIDS programs and activities in Burma, the amount of funds expended by the State Peace and Development Council (SPDC) on HIV/AIDS programs and activities in calendar years 2001, 2002, and 2003, and the extent to which international nongovernmental organizations are able to conduct HIV/AIDS programs throughout Burma, including the ability of expatriate staff to freely travel through the country and to conduct programmatic oversight independent of SPDC handling and monitoring.

Sec. 534. Special Authorities

The conference agreement includes House language providing certain authority for assistance for Lebanon and Montenegro and Pakistan, assistance to victims of war, displaced Burmese, and assistance to combat trafficking.

The managers have continued current authority for certain bureaus and offices in USAID to hire personal service contractors, expanded existing authority for USAID to provide support for administrative costs of a program to provide information regarding available donated space on commercial ships to organizations shipping humanitarian assistance, and provides for expanded authorities under section 660(b)(6) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

The conference agreement includes Senate language giving authority notwithstanding any other provision of law for the National Endowment for Democracy as proposed by the House and Senate.

The conference report also includes language that provides $6,000,000 for the World Food Program from USAID's Bureau for Democracy, Conflict, and Humanitarian Assistance as proposed by the Senate. The House provided these funds under the heading "International Organizations and Programs".

Sec. 539. Ceilings and Earmarks

The conference agreement includes House language that allows for funds provided in this Act to be made available notwithstanding earmarks in any other Act, similar to language proposed in the Senate.

Sec. 544. Withholding of Assistance for Parking Fines Owed by Foreign Countries

The conference agreement allows 110 percent of the total amount of unpaid parking fines determined to be owed by foreign countries to the District of Columbia and New York City, New York, to be withheld from obligation for assistance to such country, as proposed by the Senate. The language is similar to that proposed by the House.

The managers are concerned that nations receiving foreign assistance under this Act owe at least $16,600,000 to the City of New York in unpaid parking tickets and penalties. Noting the longstanding efforts of the City to work with the State Department to collect these outstanding balances, the managers have included language to enhance the penalties associated with this provision. This is similar to Senate language.

The managers urge the State Department to work cooperatively with the City of New York and the District of Columbia to find a workable solution to collect the unpaid balances from 1997 to 2002 that satisfies all sides and resolves the situation once and for all.

Sec. 546. War Crimes Tribunals Drawdown

The conference agreement includes House and Senate language authorizing up to $30,000,000 in drawdowns of commodities or services for war crimes tribunals. The conference agreement includes Senate language adding the Special Court for Sierra Leone to the list of tribunals exempted from notification. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 550. Restrictions on Voluntary Contributions to United Nations Agencies

The conference agreement includes language in the House bill prohibiting voluntary contributions to the United Nations if the United Nations implements or imposes any taxation on people in the United States. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 552. Limitation on Assistance to the Palestinian Authority

The conference report includes language similar to the House bill that prohibits funding to the Palestinian Authority to carry our chapter 4 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act and includes a waiver if the President certifies in writing to the Speaker of the House and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate that waiving such a provision is important to the national security interests of the United States. The conference report includes Senate language requiring a report on, among other issues, a description of how the funds will be spent and the accounting provisions used to monitor their expenditure, should the waiver be exercised. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 554. Foreign Military Training Report

The conference agreement includes House language requiring the Secretaries of Defense and State to submit the annual foreign military training report required by section 656 of the Foreign Assistance Act to the Committees on Appropriations by the date specified in that section. The Senate amendment would have continued the requirement of a similar but separate report to the Committees on Appropriations.

Sec. 555. Environment Programs

The conference report includes language similar to a Senate provision for programs that protect biodiversity and energy conservation, energy efficiency and clean energy programs, in developing countries. This matter is addressed under the heading "Development Assistance".

Sec. 556. Regional Programs for East Asia and the Pacific

The conference agreement includes language similar to that proposed by the Senate requiring that funds appropriated under the heading "Economic Support Fund" that are requested for "Regional Democracy" assistance for the State Department's Bureau of East Asia and the Pacific shall be made available for the Human Rights and Democracy Fund of the State Department's Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights, and Labor.

Sec. 557. Zimbabwe

The conference agreement is the same as current law and is identical to the Senate amendment. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 558. Tibet

The conference agreement includes language similar to a Senate provision regarding Tibet, but the matter is addressed under the heading "Economic Support Fund".

Sec. 559. Authorization Requirement

The conference agreement includes language that provides that funds appropriated by this Act may be obligated and expended notwithstanding section 10 of Public Law 91–672 and section 15 of the State Department Basic Authorities Act of 1956, similar to language provided in the Senate amendment.

Sec. 560. Nigeria

The conference agreement includes a provision identical to current law and the Senate amendment that restricts the use of IMET and FMF for Nigeria until a Presidential certification regarding actions taken against whom there is credible evidence of gross violations of human rights in Benue State in October 2001, and the Government of Nigeria and the Nigerian Armed Forces are taking effective measures to bring such individuals to justice. The conference agreement includes a Presidential waiver. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 561. Cambodia

The conference agreement includes language similar to the Senate provision continuing restrictions on assistance to the central Government of Cambodia, with a few exceptions, and provides up to $4,000,000 for assistance for democracy programs in that country. The managers endorse the budget request for Cambodia, but recommend $17,000,000, instead of $15,000,000, in assistance under the heading "Economic Support Fund".

The managers permit IMET assistance to Cambodia should the Secretary of State provide a list of those individuals credibly alleged to be responsible for gross human rights violations in Cambodia, including, among other tragic events, the 1997 grenade attack against the Khmer Nation Party that killed and injured scores of Cambodians and American democracy worker Ron Abney. The managers expect a broad range of official and nongovernmental organizations to be consulted in creating this list. The managers also request the Federal Bureau of Investigation to renew efforts to investigate this act of terrorism.

The conference agreement prohibits the use of funds in this Act to support any Khmer Rouge tribunal established by the Government of Cambodia. The managers strongly support justice for genocide and crimes against humanity committed by the Pol Pot regime, but remain concerned that the proposed tribunal—in its current formation—is open to manipulation and interference by the Cambodian People's Party and falls short of meeting international standards of justice. The managers expect sufficient funding to be provided to the Documentation Center of Cambodia.

The managers remain concerned with the political situation in Cambodia, and commend the Alliance of Democrats for their commitment to democracy and the rule of law. The managers recommend that the State Department continue to publicly support the legal rights of the Alliance to negotiate a new Cambodian government and to press the Government of Cambodia for justice for crimes and human rights abuses committed with impunity, including the murder of former parliamentarian Om Radsady earlier this year.

The managers recommend sufficient funding be provided to Global Witness, the only effective watchdog organization on Cambodia deforestation issues.

Section 562. Palestinian Statehood

The conference agreement includes language similar to that proposed by the House that prohibits funding to support a Palestinian state unless the Secretary of State makes certain determinations. The Senate had similar language.

Section 563. Colombia

The conference agreement includes a modified version of the Senate language on conditioning funds for Colombian Armed Forces through a two-time human rights certification process. Additionally, these funds are made available only upon notification to the Committees on Appropriations, and the conference report includes language requiring the Department of State to consult with the human rights non-governmental organizations every 90 days instead of prior to the certification. The House addressed this matter but only required a one-time certification.

Sec. 567. Contributions to United Nations Population Fund

The conference report provides $34,000,000 for the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), which is subject to the "Kemp-Kasten" provision. Of this amount, $25,000,000 is to be made available from the "International Organizations and Programs" account and the balance from the "Child Survival and Health Programs Fund". The managers are aware that UNFPA has stated its opposition to the Chinese Government's one child policy and its social compensation fee. The managers condemn all forms of coercion in China's family planning policy and practice. The managers request the Department of State to report to the Committees not later than July 15, 2004, on the steps it and UNFPA have taken to urge the Government of China to end its birth limitation policy, including the social compensation fee, and the results of those efforts, nationally, and particularly in the counties in which UNFPA operates.

Sec. 568. Central Asia

The conference agreement includes language similar to that included in the Senate amendment that conditions the assistance to the Governments of Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 569. Discrimination Against Minority Religious Faiths in the Russian Federation

The conference agreement includes language similar to that in the Senate bill and the fiscal year 2002 Act that withholds funds for the Government of the Russian Federation until the President certifies that the Russian Central Government is not acting to discriminate against minority religious faiths. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 572. Funding for Serbia

The conference agreement contains language similar to that proposed by the Senate, except that the provisions of this section affect assistance for Serbia after March 31, 2004. In addition, language is included that specifies Radko Mladic as an indictee whose surrender and transfer, if practicable, would signify cooperation with the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia. The House bill included current law only.

Sec. 573. Community-Based Police Assistance

The conference agreement includes language similar to the House language authorizing use of certain USAID-administered funds in title II of this Act for support for civilian police in Jamaica and El Salvador, notwithstanding section 660 of the Foreign Assistance Act, and any funds for this purpose are subject to notification. The Senate bill included a general, world-wide waiver of this authority.

Sec. 576. Disaster Surge Capacity

The conference report includes language proposed by the House that allows funds in this Act to carry out part I of the FAA to be used to pay for détailees to or employees of USAID who carry out programs to address disasters, or programs under the heading "Transition Initiatives".

Sec. 577. IFAD Authorization

The conference report includes language proposed by the House that authorizes $45,000,000 without fiscal year limitation for payment by Treasury for the International Fund for Agricultural Development. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 578. Philippine Education and Health Infrastructure

The conference agreement includes language as proposed by the House bill that requires that $600,000 of funds under the heading "Economic Support Fund" provided in P.L. 108–11 shall be available only for upgrading education and health infrastructure in the Sulu Archipelago.

Sec. 579. Basic Education

The conference agreement includes language similar to that proposed by the House that provides not less than $326,500,000 for basic education from title II and requires the Secretary of State shall submit a report not less than 120 days after enactment of this Act laying out the strategy for the use of basic education funds. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 580. Participation in the Thirteenth Replenishment of the Resources of the International Development Association

The conference report includes language identical to that proposed by the House that would authorize a further United States contribution to IDA, including making the contribution subject to prior appropriations. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 581. Administrative Provisions Related to the Multilateral Development Institutions

The conference report includes language similar to section 578 of the House bill and section 679 of the Senate amendment, regarding transparency and accountability at the multilateral development institutions. The managers are concerned that these institutions are not moving fast enough to strengthen oversight of internal controls and procedures, protect whistle blowers from retaliation, and broaden public access to information about lending proposals, strategies and policies. The conference agreement provides that the Secretary of the Treasury should instruct the U.S. Executive Director at each of these institutions to inform the institution of a number of important policy goals, and to use the voice and vote of the United States to achieve these goals before June 30, 2005. The Secretary is to report on progress not later than September 1, 2004, and six months thereafter.

Sec. 582. Participation in the Seventh Replenishment of the Resources of the Asian Development Fund

The conference report includes language identical to that proposed by the House that would authorize a further United States contribution to the Asian Development Fund, including making the contribution subject to prior appropriations. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 583. Participation in the Ninth Replenishment of the Resources of the African Development Fund

The conference report includes language identical to that proposed by the House that would authorize a further United States contribution to African Development Fund, including making the contribution subject to prior appropriations. The Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 584. Overseas Private Investment Corporation and Export-Import Bank Restrictions

The conference agreement includes a provision identical to the Senate amendment and current law that prohibits the use of funds by OPIC and the Export-Import Bank to finance investments in connection with a project involving diamonds in a country that is not implementing the requirements developed by the Kimberley Process, or is not undertaking other measures that the Secretary of State determines to contribute to the elimination of the trade in conflict diamonds.

Sec. 585. Reconciliation Programs

The conference agreement includes language similar to that proposed by the Senate that would provide $8,000,000 from within the Economic Support Fund account for conflict resolution programs and activities. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 586. Nicaragua

The conference agreement includes a general provision, similar to Senate language, which provides that not less than $35,000,000 in Child Survival and "Development Assistance" funds should be made available for Nicaragua, which is $4,000,000 above the amount requested. The House addressed this matter in the report.

Sec. 587. Disability Access

The conference report includes language similar to the Senate bill that requires the Administrator of USAID to develop and implement standards for access for people with disabilities for construction projects funded by USAID. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 588. Trade Capacity Building

The conference agreement includes language providing not less than $503,000,000 for trade capacity building assistance from the Trade and Development Agency, Development Assistance, Transition Initiatives, ESF, International Affairs Technical Assistance, and International Organizations and Programs accounts. The House had similar language, and the Senate did not address this matter.

Sec. 589. War Crimes in Africa

The conference agreement includes a modified Senate provision that would make assistance available to the central government of a country in which individuals indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR) and the Special Court for Sierra Leone (SCSL) are credibly alleged to be living, if the Secretary of State certifies that such government is cooperating with ICTR and SCSL. The provision contains a national security waiver. The managers believe that peace and reconciliation efforts in West and Central Africa will be severely undermined if those most responsible for genocide in Rwanda and the atrocities in Sierra Leone are not brought to justice.

The managers commend the democratically-elected Government of Nigeria for reaching an agreement with the Government of Liberia which helped to give the international community an important opportunity to provide desperately needed relief to that nation. Nigeria is a key ally in the region and the managers have recognized its role in this provision. However, the managers also note that efforts to address the humanitarian crisis and rebuild Liberia, as well as other parts of West Africa, will be severely limited if individuals indicted by SCSL are not handed over to the Court. The managers note that the United Nations Special Representative for Liberia, senior members of the Nigerian military, and important Nigerian civic organizations have called for the transfer of indicted war criminals to SCSL.

The managers have also included language in this provision to provide $5,000,000 to the SCSL from unobligated balances of fiscal year 2003 "Economic Support Fund" (ESF) assistance. This language is similar to a Senate provision under the ESF heading, which would have provided $2,500,000 to the SCSL in fiscal year 2004. The managers have included this provision because a Congressional directive in P.L. 108–7 to provide these funds was ignored by the State Department. The managers continue to strongly support SCSL. The managers endorse the Senate report language on this issue.

The managers continue to be concerned with the situation in Ivory Coast, where there are serious questions concerning the peace process and the country is in danger of becoming permanently divided between the rebel-controlled territory in the north and the government-controlled south. The managers note, however, that elections are currently expected to occur in 2005, the number of armed combatants remains relatively low, and damage to the economic infrastructure is light, and, therefore, believe that the situation could turn around if there is a breakthrough in the peace process. The managers request the State Department to consult with the Committees on the situation in Ivory Coast, concerning a range of issues including the progress of the peace process, the possibility of a United Nations peacekeeping mission, and section 508 sanctions.

Sec. 590. Report on Admission of Refugees

The conference agreement provides language similar to the Senate bill that advises the Secretary of State to use private voluntary organizations with the relevant expertise in the processing, identification, and referral of refugees and advises the Secretary of State to develop a system for accepting referrals from local private, voluntary organizations, and outlines categories of special consideration for admission. The provision also mandates a report, not later than 120 days after enactment, on the progress made to implement this section. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 591. Post Differentials and Danger Pay Allowances

The conference report includes language that amends sections 5925 (a) and 5928 of title 5, USC, to increase post differentials and danger pay allowances for USAID employees, subject to the provision of similar pay allowances to the employees of the Department of State. The pay increase would be available immediately for personnel deployed to Afghanistan and Iraq. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 592. Report on Azerbaijan

The conference report includes language similar to that proposed by the Senate that requires the Secretary of State to submit a report to the appropriate congressional committees on the investigation of the murder of United States democracy worker John Alvis. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 593. Designation of the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria under the International Organizations Immunities Act

The conference agreement includes a provision that amends the International Organizations Immunities Act by adding a new section that extends the provisions of the Act to the Global Fund the same as they are extended to a public international organization in which the United States participates pursuant to any treaty or under the authority of any Act authorizing participation. This provision is identical to the Senate bill, and the House did not address this matter.

Sec. 594. Code of Conduct

The conference agreement includes a new section, "Code of Conduct" that prohibits refugee and humanitarian assistance funding under the headings "Migration and Refugee Assistance" and "Transition Initiatives" to an organization that has not adopted a code of conduct consistent with the Inter-Agency Standing Committee Task Force on Protection From Sexual Exploitation and Abuse in Humanitarian Crises six core principles. Additionally the provision advises the Secretary of State and the Administrator of USAID to incorporate policies and programs to identify the needs of, and threats to, women and children at the various stages of a humanitarian emergency. The provision is similar to the Senate bill. The House addressed this matter under the heading "Migration and Refugee Assistance".

Sec. 595. Assistance for HIV/AIDS

The conference agreement contains Senate language amending Public Law 108–25, the

"U.S. Leadership Against HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria Act of 2003" in order to set the baseline for calculating contributions from other donors to the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria (Global ATM Fund) at 2004, for the purposes of calculating matching contributions, and to allow funds withheld due to certain provisions of Public Law 108–25 to be used for HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, and malaria programs.

The managers have exempted the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria, the World Health Organization, the International AIDS Vaccine Fund, and United Nations agencies, from section 301(f) of United States Leadership Against HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria Act of 2003. The managers intend that for purposes of this provision, the World Health Organization includes its six regional offices: The Americas (PAHO); South-East Asia (SEARO); Africa (AFRO); Eastern Mediterranean (EMRO); Europe (Euro); and Western Pacific (WPRO).

Sec. 596. Technical Correction Relating to the Enhanced HIPC Initiative

The conference agreement includes a Senate provision that makes a technical correction relating to the enhanced HIPC initiative. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 597. Indonesia

The conference agreement includes language, similar to a Senate provision, which provides that International Military Education and Training (IMET) assistance may be made available for Indonesia if the Secretary of State determines and reports that the Indonesian Government and Armed Forces (TNI) are cooperating with the FBI's investigation of the August 31, 2002, murders of two American citizens and one Indonesian citizen in Timika, Indonesia. The managers are aware that, in the past, the TNI has not adequately cooperated with the FBI or with other investigations of this crime. However, the managers note that, during President Bush's trip to Indonesia in October 2003, the President and Indonesian President Megawati Sukarnoputri jointly "reaffirmed their shared commitment to find the murderers and bring them to justice." The managers intend that, prior to the Secretary making a determination, the TNI will have unequivocally demonstrated its commitment to cooperate with the FBI. The managers note that expanded IMET assistance is already available for Indonesia without restriction, which may include English language training.

The managers endorse language in Senate Report 108–106 regarding Indonesia.

The managers remain troubled by the situation in Aceh and the ongoing conflict that has killed, injured and displaced thousands of innocent civilians. The managers note that the Indonesian Government has extended martial law for an additional six months, but continue to believe that this conflict will only be resolved through a political process.

The managers strongly support democracy and political party building programs in Indonesia, and recognize that these efforts are long-term endeavors. The managers expect sufficient funding to be provided for democracy and political party building activities, and request that USAID consult with the Committees on the development of its 5-year strategy document for that archipelago.

Sec. 598. Religious Freedom Report

The conference report includes language similar to that proposed by the Senate providing that the assessment and description of violations of religious freedom contained in the report required by section 102(b)(1)(B) of the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998 (22 U.S.C. 6412 (b)(1)(B)) shall include a description of persecution targeted at religions, including acts of anti-Semitism, by individuals or organizations designated as terrorist organizations by the Secretary of State under section 219 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 599A. Delivery of Assistance by Air

The conference report includes language similar to that proposed by the Senate that the Secretary of State and the Administrator of USAID are directed to provide charter air service in regions where scheduled air service is grossly inadequate. The House did not address this matter.

Sec. 599B. Modification on Reporting Requirements

The conference report includes a modification of reporting requirements in existing law including: sections (f) of P.L. 106–246 (the Emergency Supplemental Act, 2000) to change the monthly reporting requirement on Plan Colombia into a quarterly report, and by specifying that this report should be submitted to "the appropriate congressional committees", not "Congress"; section 3204(e) of P.L. 106–246 to specify that this report should be submitted to "the appropriate congressional committees", not "Congress"; and deletes the requirement for a report from GAO pursuant to subsection (a) of section 803 of the Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 2001, Appendix A of Public Law 106–429 (as enacted by section 101(a) of such Public Law). The House partly addressed this matter under the heading "Andean Counterdrug Initiative", and the Senate addressed it in a general provision.

Sec. 599C. CPA Detailees

The conference agreement includes a provision requiring the Office of Personnel Management to provide a report of the number of individuals detailed from each executive agency to the Coalition Provisional Authority in Iraq on the date of enactment of this Act no later than February 1, 2004. The report shall identify by agency the number of non-reimbursable and reimbursable detailees and shall be updated on a quarterly basis until May, 2005.

PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED BY THE MANAGERS

The conference report does not include section 555 of the House bill regarding "Korean Peninsula Energy Development Organization". The Senate did not include this provision.

The conference report does not include section 571 of the House bill and section 680 of the Senate bill regarding "Cuba".

The conference report does not include section 572 of the House bill regarding "Competition in Contracting". This issue was addressed in P.L. 108–106, the Fiscal Year 2004 Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense and for the Reconstruction of Iraq and Afghanistan. The Senate amendment did not address this matter.

The conference report does not include section 581 of the House bill regarding "Efforts by North Korea Relating to the Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons". The Senate amendment did not address this matter.

The conference report does not include section 582 of the House bill regarding the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act of 1978. The Senate amendment did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include section 601 of the Senate amendment regarding "Obligations During the Last Month of Availability." The House did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include section 606 of the Senate amendment regarding "Prohibition on Financing Nuclear Goods." The House did not address this matter. Although no longer carried in the Act, the managers do not expect any funds in this Act from being used to finance the export of nuclear equipment, fuel or technology. If funds are used for such purposes, the managers expect these funds to be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations.

The conference agreement does not include section 610 of the Senate amendment regarding "Deobligation/Reobligation Authority." The House did not address this matter.

The conference report does not include section 662 of the Senate amendment regarding "Enterprise Funds in the Middle East Region". The House did not address this matter. The managers include a proviso under the heading "Economic Support Fund" requiring that a Middle East Financing Facility or Enterprise Fund shall be subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committees on Appropriations. The managers expect that, should such a Facility or Fund be established, the Secretary of State shall certify and report to the Committees on Appropriations prior to the obligation of any funds that: (1) all appropriate steps have been taken to ensure that assistance is not provided to any individual or entity that the management of the Facility or Fund has reason to believe advocates, plans, sponsors, or engages in, or has engaged in, terrorist activities; (2) the Facility or Fund furthers United States commercial interests in the region; and (3) the Facility or Fund is managed in a fiscally responsible manner.

The conference agreement does not include Senate section 683 regarding "American Churchwomen and Other Citizens in El Salvador and Guatemala" relating to the December 2, 1980 murders of four American churchwomen in El Salvador, and the May 5, 2001 murder of Sister Barbara Ann Ford and the murders of other American citizens in Guatemala, listed in the Senate report, since December 1999. The managers are aware that in a memorandum dated April 4, 2003, the U.S. Attorney General ordered the heads of all departments and agencies to report in writing on whether such government entity possesses information relevant to these murders, and, if so, to set forth a written plan for expeditious review of the information for possible release to the victims' families. Each plan is to include an estimate of the date by which the review and possible release of information is expected to be completed. The managers direct the Attorney General to provide to the Committees on Appropriations, not later than 60 days after enactment, copies of the written plans for each such government entity and a description of progress made in implementing such plans. The House did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include Senate section 686 requiring the Secretary of State to report on the status of the Administration's strategy to address the international coffee crisis. The managers are troubled that this strategy has been delayed for several months and expect it to be released in the near future. The managers note the serious impact that the coffee crisis is having on many nations that receive U.S. foreign assistance and endorse the Senate report language on this issue. The House did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include Senate section 687 prohibiting assistance to the central Government of Venezuela if the Secretary of State certifies that the central Government of Venezuela is assisting, harboring or providing sanctuary for Colombian terrorist organizations. The managers request the Secretary of State to provide to the Committees, in a classified form if necessary, not later than 90 days after the enactment of this Act, (1) a description of specific actions taken by the Government of Venezuela to cooperate with the Government of Colombia on counter drug matters, and (2) a description of the extent to which, if any, the Government of Venezuela has supported or assisted groups designated as terrorist organizations in Colombia.

The conference agreement does not include section 689 of the Senate amendment that provides that funds appropriated by this Act that are available for the central Government of Thailand may be made available if the Secretary of State determines and reports to the Committees that, among other actions, the Thai Government supports the advancement of democracy in Burma and is not hampering the delivery of humanitarian assistance to people in Thailand who have fled Burma. The managers provide $5,000,000 to USAID to address the plight of Burmese in Thailand. The managers remain concerned by Thailand's continued engagement with the repressive Burmese junta, including recent pledges to set aside differences to promote economic cooperation. The managers view such actions as contrary to furthering the struggle of democracy inside Burma.

The conference agreement does not include Senate section 692 regarding "Prohibition on Funding to Countries That Trade in Certain Weapons with North Korea". The House bill did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include section 693 as proposed by the Senate regarding religious tolerance in Malaysia. However, the managers remain deeply concerned that the inaccurate and anti-Semitic comments of the former Malaysian Prime Minister may fuel religious intolerance throughout the region and provide credibility to the hateful messages of religious extremists in Malaysia, Indonesia and elsewhere. The managers understand that the views of the former Prime Minister, who retired on October 31, 2003 do not reflect those of all Malaysians, including the country's new leadership. The House bill did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include Senate section 699A regarding a "Report on Sierra Leone". The House did not address this matter. The managers intend that the Administrator of USAID submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations, no later than 6 months after enactment, on the feasibility of establishing a United States mission in Sierra Leone.

The conference agreement does not include Senate section 699B regarding a "Report on Somalia". However, the managers expect that not later than 6 months after enactment the Secretary of State will submit a report to the Committees on Appropriations, describing a strategy for engaging with competent and responsible authorities and organizations within Somalia, including those in Somaliland, to strengthen local capacity and establish incentives for communities to seek stability. The report is also to include a multi-year strategy for: increasing access to basic education and health care services; supporting efforts to establish systems for effective regulation and monitoring of Somali hawala or informal banking establishments; and supporting initiatives to rehabilitate the livestock export sector in Somalia. The House did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include Senate section 699D regarding a "Guinea Worm Eradication Program". This matter is addressed under the heading "Child Survival and Health Programs Fund". The House did not address this matter.

While the conference agreement does not include Senate section 699E expressing the sense of Congress on certain issues relating to Iran, the managers support this language and remain gravely concerned with the Government of Iran's authoritarian and repressive rule, its development of nuclear weapons and their delivery systems, and support for terrorists and other undesirable elements that may undermine reconstruction efforts in Iraq. The House did not address this matter.

The conference agreement does not include Senate section 699G that earmarked $7,000,000 in "Transition Initiatives" funds for democracy-building efforts in Cuba. However, the managers recommend $7,000,000 under "Economic Support Fund" for democracy-building efforts for Cuba supported by USAID including through published and informational material, assistance to victims of political repression and their families, support for democratic and human rights groups in Cuba, and support for independent international human rights monitors in Cuba. The conferees expect that, to the maximum extent possible, organizations implementing these programs for Cuba will be selected on a competitive basis.

The conference report does not include Senate section 699H concerning the development of justice and reconciliation mechanisms in Central Africa. This issue is addressed under the "Economic Support Fund" heading.

The conference agreement does not include section 699I of the Senate amendment calling for the Global AIDS Coordinator to make publicly available prices paid to purchase HIV/AIDS pharmaceuticals, antiviral therapies, diagnostic and monitoring tests, and other appropriate medicines, including medicines to treat opportunistic infections, for the treatment of people with HIV/AIDS and the prevention of mother-to-child transmission of HIV/AIDS in developing countries, through the use of funds appropriated under this Act and, to the extent available, by the World Health Organization and the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria. However, the managers direct the AIDS Coordinator to make this information publicly available, including through posting on Internet web sites maintained by the Coordinator, beginning not later than 60 days after enactment of the Act.

The conference agreement does not include section 699K of the Senate amendment adding an additional $289,000,000 to the Global AIDS Initiative account. Additional funding for HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria is contained under the heading "Child Survival and Health Programs Fund" and "Global HIV/AIDS Initiative".

The conference agreement does not include section 699L of the Senate amendment regarding "International Military Training Assistance For Indonesia". This matter is addressed in section 597 of the conference report. The House did not address this matter.

In implementing this agreement, the Departments and agencies should be guided by the language and instructions set forth in House Report 108–188 and Senate Report 108–81 accompanying the bill, H.R. 2660.

In the cases where the language and instructions in either report specifically adress the allocation of funds, each has been reviewed by the conferees and those that are jointly concurred in have been endorsed in this joint statement.

The conferees direct that the Departments and agencies funded through this Division make a written request to the chairmen of the Committees prior to the reprogramming of funds in excess of 10 percent, or $500,000, whichever is less, between programs, activities, or elements unless an alternate amount for the agency in question is specified elsewhere in Division E of this Statement. The conferees further agree that a reprogramming request is required for actions involving less than the above-mentioned amounts if such actions would have the effect of changing an agency's funding requirements in future years or if the action can be construed to be the initiation of a new program.

The conferees reiterate that the Committees be notified regarding reorganization of offices, programs, or activities prior to the planned implementation of such reorganizations.

Finally, the conferees request that statements on the effect of this appropriation Act be submitted to the Committees within 60 days of enactment of this Act.

The Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2004, put in place by this resolution, incorporates the following agreements of the managers:

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ADMINISTRATION

TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICES

The conference agreement includes $5,160,654,000 for training and employment services instead of $5,077,039,000 as proposed by the House and $5,140,588,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of the amount appropriated, $2,463,000,000 is an advance appropriation for fiscal year 2004, as proposed by the House and the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $1,456,760,000 for the Dislocated Worker program as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,461,760,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees override the formula that provides that 80 percent of the funds provided will be used for State formula grants and 20 percent for National Emergency Grants, providing $1,180,152,000 for the States and $276,608,000 for the National Reserve.

The conference agreement includes bill language giving the Secretary of Labor authority to use dislocated worker national reserve funds to provide assistance to a State for statewide or local use in order to address cases where there have been worker dislocations across multiple sectors or across multiple local areas. The conferees urge the Secretary, when determining competitive awards under this authority, to give favorable consideration to the applications of assistance to States that have sustained worker dislocation in such a manner and can demonstrate the capacity to respond effectively in a coordinated fashion across multiple sectors or local areas.

The conference agreement includes $55,000,000 for Native Americans as proposed by the House instead of $55,636,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $77,330,000 for activities authorized under Section 167 of the Workforce Investment Act, reflected in two separate line items on the table accompanying the Conference Report: 'Migrant and Seasonal Farmworkers' and 'National Activities/Other'. Under the Migrant and Seasonal Farmworkers line item, the agreement provides $76,823,000. The conference agreement includes bill language directing that $4,610,000 of this amount be used for migrant and seasonal farmworker housing grants; the conference agreement includes language further directing that not less than 70 percent of this amount be used for permanent housing grants.

Within the National Activities/Other line item, the conference agreement includes $507,000 to be used for Section 167 training, technical assistance and related activities, including continuing funding for migrant rest center activities at the current level.

The conference agreement includes $1,546,216,000 for Job Corps. Within the total, $1,416,000,000 is provided for continuing operations of the program and $130,216,000 is for renovation and construction of Job Corps centers.

The conferees recognize that New Hampshire is one of only two States in the Nation without a Job Corps Center and that it desires to open a center in the State. The conferees intend to begin providing funding for at least one new Job Corps Center in fiscal year 2005 and expect the Department of Labor to give priority consideration to applications from States currently without a Job Corps Center. Further, the conferees direct the Department of Labor to provide technical assistance to the State of New Hampshire to identify one or more sites that would be suitable for consideration for future expansion of Job Corps.

The conferees also note that the Job Corps network currently includes at least 5 existing satellite centers. The conferees are aware of entities in Iowa and other States working with local Job Corps sites to replicate this model. The conferees believe this is a low-cost option to expand the existing network and urge the Secretary to assist in the planning of new satellite centers. The Secretary shall issue a report no later than August 31, 2004 identifying the barriers experienced by the existing Centers and a comprehensive plan for expanding the satellite concept.

The conferees commend Job Corps for its recent efforts to increase opportunities for participants to earn a high school diploma through the establishment of its High School Diploma Initiative (HSDI). While Job Corps' success rate to date is encouraging, significant obstacles at the State and local levels make it extremely difficult for the program to ensure that all participants, regardless of center location, have access to the opportunity to obtain a high school diploma. The conferees urge the Department of Labor, in consultation with the Department of Education, States, and local educational agencies to examine obstacles to Job Corps' participants' ability to earn and receive high school diplomas from a local educational agency.

As expressed in the 2003 statement of the managers, the conferees remain concerned with the lack of information provided regarding the performance and operation of the Workforce Investment Act. Further, the conferees remain concerned that States and local workforce investment areas lack the technology to comply with the basic performance reporting and operational requirements of WIA. Therefore, the conferees recommend that the Secretary provide States and local workforce investment areas funding to develop technology and determine its benefit to the WIA system.

The conferees take note of the recent plant closure announcements in Lorain, Ohio and direct the Secretary of Labor to give favorable consideration to the application to continue and expand support for job training, workforce and economic development initiatives implemented and delivered by Lorain County Community College at the same commitment level established in the original agreement entered into in 2000.

The conferees are impressed with the Labor Department's partnership with the Council for Adult and Experiential Learning to creatively address the Nation's shortage of nurses. The Employment and Training Administration pilot program will allow CAEL and health care partners in five cities to increase the number of Certified Nurses Aides, Licensed Practical Nurses and Registered Nurses.

With respect to the projects listed below for pilots and demonstrations, the conferees encourage the Department to ensure that these projects are coordinated with local Workforce Investment Boards. The conferees also encourage the Department to ensure that project performance is adequately documented and evaluated. The conference agreement includes the following amounts for the following projects and activities:

COMMUNITY SERVICE EMPLOYMENT FOR OLDER AMERICANS

The conference agreement appropriates $441,253,000 for Community Service Employment for Older Americans, instead of $440,200,000 as proposed by the House and $442,306,000 as proposed by the Senate.

FEDERAL UNEMPLOYMENT AND BENEFITS ALLOWANCES

The conference agreement includes a technical correction to both House and Senate Trade Act language to clarify that amounts needed to pay benefits under the Alternative Trade Adjustment Assistance program are included in the appropriation. The conference agreement includes $7,000,000 for the State of Alaska for training of displaced workers who can no longer earn a living in industries adversely affected by foreign trade.

STATE UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICES OPERATIONS

The conference agreement appropriates $3,609,381,000 for State Unemployment Insurance and Employment Service Operations, instead of $3,615,381,000 as proposed by the House and $3,620,552,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees expect the Department of Labor to continue to allocate fiscal year 2004 funds for the Workforce Information Core Products and Services through formula grants to the States.

The conferees urge the Department of Labor to study the impact of using alternate criteria for the allotment of grants to States for the administration of Federal and State unemployment compensation laws. The criteria used in this study shall include the relative proportion of unemployed individuals in each State and the relative proportion of the total civilian labor force in each State. The Department shall be prepared to submit the results of this study to the Congress at the fiscal year 2005 budget hearings. The conferees are requesting this study in order to assess the need for a new formula so that States are not penalized for keeping administrative costs at a minimum through the use of technology and other innovations.

PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement appropriates $175,644,000 for Program Administration, instead of $172,327,000 as proposed by the House and $178,961,000 as proposed by the Senate. The detailed table at the end of this joint statement reflects the activity distribution agreed to by the conferees.

EMPLOYEE BENEFITS SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement appropriates $124,962,000 for the Employee Benefits Security Administration, instead of $128,605,000 as proposed by the House and $121,316,000 as proposed by the Senate. The detailed table at the end of this joint statement reflects the activity distribution agreed to by the conferees.

EMPLOYMENT STANDARDS ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement appropriates $394,908,000 for the Employment Standards Administration, salaries and expenses, instead of $397,753,000 as proposed by the House and $392,061,000 as proposed by the Senate. The detailed table at the end of this joint statement reflects the activity distribution agreed to by the conferees.

On October 3, 2003, the Department of Labor published a final rule on union reporting and disclosure under the Labor Management Reporting and Disclosure Act (LMRDA). The conferees are concerned that the Department has not yet produced the electronic LM-2 software that it will require unions to use and has not yet produced to unions the software necessary for unions to export data from their newly revised accounting and record-keeping systems to the new electronic LM-2 forms. The conferees therefore urge that the Department make available this software as expeditiously as possible to determine whether this software, together with union accounting and record-keeping systems, will actually work as is intended and designed.

OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $460,786,000 for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration instead of $450,008,000 as proposed by the House bill and $463,324,000 as proposed by the Senate. The detailed table at the end of this joint statement reflects the activity distribution agreed to by the conferees.

Within the total, $3,200,000 is to be used to extend funding for Institutional Competency training grants provided that the grantee has demonstrated satisfactory performance.

MINE SAFETY AND HEALTH ADMINISTRATION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $270,826,000 for the Mine Safety and Health Administration instead of $266,767,000 as proposed by the House bill and $270,711,000 as proposed by the Senate. The detailed table at the end of this joint statement reflects the activity distribution agreed to by the conferees.

Within the total, the conference agreement includes $2,000,000 to be available for mine rescue and recovery activities on a non-contingency basis as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees are concerned about recent GAO findings that raise serious questions about the quality of enforcement of the Mine Act by MSHA. Specifically, the conferees are concerned that MSHA is experiencing staffing and informational systems problems that hinder its ability to fulfill its inspection and investigation obligations. The conferees expect MSHA to develop an agency-wide human capital plan to address current and future inspector shortages, including recruiting and training needs. The conferees also expect the agency to develop a comprehensive plan to address information technology needs regarding injury rates, accident investigations, and timely inspections, including the collection of contractor data.

The conference agreement includes the following amounts for the following projects and activities:

National Technology Transfer Center for a coal slurry impoundment pilot project in Southern West Virginia	$1,000,000
Stolar Research Corporation to further develop and demonstrate electromagnetic wave detection technology associated with drill string radar to prevent mine flooding incidents	100,000

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $522,198,000 for the Bureau of Labor Statistics instead of $512,262,000 as provided by the House bill and $520,223,000 by the Senate. The detailed table at the end of this joint statement reflects the activity distribution agreed to by the conferees.

Within the total for the Employment and Unemployment Statistics activity, $5,000,000 is for the Mass Layoff Statistics program. Similar language was included in the Senate bill.

OFFICE OF DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT POLICY

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees have included $2,500,000 within the Office of Disability Employment Policy to continue the telework efforts already initiated by ODEP. This can include expansion of pilot programs already underway and/or initiation of new telework pilots. ODEP should proceed in an expeditious manner to create telework positions in cooperation with Federal and State agencies. Priority should be given to strategies judged likely to yield the largest numbers of telework positions for people with disabilities.

The conferees have included sufficient funds to continue the structured internship program for undergraduate college students with disabilities.

DEPARTMENTAL MANAGEMENT

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $352,830,000 for Departmental Management, salaries and expenses, instead of $253,018,000 as proposed by the House bill and $351,609,000 as proposed by the Senate. The detailed table at the end of this joint statement reflects the activity distribution agreed to by the conferees.

The conference agreement includes $110,650,000 for the Bureau of International Labor Affairs (ILAB). Within the total provided, $82,000,000 is to assist developing countries with the elimination of child labor. Of this amount, $45,000,000 is for the International Labor Organization's International Programme for the Elimination of Child Labor. In addition, $37,000,000 is provided for bilateral assistance, made available through September 30, 2004, to improve access to basic education in international areas with a high rate of abusive and exploitative child labor. The conference agreement further includes $2,500,000 for bilateral and multilateral technical assistance, to be used to promote the International Labor Organization's Declaration of Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work. Given the increasing focus on the social impact of globalization, the U.S. Government has an interest in assisting nations who want to develop and/or implement core labor standards, including the right of free association. The conference agreement includes $5,000,000 for ILAB to build its own permanent capacity to monitor and report regularly and in-depth to the Congress on the extent to which foreign countries with trade and investment agreements with the United States respect internationally-recognized worker rights and effectively promote core labor standards. The conference agreement also includes $11,000,000 for Federal administration and other ILAB programs.

The conference agreement includes $10,000,000 for the purpose of assisting the International Labor Organization in implementing a program to confront HIV/AIDS in the workplace. The primary purpose of this program shall be to promote workplace policies which combat HIV-related stigma and discrimination, and promote prevention on the basis of tripartite partnerships among workers, employers and governments around the world. The conferees direct that the Secretary shall designate a full-time coordinator to oversee these efforts and coordinate with the various agencies conducting international HIV/AIDS programs. The conferees further direct that the Secretary submit a report to the Committees by August 31, 2004 detailing the challenges faced and progress made in implementing anti-discrimination policies in each of the countries that are engaged by this effort.

International Center on Child Labor and Education	$150,000

The conferees strongly support the Buy American Act, which was enacted in 1933 to ensure that the Federal government supports domestic companies and domestic workers by buying American-made goods. The Act includes a number of waiver provisions that allow Federal agencies to buy foreign goods in some circumstances, but there is little disclosure or accountability in the waiver process. The conferees, therefore, direct the Secretary to issue a report not later than 60 days after the last day of fiscal year 2004 on the amount of acquisitions made by the Department during such fiscal year of articles, materials, or supplies that were manufactured outside the United States. Such report shall separately indicate the dollar value of any articles, materials, or supplies purchased by the department that were manufactured outside the United States, an itemized list of all waivers under the Buy American Act (41 U.S.C. 10a et seq.) that were granted with respect to such articles, materials, or supplies, and a summary of total procurement funds spent on goods manufactured in the United States versus funds spent on goods manufactured outside of the United States.

VETERANS EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

The detailed table at the end of this joint statement reflects the activity distribution agreed to by the conferees. Within the total, the conferees have provided $162,415,000 for State administration as proposed by the House instead of breaking this funding between Disabled Veterans Outreach and Local Veterans Employment as proposed by the Senate.

WORKING CAPITAL FUND

The conference agreement includes $13,850,000 for the Working Capital Fund, instead of $18,000,000 as proposed by the House bill and $9,700,000 as proposed by the Senate.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

EXECUTIVE ORDER 13126

The conference agreement includes a provision proposed by the Senate that none of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be obligated or expended for the procurement of goods produced by forced or indentured child labor. The House bill contained no similar provision.

DENALI COMMISSION

The conference agreement includes a provision proposed by the Senate that authorizes to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to the Denali Commission to conduct job training where Denali Commission projects will be constructed. The House bill contained no similar provision.

WELFARE-TO-WORK

The conference agreement modifies a provision proposed by the Senate that rescinds funds appropriated for fiscal year 1999 for the welfare-to-work program. The conference agreement rescinds any amounts allotted to the States from funds appropriated for fiscal year 1999 for the Welfare-to-Work program that are unexpended as of the date of enactment of the section, except for certain close out costs. Unexpended funds would consist of funds allotted to the States that are unobligated by the States, or obligated by the States, but not expended. Only funds to pay for goods and services that have already been provided as of the date of enactment are generally considered expended. Grantees would be required to terminate any agreements providing for the provision of goods and services beginning after the date of enactment unless alternative funding sources are identified.

Since this rescission would accelerate the termination of the Welfare-to-Work grants to the States that are all due to expire during fiscal year 2004, the provision does not rescind funds that the Secretary of Labor determines are necessary for the States to carry out administrative activities relating to closeout. Such costs could include such items as penalties for early termination of leases, and personnel costs relating to the final reporting and closeout of grant activities. Authority is also provided in this provision for the Secretary of Labor to take necessary actions to facilitate the orderly and equitable closeout of the State grants, notwithstanding the programmatic requirements of the Welfare-to-Work program.

The conferees expect the Employment and Training Administration to assist States in establishing a transition process to help the remaining welfare-to-work participants easily and seamlessly assimilate into Workforce Investment Act programs that allow them to continue to receive assistance.

OVERTIME REGULATION

The conference agreement deletes without prejudice language proposed by the Senate that none of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be used to promulgate or implement any regulation that exempts employees from the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938. The House did not include this provision.

ETA OFFICE CLOSINGS

The conference agreement deletes without prejudice language proposed by the Senate that the Secretary shall cease closing ETA regional offices. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conferees remain concerned about the Department's regional office reorganization. The conferees, therefore, urge the Department to maintain the current office structure of the Employment and Training Administration Offices.

PERSONAL DUST MONITORS

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the Senate that the Secretary shall re-propose a rule on respirable coal dust following the successful demonstration of personal dust monitors. The House bill contained no similar provision.

HAMILTON COUNTY ONE STOP CENTER

The conference agreement includes a provision transferring all federal interest in a State of Ohio Employment Services Office to Hamilton County, Ohio.

NEW ENTRANTS

The conference agreement includes a provision to permit youth, ages 14 through 17, who by statute or judicial order are exempt from compulsory school attendance beyond the eighth grade, to work inside or outside places of business where machinery is used to process wood products. The youth would be permitted to perform activities such as sweeping, stacking wood, and writing orders. Safety provisions include prohibiting the youth from operating machinery, and requiring the use of eye and body protections.

TITLE II—DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

The conference agreement includes two technical bill language citations for sections 510 and 711 of the Social Security Act. Section 510 had not been included in the House bill; section 711 had not been included in the Senate bill.

York Health Corporation, York, PA, to expand services of the Nurse-Family Partnership program	50,000

The conference agreement includes bill language identifying $250,000 for facilities renovation at the Gillis Long Hansen's Disease Center as proposed by the Senate rather than $248,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement includes $4,850,000 for malpractice insurance for volunteer physicians who practice at free clinics as authorized by section 224(o) of the Public Health Service Act instead of $10,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House did not provide funding for this program.

The conference agreement includes bill language providing $10,000,000 to remain available until expended to establish a National Cord Blood Stem Cell Bank Program within HRSA, which will provide funds to a network of cord blood banks with two specific aims: (1) building an inventory of the highest quality cord blood units for use as unrelated donor grafts for patients who lack human leukocyte antigen (HLA)-matched sibling donors and (2) ensuring an integrated system through which physicians and patients are able to locate a suitably matched cord blood unit or adult volunteer bone marrow donor via a single, electronic access point. The conferees intend that this program be administered by HRSA.

Because this is a new and developing field, the conferees direct HRSA to use $1,000,000 of the funds provided for the cord blood bank to contract with the Institute of Medicine (IOM) to commission a study which shall be completed within twelve months of enactment of this Act. The study should recommend an optimal structure for the cord blood program and address pertinent issues to maximize the potential of this technology, including collection, storage, standards setting, information sharing, distribution, reimbursement, research and outcome measures. The IOM should receive input from experts including: (a) transplant physicians with expertise in the use of cord blood for unrelated marrow transplantation; (b) experts in the analysis of clinical outcomes after bone marrow and cord blood stem cell transplantations; (c) experts on HLA typing for transplantation, especially experts with experience in unrelated cord blood transplantation; (d) experts in medical database development and management and web-based information technology; (e) obstetricians familiar with programs for cord blood donation for public use; (f) experts in cord blood banking; (g) representatives of existing Federally-funded and other active cord blood and bone marrow registries; (h) representatives of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA); (i) experts in the accreditation of facilities for cord blood stem cell preparation and transplantation; and (j) representatives of the National Institutes of Health NHLBI Cord Blood Transplantation Study. The conferees expect that no additional monies will be expended until the IOM report is completed and that by the end of fiscal year 2005, HRSA will implement the program following the IOM recommendations. The Secretary shall notify the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress at least fifteen days prior to the release of funds for this program.

The conferees understand that cord blood is part of a continuum of transplantation treatment and support further research in cord blood transplantation. A portion of the cord blood units collected using these funds should be available for the performance of pre-clinical and clinical research focusing on cord blood stem cell biology and the use of umbilical cord blood stem cells for human transplantation and cellular therapies. The conferees recognize the importance of Federal oversight to protect public health and safety, and expect that funds will be directed to cord blood banks that comply with all FDA requirements and have obtained any necessary licenses. The conferees intend that this program should be available to currently established cord blood banks with active collection programs operating under an approved IND from the FDA.

The conference agreement includes bill language identifying $39,740,000 for the rural hospital flexibility grants program as provided by both the House and Senate. Within the total provided, $15,000,000 is for the Small Rural Hospital Improvement Grant program.

The conference agreement includes bill language identifying $280,000,000 for family planning instead of $273,350,000 as proposed by the House and $283,350,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees have included bill language identifying $25,000,000 for existing community health centers for economic stabilization and to offset the rising cost of current services. The conferees expect HRSA to use this funding to increase basic support for existing health centers based on performance-related criteria. The House and Senate reports included a similar directive.

To address the problem of rising expenditures for prescription drugs, the conferees recognize that, increasingly, use is being made of the Public Health Service drug discount program by its grantees, their patients, and third-party payers, such as State Medicaid plans. Congress has funded an increase in the number of community health centers and other safety net health care providers. However, the process for quarterly updating of the list of providers certified for the drug discount program acts as an unnecessary administrative barrier to more immediate access to the lower drug prices. Therefore, the conferees direct the Public Health Service to adopt procedures for immediate access to the drug discounts for qualified entities that are specified in section 340B of the Public Health Service Act.

The conferees remain concerned that the effort to restructure HRSA programs and grants management may be having a negative effect on the stability of many HRSA grantees. Specifically, the restructuring of HRSA's project officer system has proven to be detrimental to new grantees, that often need immediate, high quality technical assistance to successfully deliver care in their communities and meet complex program requirements. The conferees expect HRSA to work with all stakeholders to improve the availability of accurate information and policy clarifications from HRSA. The conferees also expect HRSA to improve the timeliness of award notices and the notices of the availability of new funds.

The conferees recently learned that, due to certain requirements under Section 330 of the Public Health Service Act, a number of school-based health centers that had previously received funding under the community health centers program are now ineligible for such funding. Recognizing the contribution that these entities have made in their respective communities, the conferees strongly urge HRSA to make these previously funded programs eligible for funding in fiscal year 2004. The conferees further urge HRSA to develop recommendations for overcoming this problem in the future.

The conference agreement provides $12,000,000 for Native Hawaiian health care activities within the consolidated health centers program instead of $15,000,000 as provided by the Senate. The House did not identify specific funding for Native Hawaiian activities.

The conference agreement includes $2,056,956,000 for Ryan White AIDS programs, of which $2,031,956,000 is provided as budget authority and $25,000,000 is provided from program evaluation funding under section 241 of the Public Health Service Act to carry out Ryan White Special Projects of National Significance. The House had provided $2,023,599,000, while the Senate provided $2,041,599,000, of which $25,000,000 was from program evaluation funding. The agreement includes bill language identifying $753,317,000 for the Ryan White Title II State AIDS drug assistance programs as proposed by the House instead of $739,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Within the total for Ryan White AIDS programs, no less than the amount provided in fiscal year 2003 is included for AIDS activities that are targeted to address the growing HIV/AIDS epidemic and its disproportionate impact upon communities of color, including African Americans, Latinos, Native Americans, Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders.

The conferees are concerned by the increasing prevalence of hepatitis C–HIV co-infection. Co-infection of the hepatitis C virus (HCV) in HIV infected patients has become the leading cause of AIDS mortality in some parts of the country. The death rate is higher and life expectancy shorter for co-infection patients than for patients who have only HIV. To address this growing problem, the conferees urge HRSA to encourage State ADAPs to offer co-infected patients access to approved hepatitis C treatments as their resources allow, to ensure that the Ryan White critical care funded programs (including Title III & IV clinics) provide opportunities for training care givers and clinicians to treat co-infected patients, and to ensure that AETCs address the need for physician education on HCV/HIV co-infection.

The conferees recognize that it is essential for the Title IV program to maximize funds going for services to women, children, families and youth and to place an appropriate limit on administrative expenses. The conferees agree with HRSA that, due to the time constraints related to the approaching application deadline, it is not possible to institute this limitation in fiscal year 2004 for grants that would be awarded in August 2004. In addition, the conferees have concerns with the quality of the data that have been collected for calculating the proposed cap. In the Notice regarding the proposal that was placed in the Federal Register on August 12, 2003, the definition of "administrative expenses" was undetermined; however, data were given regarding the administrative expenses of the various Title IV grantees. These data may or may not have included indirect costs. As a result of the lack of a precise definition, the grantees may have provided incorrect information regarding their administrative expenses. The conferees agree that these data must be accurate to determine a fair limitation on administrative expenses that ensures that the Title IV grantees remain viable and able to provide services for women, children, youth, and families infected with HIV. Since the earliest that this limitation may be put into effect is fiscal year 2005 for grants that will be awarded in August 2005, the conferees strongly urge HRSA to re-collect data regarding administrative expenses with a precise definition to ensure accuracy and comparability.

The conferees concur in the Senate report language regarding 90 percent of total title IV funding being provided to grantees and primarily to support maintenance of existing care services. The conferees also concur in the Senate report language intending that HRSA use a significant portion of the remaining funds to expand comprehensive services for youth. The conferees also concur in Senate language regarding peer-based technical assistance and a national consumer and provider education center.

The conference agreement includes bill language designating $121,130,000 of the funds provided for the maternal and child health block grant for special projects of regional and national significance (SPRANS). The House bill provided $117,831,000 for this activity while the Senate bill earmarked $116,381,000 for this purpose. It is intended that $4,000,000 of the SPRANS amount will be used to continue the sickle cell newborn screening program and its locally based outreach and counseling efforts. In addition, $5,000,000 of the SPRANS amount will be used to continue the oral health demonstration programs and activities in the States. The conference agreement also includes within the SPRANS set-aside $1,600,000 for mental health programs and activities in the States as outlined in the Senate report, $3,000,000 to begin an epilepsy demonstration, and $2,000,000 for newborn and child screening for heritable disorders as authorized in Title XXVI of the Children's Health Act of 2000. The heritable disorders program is designed to strengthen States' newborn screening programs and improve States' ability to develop, evaluate, and acquire innovative testing technologies, and establish and improve programs to provide screening, counseling, testing and special services for newborns and children at risk for heritable disorders.

The conference agreement includes $74,988,000 for abstinence education programs instead of $65,000,000 as proposed by the House and $73,044,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes $4,500,000 in program evaluation funds for the abstinence education program and $70,488,000 in budget authority. The program evaluation funds are to be used for evaluation of adolescent pregnancy prevention programs. Because the program evaluation funds are provided in addition to the budget authority for the abstinence education program, the conference agreement strikes language in both the House and Senate bills permitting the budget authority to be used for evaluation and setting a limit of 3.5 percent of the total provided for such purposes. The conferees concur in language included in the House report regarding technical assistance and capacity building and language included in the Senate report about grantees with project periods expiring in fiscal year 2003.

The conference agreement includes $500,000 for rural emergency service training and equipment assistance instead of $1,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The specific bill language providing the funding has been deleted and the funding included in the table at the end of the statement of managers.

The conference agreement includes $11,000,000 for rural and community access to rural devices. This includes $10,000,000 for the rural program under section 413 of the Public Health Service Act and $1,000,000 for the new community access demonstration under section 313.

The conference agreement includes $438,748,000 for health professions instead of $391,203,000 as proposed by the House. The Senate provided $423,765,000 for a consolidated health professions line as well as $50,000,000 for nurse training.

The conferees concur in the House report language allocating fiscal year 2003 level funding for graduate psychology education and geropsychology and $19,000,000 for geriatric education centers, $7,000,000 for geriatric training, and $6,000,000 for geriatric academic career awards. The conferees concur in Senate report language allocating at least $5,500,000 for the pediatric dental program and providing continued funding for the chiropractic-medical school demonstration grant program.

The conference agreement provides $142,763,000 for nurse training programs within the health professions training total. In using the increase in funding provided above the fiscal year 2003 level under Nurse Education, Practice, and Retention Grants, the conferees expect HRSA to give preference in funding to internship and residency programs, career ladder programs, and enhancing patient care delivery systems. The conferees intend that a portion of the funding provided for loan repayment and scholarships be used for scholarships in exchange for two years of service at health care facilities with critical shortages of nurses.

The conferees continue to be concerned about the health care needs of those in the Mississippi River Delta region. The conferees provide $6,800,000 for rural health outreach to continue the ongoing initiative in eight States. These grants provide funding and technical assistance to help underserved rural communities identify and better address their health care needs and to help small rural hospitals improve their financial and operational performance. The conferees further recommend that HRSA consult with the Delta Regional Authority and the Delta Health Alliance, given their ongoing relationships with communities in the Delta.

The conferees concur with the Senate report language regarding frontier extended stay clinics.

The conferees support the Student Resident Experiences and Rotations in Community Health (SEARCH) program within the National Health Service Corps and intend that HRSA continue this program in fiscal year 2004.

The conference agreement includes $35,000,000 for the Denali Commission instead of $40,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House did not include funding for the Commission. The conference agreement includes a general provision, section 222, amending the Denali Commission Act of 1998 to clarify that the Commission has authority to use the interagency transfer mechanism rather than grants to receive the funding provided in this Act. The conferees concur in language in the Senate report indicating that the Denali Commission should allocate funds to a mix of service facilities. Within the funds provided, $2,500,000 is provided to acquire medical equipment for rural clinics and hospitals, such as an x-ray machine for Seldovia, AK, and $5,000,000 shall be used for upgrade and construction of shelters for victims of domestic violence.

The conferees concur in language in the Senate report identifying $3,000,000 within traumatic brain injury funding for protection and advocacy services.

The conference agreement includes $104,317,000 for the community access program as proposed by the House. The Senate did not provide funding for this program. The conferees encourage HRSA, through the Community Access Program, to establish demonstration projects between community health centers and minority health professions schools for the purpose of health status disparities research and data collection. Such demonstration projects were authorized in the Health Care Safety Net Amendments of 2002.

The conference agreement includes $150,000,000 for program management instead of $155,974,000 as provided by the House and $146,686,000 as provided by the Senate.

The conferees expect HRSA to use no more than one percent of the funds allocated for projects for agency administrative expenses.

The Ricky Ray Hemophilia Relief Act of 1998 established the Ricky Ray Hemophilia Relief Fund to provide compassionate payments to certain individuals affected by HIV transmission via contaminated blood products. The fund terminated by law on November 12, 2003. The conferees are aware of approximately 28 cases that may still be adjudicated. The conferees understand that HRSA has made budgetary arrangements in anticipation of potential additional payments. The conferees expect HRSA to report to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees on the status of these potential payments by February 1, 2004.

VACCINE INJURY COMPENSATION PROGRAM TRUST FUND

The conference agreement includes $3,222,000 for the administrative costs associated with the Vaccine Injury Compensation Program instead of $3,472,000 as proposed by the House and $2,972,000 as proposed by the Senate.

CENTERS FOR DISEASE CONTROL AND PREVENTION

DISEASE CONTROL, RESEARCH, AND TRAINING

The conference agreement includes $4,545,472,000 for disease control, research, and training at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), instead of $4,588,671,000 as proposed by the House and $4,494,496,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, $212,134,000 is made available under Section 241 of the Public Health Service Act, the same as proposed by the Senate. The House bill proposed that $13,226,000 be derived under Section 241 authority.

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the Senate inserting the word "purchase" before the phrase, "hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft." The House proposed no similar language.

The conference agreement includes bill language earmarking $262,000,000 for equipment, construction, and renovation of facilities, instead of $260,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House proposed $206,000,000 for this activity. Within this total, $250,000,000 is for continuation of CDC's Facilities in Atlanta and $9,600,000 is for the second year costs of replacing CDC's infectious disease laboratory in Fort Collins, Colorado and $2,400,000 is to begin replacement of CDC's facilities in Cincinnati, Ohio. The conferees continue to support the implementation of CDC's Buildings and Facilities Master Plan and are pleased with the progress made to date.

The conferees expect the CDC to utilize a portion of the funds provided for buildings and facilities to continue and expand security improvements to ensure critical information reliability for response to critical events, as well as to conduct increasingly varied public health missions.

The conference agreement includes bill language to allow the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to enter into a single contract or related contracts for the full scope of development and construction of facilities as proposed by both the House and the Senate. The conference agreement also includes bill language to allow funds appropriated to the CDC to be used to enter into a long-term ground lease for construction on non-Federal land, in order to replace their laboratory in the Fort Collins, Colorado area as proposed by both the House and Senate.

The conference agreement includes bill language to earmark $293,569,000 for international HIV/AIDS, with $150,000,000 earmarked for the International Mother and Child HIV Prevention Initiative, the same as proposed by the Senate. $127,634,000—National Center for Health Statistics Surveys

$14,000,000—National Immunization Surveys

$28,600,000—Information Systems Standards Development and Architecture and Applications-based Research Used at Local Public Health Levels

In addition, $2,244,000 is provided to establish a national awareness and education program that will widely disseminate information regarding autism identification and diagnosis to both families and health care providers as authorized by Sec. 103 of the Children's Health Act of 2000. This program should be administered and piloted in partnership with voluntary organizations already working in the autism community.

The conferees concur that the status report on autism data collection requested by both the House and Senate is due by March 1, 2004.

The conference agreement includes $1,500,000 to establish a public health and research program in partnership with a national voluntary health association dedicated to assist parents and families of children with Tourette Syndrome as proposed by both the House and Senate.

The conferees continue to support strongly the partnership between CDC and the Christopher and Dana Reeve Paralysis Resource Center and intend that within the increase provided: $500,000 be used to fund up to three applied research projects to translate clinical rehabilitation treadmill therapy to community-based settings and to train health care professionals to deliver this intervention; and $2,000,000 be used to expand the work of the Resource Center.

The conferees applaud the ongoing work at CDC, in conjunction with the Lance Armstrong Foundation, to develop a National Cancer Survivorship Action Plan. The conferees also urge the CDC to develop a cancer survivorship resource center focused on the post-treatment needs and long-term survivorship/quality of life issues.

The conferees are aware that survival rates of the most lethal cancers, including lung, esophageal, liver, and pancreatic cancer, remain at or below 15 percent. Further, the conferees understand that the University of Kentucky, Markey Cancer Center, has begun a three-year effort to establish a state-of-the-art early detection and outreach program for a rural, medically underserved population with links to best treatment practices, clinical trials, and relevant translational research. Upon its completion, the conferees request that the Secretary, through the Director of the CDC, assess both the design and findings of this project, and report to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees on the project's outcomes and any recommendations to increase the survival rates of lethal cancers.

Within the amounts available for Arthritis and Other Chronic Diseases, the agreement provides an increase over fiscal year 2003 of $250,000 for the expansion of State-based arthritis programs and collaborations with the relevant voluntary health organizations and of $750,000 to enhance epilepsy efforts, in partnership with a national non-profit organization that works on behalf of children and adults affected by seizures. The conferees intend that the funds provided for fiscal year 2004 be used to augment the media buy for phase 3 of the campaign and encourage the CDC to use these enhanced resources to leverage additional in-kind contributions.

The conferees encourage the CDC to develop partnerships with national organizations to enhance the reach and impact of the STEPS program by coordinating and delivering program models to additional communities across America, including in rural and disadvantaged communities. Potential partners should have experience directly providing youth-development programs, long-standing dedication to promoting lifelong health, and a commitment to serving all ages, incomes, and abilities.

Within the amount for Nutrition and Physical Activity, the conference agreement includes $1,000,000 to support a comprehensive review of the effects of food marketing on children's diet and health, including the characteristics of effective marketing of foods to children to promote healthy food choices. The conferees request that upon completion of the review, a report detailing the review's findings be submitted to the appropriate Committees of jurisdiction of the Congress.

Epidemic Services

The conference agreement includes $92,494,000 for epidemic services and response, instead of $82,494,000 as proposed by the House and $127,494,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $15,000,000 above the comparable level for fiscal year 2003 for the Director to expand global disease detection capabilities. The conferees are aware that approximately thirty previously unheard of infectious diseases were discovered in the last thirty years. The conferees intend that the increased funds provided for global disease detection be allocated in the manner determined by the Director of CDC to enhance the capability to detect and track global outbreaks of disease.

The conferees commend CDC for its partnership with the Landmine Survivor Network and have provided funds within Epidemic Services to support the Network at not less than the fiscal year 2003 level.

Within the funds provided for global HIV/AIDS, $150,000,000 is for the International Mother and Child HIV Prevention Initiative.

Within the total for HIV/AIDS, $104,000,000 is provided to continue CDC's support of activities that are targeted to address the growing HIV/AIDS epidemic and its disparate impact on communities of color, including African Americans, Latinos, Native Americans, Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders. The conferees intend that CDC follow the report accompanying the Labor, HHS and Education and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2002 regarding the disbursement of these funds, including continuing support for the Directly Funded Minority Community Based Organization Program.

The conferees urge the Director to continue and to strengthen CDC support of community-based organizations and faith-based organizations in their efforts to provide culturally and linguistically appropriate primary and secondary HIV prevention programs. The conferees are aware of recent concerns regarding instability in the recompetition process and encourage the CDC to provide directly funded community and faith based organizations with technical assistance and capacity building support in order to promote effective and sustainable programs.

Within the total for STD activities, $500,000 is for CDC to carry out a competitive grant program to strengthen local capacity on Indian reservations to screen for and treat sexually transmitted diseases and to educate local populations about such diseases and their consequences, as well as how transmission of such diseases can be prevented.

The conferees urge CDC to utilize $1,000,000 of the increase provided for Tuberculosis (TB) prevention to partner with a private foundation uniquely qualified to test new TB vaccines and that has implemented a large-scale community-based TB vaccine field trial. CDC should utilize its cooperative agreement mechanisms to ensure that the agency has the opportunity to provide technical assistance and guidance to this important partnership, especially with regard to epidemiology.

The conferees request that the Director prepare a plan to comprehensively address blood safety and injection safety in Africa under the Global AIDS program, to be completed and submitted to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate no later than 120 days after enactment of this Act. The plan should ensure that all injections occur in a safe manner, through provision of an adequate supply of safe injection equipment, preferably non-reusable syringes, provider education, and waste management, and to foster "appropriate use" of injections in order to reduce the number of unnecessary injections administered. Similarly, the plan should reflect an emphasis on both increasing the blood supply through donor recruitment and ensuring its safety through proper screening of donors and donated blood as well as the development or improvement of a robust national blood service. In addition, provision should be made for provider education and other measures necessary to ensure the appropriate use of donated blood and to discourage unnecessary or inappropriate uses.

Immunization

The conference agreement includes a discretionary program level total of $633,385,000 for immunization, instead of $650,586,000 as proposed by the House and $641,686,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, $14,000,000 is for national immunization surveys to be derived from section 241 evaluation set-aside funds, the same as proposed by the Senate. The House bill included no similar provision.

The conferees note that the National Vaccine Program Office, formerly housed within CDC, will be transferred to the Office of the Secretary. Accordingly, the appropriation for immunization has been reduced and the $7,301,000 requested to support that office is appropriated within the Office of the Secretary, General Departmental Management account.

In addition, the Vaccines for Children (VFC) program funded through the Medicaid program is expected to provide $980,196,000 in vaccine purchases and distribution support in fiscal year 2004, for a total immunization program level of $1,627,581,000.

Included in the amount provided is $495,464,000 for the section 317 program, and $151,921,000 for global immunization activities. Within the total available for global immunization, $106,400,000 is for global polio eradication activities, and $45,521,000 for other global activities, including the global measles program.

The conferees are aware of sensitivities about research involving the safety of childhood vaccines. CDC's Vaccine Safety Datalink Data Sharing Program allows external researchers to assess vaccine safety by analyzing data from managed care organizations. The conferees believe that it is essential that these data be available in a way that allows for independent review while at the same time protects confidentiality and complies with regulations for the protection of human subjects involved in research. The conferees urge that CDC continue to assure access to these data and appropriately preserve final datasets for vaccine safety studies and datasets created by CDC for external researchers through the Vaccine Safety Datalink Data Sharing Program.

Infectious Diseases

The conference agreement includes $372,503,000 for infectious diseases instead of $382,226,000 as proposed by the House and $372,760,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Within the total provided, $9,000,000 above fiscal year 2003 is provided for areas of highest scientific and programmatic priority for preparing and responding to present and emerging infectious disease threats.

Within the total provided, $2,000,000 above fiscal year 2003 is to augment CDC's resources for supporting States in developing and implementing effective surveillance, prevention, and mosquito control to effectively combat West Nile Virus and support research on the biology of the disease.

Within the total provided, $911,000 above fiscal year 2003 is to expand research, prevention and control activities on malaria and to continue CDC's Global Malaria Initiative.

Within the total provided, $1,000,000 above fiscal year 2003 is to expand and improve surveillance, research, and prevention activities on prion disease. The conferees intend that a significant portion of the increase be used to expand support for the National Prion Disease Pathology Surveillance Center to augment the national autopsy network for prion disease surveillance.

Within the total, $2,200,000 is provided to continue the thalassemia blood safety surveillance program.

The conferees are deeply concerned by the largest known outbreak of Hepatitis A in the Nation, which has been developing in western Pennsylvania over the last few weeks. The conferees understand that a CDC field investigation team is in Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania working with State and local health officials to determine the source of the outbreak and limit the spread of the disease. The conferees commend the CDC's response, and expect the CDC to continue and expand these efforts to contain this specific outbreak and to prevent future occurrences.

The conferees are pleased that CDC has branched into new areas of Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS) research and medical education in the four-year period in which the $12,900,000 is being restored to the CFS program. The conferees expect that the payback period will be extended through fiscal year 2005.

Injury Control

The conference agreement includes $154,632,000 for injury control, instead of $152,414,000 as proposed by the House and $152,409,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Within the total provided, $3,750,000 is to extend implementation of the National Violent Death Reporting System, $8,700,000 is for child maltreatment prevention activities, and $5,224,000 is for the Traumatic Brain Injury prevention program. In addition, sufficient funds are included to continue support for all existing Injury Control Research Centers.

Occupational Safety and Health

The conference agreement provides $236,985,000 for occupational safety and health, instead of $273,385,000 as proposed by the House and $240,485,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, $41,900,000 is available to carry out Research Tools and Approaches activities within the National Occupational Research Agenda (NORA) to be derived from section 241 evaluation set-aside funds as proposed by the Senate. This brings the comparable program level to $278,885,000. The House bill had no similar provision.

Within the total provided, $19,700,000 is for the Education and Research Centers and $26,000,000 above the request is for research activities in support of implementation of NORA.

Also within the total provided, $3,500,000 above the fiscal year 2003 level is provided for the National Personal Protective Technologies Laboratory. The conferees intend that the funds be used in the manner outlined in the Senate report.

The conference agreement also includes sufficient funds to continue the farm health and safety initiative, the construction safety and health program, and to purchase personal dosimetry monitors as outlined in the House report.

Public Health Improvement

The conference agreement includes $143,082,000 for public health improvement instead of $144,530,000 as proposed by the House and $106,789,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, $28,600,000 is available to carry out information systems standards development and architecture and applications-based research used at local public health levels to be derived from section 241 evaluation set-aside funds, as proposed by the Senate. The House bill included no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes $15,000,000 within Public Health Improvement to expand public health research that is determined by the Director as having high scientific and programmatic priority.

Funds requested within public health improvement for development and implementation of a nationwide environmental health-tracking network have been provided for within the CDC's environmental health activities program.

Office of the Director

The conference agreement includes $59,707,000 for the activities of the Office of the Director, the same as proposed by the Senate. The House proposed $49,707,000 for the Office of the Director.

The conferees understand that CDC has elevated its Office of Genomics and Disease Prevention to the Office of the CDC Director and encourage CDC to continue its work to integrate genomics across public health research and practice.

The conferees understand the urgent need to contact, inform, and mobilize physicians during public health emergencies. The conferees encourage the CDC to form partnerships with entities and organizations that have databases of physician contact information to facilitate rapid communication of public health alerts.

The conferees urge CDC to continue its efforts to address the unique needs of Native Hawaiians on dialysis in a culturally sensitive manner.

The conferees are aware of potential cost savings that may result from improved information technology, administrative, and management processes and practices. The conferees intend that any savings accrued in fiscal year 2004 as a result of these improvements must come only from internal operational savings of the agency, and may be refocused only into other intramural activities or extramural Public Health Research activities related to the purposes for which those funds were originally appropriated.

NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

NATIONAL CANCER INSTITUTE

The conference agreement includes $4,770,519,000 for the National Cancer Institute as proposed by both the House and the Senate.

To increase the likelihood of a cure for every child with cancer, the conferees urge NCI to increase its support of translational research to accelerate the pace of pediatric cancer clinical trials. The existing NCI-supported national infrastructure of a clinical trials network should be the dominant component of this accelerated effort.

The conferees encourage the Director of NCI to establish a task force to explore the continuing unique needs of the peoples of Hawaii and the Pacific Basin region.

The conferees concur with language in the House report regarding the importance of the collaboration between NCI and CDC regarding tobacco harm reduction. In addition, the conferees urge the NCI to examine what additional scientific research is needed to determine the relative risks of different tobacco products.

NATIONAL HEART, LUNG AND BLOOD INSTITUTE

The conference agreement includes $2,897,145,000 for the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute instead of $2,897,595,000 as proposed by the Senate and $2,867,995,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees encourage NHLBI, in collaboration with the Office of Rare Diseases, to develop standards of care for pulmonary and cardiac complications associated with Duchenne muscular dystrophy.

The conferees urge NHLBI to develop a set of treatment guidelines for von Willebrand disease and further urge the Institute to work with medical associations and experts in the field when developing such guidelines.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF DENTAL AND CRANIOFACIAL RESEARCH

The conference agreement includes $385,796,000 for the National Institute of Dental and Craniofacial Research instead of $386,396,000 as proposed by the Senate and $382,396,000 as proposed by the House.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF DIABETES AND DIGESTIVE AND KIDNEY DISEASES

The conference agreement includes $1,682,457,000 for the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases instead of $1,683,007,000 as proposed by the Senate and $1,670,007,000 as proposed by the House. An amount of $150,000,000 is also available to the Institute through a permanent appropriation for juvenile diabetes.

The conferees recognize the research supported by the NIDDK digestive diseases branch that is dedicated to the treatment of functional gastrointestinal disorders, which include irritable bowel syndrome. In addition to this important research, the conferees encourage the digestive diseases branch to support and fund basic, translational and clinical research dedicated to developing effective diagnostic tests and innovative treatments for gastrointestinal motility disorders involving enteric neuromuscular dysfunction including, but not limited to, chronic intestinal pseudo-obstruction, gastroparesis, and colonic inertia.

The conferees were pleased to learn of the recent discovery that an existing drug, already used on humans to treat irregular fluid retention has also been found to retard cyst production and disease progression in polycystic kidney disease. The conferees urge NIDDK to conduct clinical trials to follow up on these recent breakthroughs.

Branched chain ketoaciduria is a rare inherited disorder that prevents the proper metabolism of the three branched-chain amino acids found in all protein, and can lead to mental retardation, physical disabilities and death. The conferees are aware of modeling research currently being performed on mice, with the goal of finding a permanent cure for the disease. The conferees encourage NIDDK to provide support for this type of research and other branched chain ketoaciduria-related research.

The conferees applaud NIDDK for their efforts to combat childhood obesity and encourage them to consider particular use of the CDC's Prevention Research Centers as a mechanism through which to award competitive grants for this initiative.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF NEUROLOGICAL DISORDERS AND STROKE

The conference agreement includes $1,510,776,000 for the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke instead of $1,468,926,000 as proposed by the House and $1,510,926,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees urge NINDS to increase its overall investment in multiple sclerosis (MS) research. Special emphasis on imaging, biological markers and clinical trials for new therapeutics should be areas of high priority. The conferees are pleased to note the development of a joint symposium on MS genetics sponsored by NINDS and the National MS Society, and encourage the Institute to take a more active role at the NIH in furthering MS genetics research by developing collaborative strategies with the National Human Genome Research Institute and other relevant NIH institutes. The conferees request that NIH report back to Congress no later than September 30, 2004 with progress in its efforts to expand its commitment to multiple sclerosis. The conferees also are pleased to note a major success in past years in the creation of a joint collaborative research program in "gender and immunity" between the National Institute on Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) and a major voluntary association for the disease, in which NINDS participates. The conferees encourage NINDS to seek similar collaborative activities related to MS.

The conferees urge NINDS, in collaboration with the National Institute on Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases and the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, to accelerate clinical trials to improve treatment for patients with Duchenne muscular dystrophy. The conferees encourage NINDS to actively seek and assess clinical trial proposals and to expedite the review process for clinical research in Duchenne muscular dystrophy. The conferees strongly encourage the funding of three additional centers of excellence by the end of fiscal year 2004.

Stroke is the second leading cause of death among women worldwide and kills more than twice as many women as do breast cancer and AIDS combined. Recognizing that women are the single largest group at risk for death from stroke, the conferees believe that special attention should be focused on better understanding the gender differences with specific attention to stroke related to pregnancy; the use of oral contraceptives; and the impact of postmenopausal hormone replacement therapy on stroke risk. The conferees further urge NIH to increase research into new therapies for stroke in women as well as ways of enhancing the vascular health of all Americans, including (1) a clinical trial of carotid endarterectomy and angioplasty/stenting in women, (2) observational research on differences in the way men and women present with stroke symptoms, and (3) studies of differences in how men and women respond to FDA-approved antiplatelet agents for recurrent stroke prevention.

The conferees strongly support NIH's initiatives toward advancing the organization of stroke care and the identification of stroke treatment and research centers that would provide rapid, early, continuous 24-hour treatment to stroke victims, including the use of the clot-buster t-PA, when appropriate.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF ALLERGY AND INFECTIOUS DISEASES

The conference agreement includes $4,335,155,000 for the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases instead of $4,335,255,000 as proposed by both the House and the Senate.

The conference agreement includes bill language permitting the transfer of $150,000,000 to International Assistance Programs, Global Fund to Fight HIV/AIDS, Malaria, and Tuberculosis as proposed by the Senate instead of $100,000,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees encourage NIAID to enhance its research efforts to identify the cause of eosinophilic-myalgia syndrome and to characterize better the pathophysiological events of this disease. The conferees support the Institute's efforts to support a workshop in 2004 to evaluate the current state of knowledge on EMS. The conferees anticipate that the workshop will identify new scientific opportunities related to the pathogenesis of EMS and improved diagnosis, treatment and prevention strategies.

The conferees are concerned about the pace of research in the area of chronic fatigue and immune dysfunction syndrome. The conferees encourage NIAID, in collaboration with NINDS and NIMH, to increase its research portfolio in the areas of CFIDS. The conferees further request that the NIH report to the Committees on Appropriations by

March 1, 2004, on the number of grants specifically devoted to CFIDS research, over the past five years.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF GENERAL MEDICAL SCIENCES

The conference agreement includes $1,916,333,000 for the National Institute of General Medical Sciences instead of $1,923,133,000 as proposed by the House and $1,917,033,000 as proposed by the Senate.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF CHILD HEALTH AND HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

The conference agreement includes $1,250,585,000 for the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development instead of $1,245,371,000 as proposed by the House and $1,251,185,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees urge NICHD to continue its cooperation and participation in the Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy programs of the National Institute on Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases and NINDS. The conferees commend NICHD for its involvement in the Paul Wellstone Centers of Excellence programs for Muscular Dystrophy, and urge its ongoing commitment to assist the funding of clinical trials proposals and expedite the review process for clinical research in Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy, in addition to its investment in new Centers of Excellence.

NATIONAL EYE INSTITUTE

The conference agreement includes $657,199,000 for the National Eye Institute as proposed by the Senate instead of $648,299,000 as proposed by the House.

The conferees commend the NIH Director's initiative to advance translational clinical research through the joint efforts of the various Institutes, often in partnership with private organizations focused on clinical research and patient participation. The conferees are aware of a proposal for a national conference on translational clinical research for orphan eye diseases. The Director of the NEI is encouraged to consider providing support for this important effort.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH SCIENCES

The conference agreement includes $636,974,000 for the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences instead of $630,774,000 as proposed by the House and $637,074,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees recognize the complex environmental exposures faced by the residents of rural areas. NIEHS is urged to address rural environmental concerns through its environmental health sciences core centers program.

The conferees encourage NIEHS to continue its support for critical research required to fill data gaps in environmental health, with special concern for children's health, including the effects of mixtures of chemicals on developing nervous systems; accurate exposure levels for environmental chemicals; and the development of predictive models of chemical effects on developing systems. The conferees encourage the NIEHS to collaborate with the CDC on research focused on environmental chemical mixtures and computational modeling.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE ON AGING

The conference agreement includes $1,031,311,000 for the National Institute on Aging instead of $994,411,000 as proposed by the House and $1,031,411,000 as proposed by the Senate.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF ARTHRITIS AND MUSCULOSKELETAL AND SKIN DISEASES

The conference agreement includes $504,300,000 for the National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases instead of $502,778,000 as proposed by the House and $505,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees urge NIAMS, in collaboration with NINDS and NICHD, to accelerate clinical trials to improve treatment for patients with Duchenne muscular dystrophy. The conferees encourage NIAMS to actively seek and assess clinical trial proposals and to expedite the review process for clinical research in Duchenne muscular dystrophy. The conferees encourage the funding for three additional centers of excellence by the end of fiscal year 2004.

The conferees commend NIAMS for conducting a workshop on the "Burden of Skin Diseases." The workshop participants found that there was a lack of specific data on this topic and recommended that general and skin disease-specific measures of the burden of skin disease be developed in order to generate data on the incidence, prevalence, economic burden, quality of life, disability, and handicaps attributable to these diseases. The conferees concur with the guidance in the Senate report regarding limits for NIH reprogramming requests.

The conferees concur in the House report language indicating that the proposal to multi-year fund some or all NIH grants is not approved.

The conferees recognize that breakthroughs in the physical sciences underpin many of the remarkable advances in the life sciences that have been achieved during the last century. Increasingly, the boundaries between the life sciences and the physical sciences are being blurred, as capacities and talents bridging the disciplines are essential for modern experimentation and discovery. Accordingly, the conferees believe that a major effort must be undertaken to promote the advancement of research at the interface between the life sciences and the physical sciences. This interface occurs in many agencies including NIH, NSF, Office of Science, Department of Energy, DARPA, NASA, NOAA, and others. The conferees commend NIH for its plans to evaluate, as part of the NIH Roadmap process, what steps need to be taken to encourage progress in the physical sciences that will provide support and underpinning for future advances in the life sciences and to convene a conference to discuss this issue with other Federal agencies.

The conferees commend NIH for recently awarding nine five-year grants to expand research on autoimmune disease and to increase the number of autoimmunity centers of excellence. This coordinated approach, under the NIH Autoimmune Diseases Coordinating Committee, involves the full spectrum of NIH Institutes. It marks a promising start in implementing the recommendations of the NIH Autoimmune Diseases Research Plan.

The Committee encourages the Office of Rare Diseases to work in association with NINDS in studying Niemann-Pick Type C, a rare metabolic disorder in which harmful quantities of cholesterol and other fatty substances accumulate in the spleen, liver, lungs, bone marrow and most often in the brain.

The conferees urge NIH to support the efforts of universities, medical schools, scientific societies and other groups that are working to develop and implement a system for voluntary, peer-driven accreditation of organizations throughout the country which are engaged in research involving human subjects.

The conferees encourage the Office of Dietary Supplements and NCCAM to review and consider funding research to elucidate the mechanisms of action of the B vitamins and antioxidant phytochemicals in berries so that work in animal models can be extended to human studies. Research with animals has shown that diets containing berry fruits (such as blueberries) as well as B vitamins can forestall and perhaps reverse many of the neurological changes that are associated with age-related neurodegenerative conditions such as Parkinson's and Alzheimer's disease.

Due to extensive community concerns about the proposed construction of a BSL–3 lab on NIH's main Bethesda, MD campus, the conferees expect NIH to: (1) submit a report to the Senate and House Appropriations Committees within 60 days of enactment of this Act detailing the reasons why NIH believes the lab should not be built at Fort Detrick, MD; (2) provide the community with detailed information regarding ongoing risk assessments and proposed safety policies to protect NIH employees and the local community; and (3) provide a mechanism for ongoing involvement between NIH and the local community to provide information about lab safety, research, and activities.

UPMC Horizon, Farrell, PA for stabilizing the workforce for patient care	503,000
Williamsport Hospital & Medical Center, Williamsport, PA for stabilizing the workforce for patient care	613,000
Wyoming Valley Health Care System, Wilkes-Barre, PA for stabilizing the workforce for patient care	965,000

The conference agreement includes bill language identifying $30,000,000 for the CMS revitalization plan as proposed by the Senate instead of $65,000,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement does not include language that was in the House bill identifying $129,000,000 for processing Medicare appeals. Funding is included to support the Social Security Administration's costs of Medicare hearings workloads.

The conference agreement includes $1,722,889,000 for Medicare operations instead of $1,776,889,000 as proposed by both the House and the Senate. The conference agreement does not include the $98,000,000 reduction to Medicare operations included in general provision 217 of the House bill. The conference agreement includes bill language proposed by the Senate making up to an additional $18,000,000 available to CMS for Medicare claims processing if unit costs of claims exceed particular thresholds. The House bill did not contain similar language.

The conferees are concerned that the proposed Medicare "75% Rule" classifying inpatient rehabilitation facilities (IRFs) would have severe consequences for access to inpatient services. The conferees concur with the Medicare Payment Advisory Commission (MedPAC) finding that further analysis should be conducted to identify which criteria are clinically appropriate for inclusion in the calculation of the rule used to determine eligibility for reimbursement under the IRF prospective payment system. The conferees direct CMS to contract with the Institute of Medicine to issue a report, in consultation with a panel of independent experts in the field of physical medicine and rehabilitation, to establish clinically appropriate standards for medical necessity and clinically appropriate qualification criteria for IRFs. During the study period, the conferees expect the Secretary to delay implementation of the 75% rule, delay implementation of local medical review policies concerning medical necessity, and not accept new IRF applications until the report is finished.

The conferees are concerned that CMS has not updated since 1992 the relative values code for the provision of portable services, such as X-rays, despite the statutory requirement to update these codes every five years. This failure may be contributing to the utilization of more costly care settings. The conferees urge the Secretary, within 90 days of enactment of this Act, to review the relative values code for portable X-ray providers and to update this code utilizing existing data.

The conferees are aware that a final rule to revise the 2004 Medicare Fee Schedule for payment to physicians was issued on November 7, 2003. The rule will change payment for physicians managing dialysis patients to reflect the varying number of visits performed each month to an end-stage renal disease (ESRD) patient. Yet, there appears to be no published evidence that visiting dialysis patients more frequently than once per month correlate with improved outcomes. Moreover, the conferees are concerned that this change in payment methodology may have serious implications for ESRD patients who reside in rural communities. The conferees understand that it is equally plausible that the quality of an individual visit is more critical to ensuring optimal outcomes than is the frequency of visits. Therefore, the conferees expect CMS to consult with the General Accounting Office, the Relative Value Update Committee, and clinical nephrology societies, as well as relevant provider and patient organizations, to evaluate and develop an alternative payment reform that facilitates enhanced physician/dialysis patient interaction and outcomes.

ADMINISTRATION FOR CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

Payments to States for Child Support Enforcement and Family Support Programs

The conference agreement provides $3,292,970,000 for payments to States for child support enforcement and family support programs. The House bill had proposed $3,292,970,000 and the Senate bill had proposed $3,292,270,000.

Low-Income Home Energy Assistance

The conference agreement provides $1,900,000,000 for low-income home energy assistance rather than $1,800,000,000 as proposed by the House and $2,000,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of the amount provided $1,800,000,000 is provided for formula grants to States. The House bill had proposed $1,700,000,000 for State formula grants and the Senate bill proposed $2,000,000,000. Within the funds available, $27,500,000 is included for the leveraging incentive fund as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $100,000,000 as proposed by the House for the contingency fund to meet the additional home energy assistance needs arising from a natural disaster or other emergency. The Senate bill did not include funds for the contingency fund. The conferees expect the Secretary to consider the factors identified in the statute when making decisions about the release of funds. The conferees are aware that the Secretary formally notifies the authorizing committees in advance of issuing grants from LIHEAP contingency funds, pursuant to Section 2604(e) of the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Act of 1981 (42 U.S.C. 8623(e)). The conferees request that the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations receive copies of such notifications in advance of issuing grants. The conferees urge the Department to provide regular information on significant, unanticipated changes in home heating and cooling costs and to receive quarterly reports on significant variances in regional weather data and fuel prices to the Committees on Appropriations and the appropriate authorizing committees. Such reports should be provided within 30 days of the end of any fiscal quarter in which LIHEAP contingency funds remain available for obligation. In addition, the conferees request for any quarter in which there is a release of funds to receive a detailed explanation of the factors used to determine the distribution of funds among States.

The conferees are aware that one of the criteria for release of emergency funds is a significant increase in disconnections. The precursor to disconnection is a household in arrearage. The conferees believe that helping families prior to disconnection would prevent safety and health concerns surrounding a household without energy services. For that reason, the conferees urge the Secretary to monitor arrearage trends nationwide and consider a significant increase in arrearage rates as part of the disconnection criteria.

Refugee and Entrant Assistance

The conference agreement includes $450,276,000 for the refugee and entrant assistance programs rather than $461,853,000 as proposed by the House and $428,056,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $170,000,000 for the transitional and medical services programs rather than $200,193,000 as proposed by the House and $180,000,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees recognize the positive outcomes achieved for individuals served through the matching grant fund program. Therefore, the conferees encourage the Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR) to ensure that the matching grant program is not disproportionately affected by the funding reductions proposed due to lower admissions to the United States. The conferees request, as part of the fiscal year 2005 Congressional budget justification, that the ORR provide a detailed breakdown on the plan for allocating funding under the transitional and medical services program.

The conference agreement provides $9,968,000 for both the victims of trafficking program and the victims of torture program. The House bill had included $10,000,000 for each program and the Senate bill had proposed $9,935,000 for each program.

The conference agreement provides $153,121,000 for social services, the same level as proposed in the House bill. The Senate had proposed $140,000,000 for this program. Within funds provided, the conference agreement includes $19,000,000 for increased support to communities with large concentrations of Cuban and Haitian refugees of varying ages whose cultural differences make assimilation especially difficult justifying a more intense level and longer duration of Federal assistance for healthcare and education.

The conference agreement includes $4,820,000 for preventive health rather than $4,835,000 as proposed by the House and $4,804,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $49,316,000 for targeted assistance. The House bill had proposed $49,477,000 and the Senate had proposed $49,155,000 for this program.

The conference agreement provides $53,083,000 for the unaccompanied alien children program rather than $34,227,000 as proposed by both the House and Senate. These additional funds will enable the Office of Refugee Resettlement to meet its obligations under the Homeland Security Act, which transferred the administration of this program from the former Immigration and Naturalization Service. The conferees intend that funding provided above the budget request be used to continue making progress toward providing appropriate facilities for the care of children; improving medical services that address the needs of such children; and enhancing the legal representation for those involved in this program.

The conferees recognize the importance of continued educational support to schools with a significant proportion of refugee children, consistent with previous support to schools heavily impacted by large concentrations of refugees, and urge the Office of Refugee Resettlement to support these efforts should funding become available in the social services or other programs.

Payments to States for the Child Care and Development Block Grant

The conference agreement includes $2,099,729,000 for the child care and development block grant, the same level as both the House and Senate bills. Included in the bill is $9,864,000 within the total funds provided, for child care research, demonstration, and evaluation activities as proposed by the House. The Senate bill had included $10,000,000 for these activities.

Social Services Block Grant

The conference agreement provides $1,700,000,000 for the social services block grant, the same level as proposed in both the House and Senate bills. The conference agreement provides 10 percent transfer authority between the social services block grant and the temporary assistance for needy families program (TANF). The House bill had proposed 5.5 percent transferability. The Senate did not include a similar provision.

Children and Families Services Programs

The conference agreement includes $8,822,097,000 for children and families services programs, of which $6,000,000 is provided through the evaluation set-aside. The House proposed $8,614,670,000 for these programs and the Senate proposed $8,788,457,000, of which $6,000,000 was from the evaluation set-aside.

Head Start

The conference agreement includes $6,815,570,000 for Head Start, the same as both the House and Senate bills. The agreement includes $1,400,000,000 in advance funding, the same level as proposed by both the House and Senate.

The conferees are aware that approximately one-third of Head Start programs are affiliated with public school systems and often combine or coordinate the transportation of Head Start, preschool, and K–12 students. In addition, many center-based Head Start programs coordinate with local transit authorities to provide supervised transportation to Head Start children whose parents work non-traditional hours or whose geographical distance from the parent's place of employment creates a barrier to Head Start participation. Differences between Head Start transportation regulations, promulgated by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and those promulgated by State and local authorities, may have the unintended consequence of reducing transportation services for Head Start students, and in turn, decrease transportation options for children. These differences may leave Head Start children without transportation or relying on parents to provide transportation in their vehicles.

The conferees recognize that children's safety is the most important consideration and that many students participating in Head Start programs need access to safe and reliable transportation provided by public schools or local transit systems. For this reason, the conferees direct the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services to offer a waiver option to local educational agency-contracted Head Start programs that provide integrated transportation to Head Start students. In cases where public schools or local transit authorities provide Head Start services, local educational agencies should have the option to comply with transportation standards for preschool students mandated by the State or local educational agencies, transit agencies, State Departments of Transportation or the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Consolidated Runaway and Homeless Youth Program

The conference agreement includes $89,978,000 for the consolidated runaway and homeless youth program, the same level as proposed by the Senate, rather than $88,043,000 as proposed by the House. Within the funds provided, $40,505,000 is available for the transitional living program (TLP) and $49,473,000 is for basic centers as proposed by the Senate.

Prevention Grants To Reduce Abuse of Runaway Youth

The conference agreement includes $15,399,000 for prevention grants to reduce abuse of runaway youth as proposed by the Senate. The House bill had proposed $14,999,000 for these grants.

Child abuse

The conference agreement includes $34,623,000 for child abuse discretionary programs instead of $26,301,000 as proposed by the House and $28,401,000 as proposed by the Senate. Within the funds provided for child abuse prevention programs, the agreement includes the following items:

The conference agreement provides $12,126,000 for the abandoned infants assistance program, the same level as proposed by the Senate. The House bill had proposed $12,086,000 for this program.

Child Welfare Services

The conference agreement provides $291,037,000 for child welfare services rather than $291,986,000 as proposed by the House and $290,088,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Child Welfare Training

The conference agreement includes $7,460,000 for child welfare training rather than $7,470,000 as proposed by the House and $7,449,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Adoption Opportunities

The conference agreement includes $27,285,000 for the adoption opportunities program rather than $27,343,000 as proposed by the House and $27,227,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Adoption Incentives

The conference agreement provides $35,000,000 for the adoption incentive program for bonuses for adoptions completed prior to the end of fiscal year 2004, $27,500,000 of which is unused fiscal year 2003 funds, instead of $43,000,000 as proposed by the House and $42,720,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement includes bill language, which allows funds appropriated for bonus payments in Public Law 108-7 and available for obligation through September 30, 2004 to be used to make bonus payments for adoptions completed before September 30, 2004. The conferees note that the number of adoptions from the public foster care system has increased significantly over the past several years, rising from 27,761 in fiscal year 1997 to 50,179 in fiscal year 2002. As a result of this increase and based on the most recent estimates, fewer resources will be needed in fiscal year 2004 to make bonus payments to States for the full amount for which they are eligible under this program.

Adoption Awareness

The conference agreement includes $12,864,000 for the adoption awareness program rather than $12,906,000 as proposed by the House and $12,822,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Compassion Capital Fund

The conference agreement includes $48,000,000 for the compassion capital fund, instead of $50,000,000 as proposed by the House and $34,772,000 as proposed by the Senate.

Social Services and Income Maintenance Research

The conference agreement includes $18,767,000 for social services and income maintenance research, of which $6,000,000 is provided through the evaluation set-aside. The House had proposed $5,982,000 for this program and the Senate proposed $31,812,000, of which $6,000,000 was from the evaluation set-aside.

The conferees note that efforts undertaken through the State information technology consortium have led to greatly improved systems communications and compliance in both the TANF and child support enforcement (CSE) programs. For TANF, the conferees have provided $2,000,000 to permit States to utilize uniquely designed web-based technology to improve benefit delivery and fulfill new Federal reporting requirements. For CSE, the conferees have provided $3,000,000 to continue the consortium's efforts to improve data exchange between CSE and the courts in ways that will significantly reduce the time lag between court orders and enforcement/collections activities.

The conferees are concerned that children continue to be left unaccounted for and underserved within State child welfare systems. Protecting the Nation's most vulnerable populations, especially youth in State protective care, should receive significant attention. The conferees are aware of a project being developed by Rx for Reading that would provide a model for a case management tool housing all of the health and education records of children in the care of the counties of the State of California, including those in foster care and residential facilities, in a web browser-based database. The conferees understand that this database could replace a number of stand alone, antiquated databases and automate manual record keeping, which would enable caregivers, foster families, educators, doctors and case workers to easily access and update information relating to their services and functions through secure portals.

The conferees also provide sufficient funding for the following:

Alaska Children's Services of Anchorage for operations of programs to serve needs of at risk, low income youth in Anchorage	$300,000
Buckeye Ranch, Grove City, OH, for the Applied Violence and Prevention Research program	350,000

Within the funds for special projects, $4,000,000 is available to expand activities for the Family Support Program. For university-affiliated programs, the agreement includes $26,962,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $25,000,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement includes $15,000,000 for the disabled voter services programs. Within the funds provided, $10,000,000 shall be for payments to States to promote disabled voter access as proposed by the Senate rather than $13,000,000 as proposed by the House and $5,000,000 shall be for payments to States for disabled voter protection and advocacy, the same level as proposed by the Senate. The House had proposed $2,000,000 for protection and advocacy.

The conferees are aware that funding for protection and advocacy services under section 291 of the Help America Vote Act currently is not being made available to protection and advocacy services that specifically address the Native American community. Native Americans with disabilities experience unique challenges in exercising the right to vote. For that reason, the conferees intend that organizations providing protection and advocacy services to Native Americans as defined in the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act should also be deemed an eligible entity under the Help America Vote Act.

Native American Programs

The conference agreement includes $45,457,000 for Native American programs as proposed by the Senate, instead of $45,119,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement includes $45,000,000 for Independent Living Training Vouchers as proposed by the House instead of $41,727,000 as proposed by the Senate.

PROMOTING SAFE AND STABLE FAMILIES

The conference agreement includes $100,000,000 for the discretionary grant program of promoting safe and stable families as proposed by the House rather than $99,350,000 as proposed by the Senate.

ADMINISTRATION ON AGING

AGING SERVICES PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes $1,381,689,000 for aging services programs instead of $1,377,421,000 as proposed by the House and $1,361,193,000 as proposed by the Senate. Within the total, $5,500,000 is available for medication management, screening, and education activities as proposed by the Senate. The House had proposed $5,000,000 for these activities.

The conference agreement includes $19,559,000 for protection of vulnerable Americans activities, as proposed by the Senate, instead of $18,559,000 as proposed by the House. Within the funds provided $14,361,000 is provided for ombudsman services and $5,198,000 is for the prevention of elder abuse program.

The conference agreement provides $160,000,000 for the caregivers programs. Of the total provided, $153,645,000 is for family caregivers rather than $162,000,000 as proposed by the House and $149,025,000 as proposed by the Senate and $6,355,000 is provided for Native American caregivers support rather than $6,500,000 as proposed by the House and $6,209,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $718,704,000 for nutrition programs rather than $720,655,000 as proposed by the House and $716,964,000 as proposed by the Senate. Within the total, $388,646,000 is provided for congregate meals rather than $390,000,000 as proposed by the House and $387,292,000 as proposed by the Senate and $149,073,000 is provided for the nutrition services incentives program rather than $149,670,000 as proposed by the House and $148,697,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement provides $26,612,000 for grants for Native Americans rather than $25,729,000 as proposed by the House and $27,495,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes $33,223,000 for aging research, training and demonstrations instead of $30,837,000 as proposed by the House and $17,843,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees continue to support funding at no less than last year's level for national programs scheduled to be refunded in fiscal year 2004 that address a variety of issues, including elder abuse, native American issues and legal services.

Within the funding provided, the conference agreement includes $3,000,000 for social research into Alzheimer's disease care options, best practices and other Alzheimer's research priorities that include research into cause, cure and care, as well as respite care, assisted living, the impact of intervention by social service agencies on victims, and related needs. The agreement provides that this research utilize and give discretion to Area Agencies on Aging and their non-profit divisions in municipalities with aged populations (over the age of 60) of over 1,000,000, with preference given to the largest population. The conferees recommend that unique partnerships to affect this research be considered for the selected Area Agency on Aging.

Given the enormous demands on Alzheimer's family caregivers, the conferees have included $1,000,000 to support the continuation of an Alzheimer's family contact center for round-the-clock help to Alzheimer's families in crisis.

The conferees expect the Administration on Aging to continue to fund the National program of statewide senior legal services hotlines (also called legal help lines) at their current levels and ideally to provide an increase in the number of States served by these legal hotlines.

The conferees also include the following amounts under aging research, training, and demonstrations:

Adult Care Center of the Northern Shenandoah Valley, Inc., Winchester, VA, to study the use of complementary and alternative medicine for persons with Alzheimer's disease and related disorders	100,000

The conferees strongly support the Buy American Act, which was enacted in 1933 to ensure that the Federal government supports domestic companies and domestic workers by buying American-made goods. The Act includes a number of waiver provisions that allow Federal agencies to buy foreign goods in some circumstances, but there is little disclosure or accountability in the waiver process. The conferees direct the Secretary to issue a report not later than 60 days after the end of fiscal year 2004 on the amount of acquisitions made by the Department during such fiscal year of articles, materials, or supplies that were manufactured outside the United States. Such report shall separately indicate the dollar value of any articles, materials, or supplies purchased by the Department that were manufactured outside the United States, an itemized list of all waivers under the Buy American Act (41 U.S.C. 10a et seq.) that were granted with respect to such articles, materials, or supplies, and a summary of total procurement funds spent on goods manufactured in the United States versus funds spent on goods manufactured outside of the United States. The conference agreement does not include the bill language related to this report that was proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement provides $1,000,000 to reduce SIDS disparity rates and provide risk reduction education to African American and American Indian populations in the United States. The Senate bill included language making up to $2,000,000 available for this purpose. The House bill did not include a similar provision.

The conferees concur in the requirement in the Senate bill for an Institute of Medicine (IoM) study on mammography standards. The conferees have provided $500,000 to carry out the IoM study as described in the Senate bill. The IoM study should include an evaluation of interpretive skills assessments as a possible tool to improve physician interpretation of mammograms (after consultation with those who have expertise in interactive skills assessments) and how the annual medical outcomes audit required under Mammography Quality Standards Act regulations could be used to improve mammography quality and interpretation.

The conference report does not include within the General Departmental Management account $3,000,000 for the Public Health Service Commissioned Corps transformation and modernization effort as proposed by the Senate. Instead, these funds are provided in the Public Health and Social Services Emergency Fund.

The conferees have included $500,000 for a study by the Institute of Medicine focusing on the state of emergency care in the United States. The study should examine the different roles of emergency departments as emergency care provider, safety net provider, portal of entry provider and disaster response provider, along with an identification of the impediments to successfully performing those roles. The study should also examine workforce issues, including residency training and problems in obtaining emergency physicians in rural areas, information technology and systems issues that relate to speeding access and treatment to emergency patients while improving patient safety, and the development of a research agenda needed to provide the information necessary to ensure that the American people have access to the emergency medical services they require in the future.

The conferees direct that the effects statements required for the General Departmental Management account include a level of detail that identifies the funding for each Office in the Office of the Secretary, such as the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Administration and Management.

The conference agreement modifies House report language to direct the Secretary to request that Title X grantees voluntarily provide the following information regarding abortions: the number of Title X-funded sites that also provide abortions with non-Federal funds. The Secretary's request shall be limited to the above question with no additional information regarding the identity of the clinics or the patients receiving abortions. The conferees direct that when the Secretary requests the information, the letter of request should contain a statement making it clear that the grantees' responses shall be voluntary and without consequence, or threat of consequence, to non-responsiveness. The conferees further direct that the records documenting this information shall be retained by the grantee, and shall not be provided to the Secretary nor any other Federal, State, or local official or entity. The conferees expect the Secretary to provide a report to the House and Senate appropriations committees four months after enactment of this Act summarizing the volunteered information.

The conferees are concerned about underage drinking and the need to take immediate steps to better coordinate Federal efforts combating this problem facing our Nation. The conferees are aware of recommendations that the Secretary of Health and Human Services (HHS) establish an interagency committee on the prevention of underage drinking and issue an annual report summarizing all Federal agency activities concerning this issue, including key surveillance data and progress being made in reducing underage drinking. The conferees direct the Secretary to take immediate steps to implement these recommendations. In addition, the conferees direct the Secretary, in coordination with agencies such as SAMHSA and NIAAA, to prepare a plan for combating underage drinking, including the projected costs and next steps to be taken, and report progress on such a plan 90 days after enactment of this Act.

The conferees support the Administration's goals of ending chronic homelessness and creating 150,000 units of permanent supportive housing. However, the conferees believe these goals were not properly reflected in the Department's budget request. The Administration is instructed to include as part of its fiscal year 2005 budget request a description of new and continuing resources that are being applied to create and sustain permanent supportive housing for people experiencing chronic homelessness and a description of the resources necessary to achieve the goal of ending chronic homelessness.

Within the amount provided, sufficient funds are included to publish and widely disseminate the U.S. Surgeon General's report on osteoporosis and related bone diseases. In an effort to heighten public awareness of this report, the Surgeon General is encouraged to work with voluntary health organizations dedicated to promoting lifelong bone health.

The conferees urge the Department to begin a study on comprehensive pharmacy services. in light of changes in technology, distance and distributive learning models, the aging of the populations and the Department's study on the severe pharmacist shortage, to analyze how these factors may influence the nature of pharmaceutical education and interventions in healthcare.

The conferees direct that specific information requests from the chairmen and ranking members of the Subcommittees on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies, on scientific research or any other matter, shall be transmitted to the Committees on Appropriations in a prompt professional manner and within the time frame specified in the request. The conferees further direct that scientific information requested by the Committees on Appropriations and prepared by government researchers and scientists be transmitted to the Committees on Appropriations, uncensored and without delay.

By January 1, 2005, the Secretary shall develop policy recommendations and issue a report to Congress by which vision rehabilitation services would be provided by vision rehabilitation professionals in an appropriate setting, including the patient's home environs, acting under a qualified physician's general supervision. The report may include adopting a national credentialing measure, or other steps deemed necessary by the Secretary, that would ensure patient quality of care. In developing the recommendations, the Secretary should consult with the National Vision Rehabilitation Cooperative, the Association for Education and Rehabilitation of the Blind, the Academy for Certification of Vision Rehabilitation and Education Professionals, the American Academy of Ophthalmology, and the American Optometric Association and other interested organizations.

Policy Research

The conference agreement provides $20,750,000 for policy research from program evaluation funding. The House bill provided $20,483,000, of which $2,483,000 was Federal funds and $18,000,000 was program evaluation funding. The Senate bill provided $23,499,000, entirely from program evaluation funding.

Public Health and Social Services Emergency Fund

The conference agreement includes $1,776,846,000 for the Public Health and Social Services Emergency Fund (PHSSEF) to enhance Federal, State, and local preparedness to counter potential biological, disease, chemical, and radiological threats to civilian populations, the same as proposed by the House. The Senate proposed $1,856,040,000 for the Fund.

The agreement continues bill language applicable in prior fiscal years to allow the Secretary to transfer amounts specified in the account between categories subject to normal reprogramming procedures.

The conference agreement continues language, applicable during fiscal year 2003, exempting from any personnel ceiling applicable to the Agency, Service, or the Department of Health and Human Services both civilian and Commissioned Officers detailed to States, municipalities or other organizations under authority of Section 214 of the Public Health Service Act for purposes related to homeland security during their period of detail or assignment.

Within the amount provided: $1,116,156,000 is for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention; $545,870,000 is for the Health Resources and Services Administration; and $64,820,000 is for the Office of the Secretary.

The conferees note that funds requested within this account for Poison Control, and Emergency Medical Services for Children are provided within the Health Resources and Services Administration. This brings the comparable total for the Public Health and Social Services Emergency Fund to $1,820,700,000.

Within the amounts available to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC): $940,000,000 is for State and Local Preparedness, $158,116,000 is for Upgrading CDC Capacity; and $18,040,000 is for the fourth year of a collaborative research program on anthrax vaccine.

Within the amounts available for State and Local Preparedness, the conference agreement includes $847,456,000 for State Cooperative Agreements, $29,838,000 for Public Health Preparedness Centers and $5,500,000 for Centers for Advanced Local Public Health Practice.

Funds available for Public Health Preparedness Centers shall be used to establish collaborative programs with State and local public health agencies, enhance practice-based training of students, and to increase participation of public health practitioners in the Centers education and training activities.

The conferees concur with language in the Senate report concerning the needs of local health departments and encourage both the Director and the Secretary to ensure that funds appropriated for State and local public health preparedness are spent in a manner with which local public health officials concur. Furthermore, it is expected that local public health agencies will continue to be full partners in developing State preparedness plans.

The conferees note that the Health Alert Network now falls under the umbrella of the Public Health Information Network under development by the CDC. The conferees encourage CDC to provide adequate funding to improve public health capacity for electronic communication and data exchange at the local level in a manner consistent with the Public Health Information Network and with which local public health officials concur. This will enable enhanced local capacity that has resulted from HAN funding to continue.

The conference agreement includes $2,000,000 to continue to discover, develop, and transition anti-infective agents to combat emerging diseases from within amounts available for Upgrading CDC Capacity.

The conferees encourage CDC to conduct a demonstration project with World Medical Leaders to disseminate news, information, and alerts to physicians who are on the front lines in the effort to recognize biological, chemical, and radiological events.

Within the funds available to the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) is $518,000,000 for Hospital Preparedness and $27,870,000 to provide incentives for curricular reform in health professions schools and the delivery of continuing education to those already in practice.

The conferees recognize the importance of training in biopreparedness and response for emergency physicians and encourage HRSA to support the development of a national bioterrorism response course for practicing emergency physicians. The conferees further encourage HRSA to work with the relevant professional associations through which emergency physicians receive their continuing education credits.

The agreement includes $3,000,000 within funds provided to the Office of the Secretary to continue activities related to the transformation and modernization of the Public Health Service Commissioned Corps.

The conferees recognize the need for development of a comprehensive national strategy to address the Nation's medical response capabilities given the growing threat of biological, chemical, radiation or explosive weapons attacks in the United States. The conferees are aware that the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center (UPMC) is pursuing a comprehensive, integrated strategy for dealing with threats throughout the region. The conferees urge the Department to study the preparedness efforts of institutions such as UPMC, the effectiveness of these programs, and the feasibility of replicating this type of initiative nationwide.

The conferees are aware that a new technology, known as nanometal enhanced fluorescence (NanoMEF), offers promise for providing a rapid, ultra sensitive, method for the detection of bio-organisms, such as anthrax and smallpox. The conferees encourage the Director to review this promising technology and consider supporting its development from within the funds provided.

In addition to the funds for terrorism preparedness and response, the conference agreement includes $50,000,000 for activities to ensure year-round production capacity of influenza vaccine, the same as proposed by the House. The Senate proposed $100,000,000 for the same activities.

The conferees are disappointed that such benchmarks have not been provided to the Committees, despite commitments from the Assistant Secretary for Administration and Management to do so before the consolidation took effect. The conferees expect data in the report that would indicate the average and median length of time to post positions, the average and median length of time to complete hiring, the percentage of applicants accepting the position when offered, the number of transactions assigned per human resource FTE, and the estimated cost per transaction.

For Grants to Local Educational Agencies (LEAs) the agreement provides $12,412,000,000. Both the House and the Senate proposed $12,350,000,000 for this program. The conference agreement includes $7,107,283,000 for basic grants and $1,365,031,000 for concentration grants. The agreement also includes $1,969,843,000 for targeted grants, and $1,969,843,000 for education finance incentive grants. Concentration grants, targeted grants, and incentive grants are all provided on an advance-funded basis.

The conference agreement includes $248,375,000 for the Even Start program instead of $250,000,000 as proposed by the House and $175,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees commend the Office of Student Achievement and School Accountability for their efforts to coordinate and integrate existing Federal, State, and local literacy resources, including those provided under the Head Start program, Title I programs, and Adult Education programs, to strengthen and expand family literacy services. The conferees are aware that the 2003 report, "State Administration of the Even Start Family Literacy Program: Structure, Process and Practices", prepared by the U.S. Department of Education, calls for "Federal leadership to promote collection of core program and participant data that are comparable across States." The conferees also note that the report indicates "States differed greatly in every aspect of Even Start performance indicators that were submitted in June 2001, including the measures used, performance standards set, and subgroups to which the measurements and standards are to be applied," and recommends areas where "further development is needed to enable successful implementation of the [Performance Indicators] system."

The conferees believe that the development of program performance indicators is critical to the Even Start program, however the conferees also understand that much of this development must take place at the State level. Therefore, the conferees urge the Department of Education to work with State coordinators of the Even Start Family Literacy Program and national organizations representing family literacy programs in developing these indicators. The conferees are aware that similar efforts are underway in the adult education, Head Start, and elementary and secondary education programs and suggest that the frameworks and indicators developed under these programs could be adapted to the Even Start progam as well. The conferees also believe that the performance indicators should be consistent with the findings of the ongoing Even Start evaluation being conducted by the Institute for Education Sciences, as required by Title I (B) Sec. 1239 to "improve the performance and effectiveness" of adults and children participating in Even Start Family Literacy programs. The conferees look forward to receiving information in the 2005 Congressional Budget Justification about the Department's plans (including a timeline for implementation) for collecting this information.

In carrying out this study, the NAS should commission the collection of new data and conduct appropriate, rigorous analyses of such data. The conferees also expect that a similar scientific evaluation will be conducted on the outcomes of the work of the National Council on Teacher Quality (NCTQ) when available data will permit such an assessment and therefore urge NCTQ to begin to incorporate evaluation elements into the program now.
